| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Do hereby Demise lett and sett unto Thomas Cason Ensign and Free Islander a House and Forty Acres of Gumwood Land Lying Towards the North upon the Land of Thomas Coales deceased, and John Robinsons, Towards the East upon the Land of the Said John Robinsons, Towards the South upon the Land of Charles Steward and Towards the West upon the Land of Charles Steward and John Coles, Lying and being in Sandy Bay Commonly known by the Name of Welleys Land. To have and to hold the said house and Forty Acres of Gumwood Land to him the said Thomas Cason his Executors Administrators and Assignes For the Term of One and Twenty years Commencing from the day of the date hereof. Upon Condition that he the said Thomas Cason his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always do and bear true Faith and Allegiance To Our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heirs and Successors and to the Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, and Yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary being the Twenty Fifth day of March the Annuall Rent of Four Shillings p[er] Acre (Besides[s] One Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings) p[er] Annum in good and Currant Money of the said Island To the said Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors. And that he the said Thomas Cason his Executors Admi- nistrators and Assignes shall and do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty One Years leave the Fences about the said Land in as good Repair as they are Now and not to alter the Fences which are his Land Marks and which will Occasion the Alteration of the Plot here- unto Annexed nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the Consent of the Governour and Councell for the time being. In Witness whereof the said Hon[ble] United Company and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Twenty Seventh day of July in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Eleven and he the said Thomas Cason to the other part hath Set his hand and Seale. Tho[mas] Cason Signed and Delivered in the p[re]sence of Us Daniel Griffeth 3 in Coun[c]ill Matthew Bazett 4[th] in Coun[c]ill Thomas [...reef...] Reg[i]ster | and free islander, a house and 40 acres of gumwood land. The parcel lay in Sandy Bay and was commonly known as Welley's Land. The land was bounded to the north by the land of the late Thomas Coales and the land of John Robinson, to the east by the land of John Robinson, to the south by the land of Charles Steward, and to the west by the land of Charles Steward and John Coles. The lease ran to Thomas Cason and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from the date of the deed. Cason and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 27 July 1711, and Thomas Cason set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Daniel Griffeth third in council, Matthew Bazett fourth in council, and Thomas [...reef...] as register. Interpretations The grantee's status as ensign and free islander marks a dual classification combining military rank with civilian inhabitant status. The ensign was the most junior commissioned officer in the garrison, ranking below lieutenant and captain. The pairing of the military title with the free islander designation reproduces the practice noted across the 1700s records by which garrison officers held private estates alongside their commissions, with the leasehold framed by their civilian rather than military identity. The free islander designation, used here rather than the more usual free planter recorded across the present series, may reflect a deliberate distinction or simply scribal variation. The term islander emphasises inhabitant status without the agricultural connotation of planter, which would fit a holder whose military duties limited his direct cultivation of the land. The arrangement included a house with the leasehold, suggesting Cason would occupy the property as a residence as well as managing the cultivated ground. The substantial 40-acre size of the leasehold places Cason's tenure among the larger arrangements made under the 1711 framework. The combined annual rent at 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty on 40 acres produces a meaningful institutional revenue, with the standard institutional construction yielding £10 1s 0d per annum on the parcel. The working byname Welley's Land identifies the parcel by reference to an earlier holder not otherwise documented in the present records. The persistence of the byname across the change of tenure, alongside the formal Company description, preserved institutional memory of the earlier occupation under a name that probably reflected the family that had cultivated the ground before its reversion to Company tenure. The northern boundary against the land of the late Thomas Coales fixes Coales's death before 27 July 1711. The Coales family had earlier appeared in the records as Henry Coales of Pleasant Valley in the 1682 inquest and as Henry Coales the late, the intermediate holder of the James Valley house between Edward Bryan and Richard Cleve. The present Thomas Coales as a Sandy Bay boundary holder may represent a separate branch of the family or a further generation. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | John Robinson appears on both the northern and eastern boundaries, indicating a substantial holding adjoining Welley's Land on two sides. The same John Robinson had earlier appeared as the western boundary of the Swallow lease and as the western boundary of the Gargen lease, both of 20 July 1711. The recurrence of Robinson across multiple boundary descriptions within a week of administrative business places him as a significant Sandy Bay holder whose estate touched several of the parcels being processed through the 1711 framework. Charles Steward as the southern and partially western boundary holder reproduces his earlier appearance as buyer of 20 acres in Sandy Bay from Richard Griffis (already in occupation) and as joint mortgagee with Orlando Bagley on the Joseph and Martha Fox mortgage of 18 August 1709. The 1711 boundary references confirm his territorial position across the western and southern sides of Welley's Land. John Coles on the western boundary may be the son and successor of John Coles who in 1696 sold 10 acres at the head of Fryer Valley to Thomas Goodwin, or a separate holder of the same name. The Sandy Bay location of the present boundary, set against the Fryer Valley location of the 1696 sale, suggests these are different parcels of the same family rather than a single holder spanning the island. The same-day pairing of freehold confirmation and leasehold execution noted in earlier 1711 transactions does not appear for Cason. The present lease stands alone without an accompanying freehold confirmation, indicating that Cason's interest in the parcel rested entirely on leasehold rather than on a confirmed core. The omission distinguishes his position from holders such as Swallow, Gargen, Belward and the Coulson household, all of whom received freehold confirmations alongside their leases. The witness panel of third in council, fourth in council and register matches the reduced quorum used across the 1711 leases. The continuity of Griffith, Bazett and the register Thomas [...]ree[...] across the leases of 9 June, 23 June, 20 July and 27 July 1711 confirms the stable composition of the leasehold quorum throughout the summer of 1711. The commencement clause runs the term from the day of the date hereof, rather than from the standard 25 March 1711 used in earlier leases of the present series. The variation produces an awkward overlap with the Lady Day rent date, since the first rent payment would have fallen due eight months after the lease commenced. Speculations The grant of a leasehold of 40 acres together with a house, without any accompanying freehold confirmation, suggests Cason was being installed as a new tenant on ground that had reverted to the Company. The combination of named land (Welley's Land), an existing house and a 40-acre parcel points to the acquisition of a complete working unit rather than the formalisation of established private occupation. The 1711 procedure here served not merely to bring existing tenure within the new documentary framework but also to redistribute reverted Company ground to a newly installed tenant. The dating of the lease from the day of execution rather than from the standard 25 March commencement used elsewhere in the 1711 framework indicates that Cason's tenure was treated as starting on physical entry rather than being back-dated to the institutional year. The variation reinforces the impression of a fresh allocation distinct from the regularisation of established holdings, since back-dating would have given retrospective effect to a tenure that did not exist before the date of execution. The choice of a junior commissioned officer of the garrison as tenant of a substantial 40-acre Sandy Bay estate suggests the Company was using leasehold to compensate or reward military personnel by giving them productive |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | private ground under institutional control. Granting the parcel as a leasehold rather than as a freehold preserved the Company's reversionary interest at the end of the 21-year term and kept the disposal restriction in force, allowing the council to redirect the estate if Cason were posted elsewhere or left the service. The substantial rent obligation of around £10 1s 0d per annum on the 40-acre parcel imposed a significant ongoing cash burden on a junior officer, requiring him either to draw income from the cultivated ground itself or to maintain rent payments from his military pay. The arrangement thus integrated the cultivated economy of the leasehold with the institutional revenue stream of the Company, making the lessee's productive success directly relevant to the Company's annual receipts on the parcel.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 118          | 113          | Comp[a] Deed to W[m] Charles The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of London Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto William Charles Son and Heire of Paul Charles deceased, Ten Acres of Cabbage tree Land Lying and being in Sandy Bay Butting Towards the North under y[e] Main Ridge before James Pack, Towards y[e] East upon the Hon[ble] Companys Wast Land, Towards y[e] South upon Richard Swallows Land and Towards the West upon James Anders Land and William Slaughters, Which he y[e] said William Charles hath a Just Right and Title too, as may appear more Largely upon Examination on a Consultation of the Fifteenth of December, One Thousand Six hundred Ninety and Nine and Notice being given by Beat of Drum for any Person to make their Claim on a certain day therein Limitted but none appearing or any Objection made; To have and to hold The said Premises to him y[e] said William Charles his Heires and Assigns for ever Upon Condition That he y[e] said William Charles his Heires and Assignes Do bear alway true Faith and Allegiance To our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors and to the said Hon[ble] Company and their Successors. And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of the said Island, In Witness Whereof The said Hon[ble] Companys to these p[re]sents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle on the said Island, This Twentieth day of July in y[e] Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Eleven. The Plott and Plan of [the] aforesaid Land being hereunto Annexed, also a Copy of the Deed and Plan entered in y[e] Register Book Sealed and Delivered in y[e] Presence of us John Roberts Gov[r] William M[a]rsden 2 in Council Daniel Griffeth 3 in Council Matthew Bazett 4[th] in Council Thomas [...]ree[...] Register | Company grant to William Charles, 20 July 1711. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of London trading to the East Indies, confirmed to William Charles, son and heir of the late Paul Charles, 10 acres of cabbage tree land in Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded to the north by the Main Ridge before the land of James Pack, to the east by the Company's waste land, to the south by the land of Richard Swallow, and to the west by the lands of James Anders and William Slaughter. Charles's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 December 1699. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to William Charles and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 20 July 1711. The plan of the land was annexed to the deed, and a copy of both the deed and the plan was entered in the register book. The instrument was witnessed by John Roberts governor, William Marsden second in council, Daniel Griffeth third in council, Matthew Bazett fourth in council, and Thomas [...]ree[...] as register. Interpretations The identification of William Charles as son and heir of the late Paul Charles fixes the route by which the parcel reached the present holder. Paul Charles had taken the substantial Sandy Bay 99-year leasehold extension from the Company on 13 March 1705, and the present confirmation marks a further dimension of the family's tenure beyond that leasehold. The boundary description of the Thomas Gargen lease of 20 July 1711 had referred to Paul Charles's children as the northern boundary, indicating that the Charles household had developed into a multi-generation cluster by July 1711. The reach-back to a 1699 consultation as the documentary foundation places this confirmation |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | alongside the Grace Coulson confirmations of 23 June 1711, both of which rested on 1699 findings. The 1711 framework systematically brought forward administrative determinations from the late 1690s into the new documentary regime, rather than re-adjudicating earlier titles. The 12-year gap between the 1699 determination and the 1711 confirmation indicates the depth of the institutional backlog that the new programme was clearing. The reference to William Charles as son and heir, rather than to the children of Paul Charles collectively as named in Gargen's lease, suggests the primogeniture rule of inheritance had operated to vest the parcel in the eldest son alone. The pattern matches earlier instances in the present series, including the John Cotgrave to Gilbert Cotgrave succession in Youngs Valley and the Leonard Coulson to John Leonard Coulson succession in the gumwood holdings. The 1711 framework recognised primogeniture as the default rule for confirming inherited title. The boundary description identifies several Sandy Bay holders not otherwise documented in the present series. James Pack to the north, James Anders to the west, William Slaughter to the west, and Richard Swallow to the south together form an established cluster of holders around the Charles family parcel. Richard Swallow as the southern boundary may be the same Richard Swallow who had bought the Deep Valley mansion from Thomas Cole on 5 June 1705, or a different holder of the same name in Sandy Bay. The recurrence of the name across the records, with Richard Swallow also appearing as a witness to leasehold assignments and as a boundary holder in Sandy Bay leases of 1711, suggests a single substantial holder rather than two distinct individuals. The cabbage tree classification of the parcel places it within the same category as several other Sandy Bay holdings noted in the present series, including the second parcel in James Reder's grant, the Swallow lease parcels and the Thomas Bagley lease. The cabbage tree designation reflected the dominant tree cover of the area below the Main Ridge. The boundary phrase before James Pack describes the position of the parcel relative to Pack's land, indicating that Pack's holding lay further north under the Main Ridge while Charles's parcel sat between Pack's ground and the higher Sandy Bay floor. The form of the description, fixing position relative to a known holder rather than to a topographical feature alone, illustrates the way the 1711 surveying captured the relative positions of clustered holdings within the broader landscape. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for William Charles on the same day, in contrast to the freehold-plus-lease packaging used for Swallow and Gargen earlier on 20 July 1711, indicates that the Charles family's main leasehold interest already rested in the 99-year extension taken by Paul Charles in 1705. The present confirmation extended the family's documented tenure into freehold without adding new leasehold ground. The witness panel reproduces the senior council quorum used in the other freehold confirmations of 20 July 1711, with the governor, the second in council, the third in council, the fourth in council and the register all present. The stable composition of the panel across the day's business indicates a sustained working session at the Castle, with at least four freehold confirmations and several leases processed in sequence. Speculations The decision to channel the freehold confirmation through William Charles as son and heir rather than through Paul Charles's children jointly, even though the Gargen lease of the same day had described the family interest as the children, suggests an active determination of inheritance rights was made between the lease and the present confirmation. The same-day procedure separated the freehold interest as vested in the eldest son under |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|---------------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | primogeniture from any wider family interest, potentially leaving room for younger children to hold separate parcels or to take leasehold extensions in their own names. The reach-back to a 1699 consultation indicates that Paul Charles's title to the present 10-acre parcel had been determined nearly six years before his 1705 acquisition of the Sandy Bay 99-year leasehold from Heath. The earlier 1699 determination may have established his original freehold core, with the 1705 leasehold then extending the family holding into the larger 10-acre parcel covered by the John Toster lease. The combined estate by 1711 thus consisted of an inherited freehold core plus an active leasehold extension, mirroring the freehold-plus-lease structure being formalised across the 1711 framework. The continued use of the Charles family name as a Sandy Bay reference point, with the Thomas Gargen lease describing his northern boundary as Paul Charles's children, the present grant confirming William Charles in his own name, and the 1717 records continuing to track Charles family holdings, indicates the household had become an established Sandy Bay institution. The succession from Paul Charles to William Charles preserved the family's territorial position across the generational transition and through the documentary reorganisation of 1711.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 119 | 114          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Tho[s] Perkins The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of London Trading to y[e] East Indies. Do hereby Demise Let and Set unto Thomas Perkins Sen[r] and Free Planter, Thirty Acres of Cabbage Tree and Gumwood Land Buting and Bounding Towards the North upon the Land of Thomas Swallow Sen[r], Towards the East upon the Hon[ble] Companys Wast Land, Towards the South upon the Land of James Vesey and Thomas G[u]rgen and Towards the West upon the Land of his free and Thomas Perkins. To have and to hold Thes[ai]d Thirty Acres of Cabbage Tree and Gumwood Land To him the said Thomas Perkins his Executors Administrators and Assignes For y[e] Terme of Twenty one Years Commenceing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Eleven. Upon Condition That he the said Thomas Perkins his Executors Administrators and his Assignes Shall always do and bear true Faith and Allegiance To our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heirs and Successors and to the Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of y[e] said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary being y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, The Annuall Rent of Four Shillings p[er] acre (besides one Shilling duty being in all Five shillings p[er] Acre) in good and Currant money of the Said Island, To the said Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors, And that he y[e] said Thomas Perkins his Executors Administrators and his Assignes Shall and Do at y[e] Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one Years Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair as they are now and not to alter y[e] Fences which are his Land marks, and which will | Company lease to Thomas Perkins senior, 20 July 1711. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of London trading to the East Indies, leased to Thomas Perkins senior, free planter, 30 acres of cabbage tree and gumwood land. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of Thomas Swallow senior, to the east by the Company's waste land, to the south by the land of James Vesey and Thomas Gurgan, and to the west by Perkins's own freehold land and the land of Thomas Perkins. The lease ran to Thomas Perkins senior and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1711. Perkins and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per acre, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 20 July 1711, and Thomas Perkins set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Daniel Griffith third in council, Matthew Bazett fourth in council, and Thomas [...] as register. The annexed plan distinguished three figures: |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------------|-----------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Occasion the alteration of y[e] Plot hereunto Annexed Nor dispose of the Lease or Interest in y[e] Same without[t] the Consent of the Governour and Council for y[e] time being. In Witness Whereof the said Hon[ble] United Company and Lords Proprietors To these p[re]sents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Twentieth day of July in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Eleven, And he y[e] said Thomas Perkins to y[e] other part hath Set his Hand and Seale. Tho[s] Perkins Signed and Delivered in y[e] Presence of us Dan[ie]ll Griffith 3[d] in Councill Matthew Bazett 4[th] in Co[un] Thomas [...ree[...]] Register Figure A 4[ths?] 30 Acres m[en]tioned in this Lease Figure B of 20 Acres of Free Land formerly Mary [Pe?] Beach Figure C of 30 Acres belonging to Paul Charles Children as[?] y[e] Deed may appear[?] | Figure A, representing the 30 acres covered by the present lease. Figure B, representing 20 acres of free land formerly held by Mary [...] Beach, with the surname imperfectly legible in the manuscript. Figure C, representing 30 acres belonging to Paul Charles's children, as recorded in their separate deed. Interpretations The lease pairs Thomas Perkins senior with the same Sandy Bay cluster of holders processed through the 20 July 1711 sitting at the Castle, including Thomas Swallow senior, Thomas Gargen, Walter Belward and William Charles. The cross-referencing of boundary holders across these instruments converts the day's business into a coordinated mapping of contiguous parcels under unified council attention. Perkins had already appeared as a boundary holder in the Thomas Gargen freehold confirmation of 20 July 1711, where his hired land from the Company was named on Gargen's eastern boundary. The present lease formalises Perkins's leasehold occupation of that ground, and the description here records Gargen on Perkins's southern boundary in the reciprocal direction. The same-day execution of both instruments fixes the mutual boundary line at a single administrative pass. The qualifier senior identifies a younger Thomas Perkins already in the field, with the parallel use of generational distinction noted in the Thomas Swallow senior confirmation of the same day. The western boundary description of the present lease, referring to land of Thomas Perkins without the senior qualifier, may identify the younger Perkins as an adjoining holder in his own right, reinforcing the impression of a multi-generation family cluster. The reference to his own free land on the western boundary indicates that Perkins held confirmed freehold ground adjoining the present leasehold, although no separate freehold confirmation appears in the present documentation for him. The configuration matches the pattern noted across the 1711 framework, where leasehold parcels typically adjoined a freehold core under the same holder's tenure. The combined classification of the parcel as cabbage tree and gumwood land marks it as covering mixed tree cover, in contrast to the single-category designations applied to most parcels in the 1711 series. The mixed designation may reflect the parcel's position straddling the boundary between two vegetation zones along the Main Ridge, or the council's recognition that the 30 acres included sections of differing character. The substantial 30-acre size of the leasehold places Perkins among the larger leasehold tenants of the 1711 framework, alongside Swallow's 31-acre lease, Cason's 40-acre lease and the Reder confirmations. The combined annual rent at 5s 0d per acre on 30 acres produces a substantial annual burden of £7 10s 0d, placing Perkins's contribution to the Company's leasehold revenue within the upper tier of the holdings. The figured plan reference is institutionally significant, distinguishing three numbered parcels (A, B, C) on a single plan attached to the present lease. The arrangement indicates that the annexed plan covered a wider area than the 30 acres of the immediate leasehold, capturing the surrounding holdings of Mary [...] Beach (described as free land, indicating confirmed freehold) and Paul Charles's children. The composite plan thus served as a cartographic reference document beyond the simple boundary record of the leased parcel itself. Mary [...] Beach as the former holder of the 20 acres marked as Figure B introduces a further female holder into the records, identified by her own name as the principal occupier of confirmed free land before the present arrangement. The recital of her former ownership records |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | institutional memory of an earlier holding even after the ground had passed out of her hands. The 30 acres belonging to Paul Charles's children, recorded as Figure C, identifies the substantial Charles family holding in the area adjoining Perkins's leasehold. The reference to a separate Charles deed cross-links this lease to the freehold confirmation issued to William Charles on the same day for the 10-acre parcel, and to the wider Charles family interests under the 1705 99-year extension. The composite plan thus mapped the relationships between Perkins's leasehold, Mary Beach's former freehold and the Charles family's combined freehold and leasehold ground. The witness panel matches the reduced quorum used across the 1711 leases, with Griffeth third in council, Bazett fourth in council and the register Thomas [...]ree[...] attending. The continuity of the panel across the day's leases confirms the stable composition of the leasehold attendance throughout the 20 July 1711 sitting. Speculations The composite plan distinguishing three figures (A for the present lease, B for the former Beach freehold, C for the Charles children's holding) indicates that the council attached cartographic value to recording the surrounding land context, not merely the leased ground. The decision to annex a wider plan to a single lease suggests the council treated the 1711 surveying programme as building a cumulative cartographic record of the island, with each instrument contributing to the overall map rather than recording only its own immediate parcel. The naming of Mary Beach as the former holder of Figure B, even though that parcel was not the subject of the present lease, preserves her tenure within the institutional memory at a point when the freehold had passed out of her hands. The retention of her name on the plan, rather than that of the current holder, suggests her holding had been distinctive enough to remain identified by her name in working usage. The pattern matches the Welley's Land byname noted in the Cason lease of 27 July 1711, where parcels continued to carry the names of earlier occupiers even after substantial changes of tenure. The same-day execution of leases for Perkins (30 acres), Swallow (31 acres), Gargen (20 acres), Belward (6 acres) and Cason a week later (40 acres), all in or near Sandy Bay, indicates that the 20 July 1711 sitting concentrated on the systematic regularisation of leasehold tenure in that quarter of the island. The accumulated rent from these five Sandy Bay leases alone would have produced annual Company revenue in excess of £30 0s 0d, fixing Sandy Bay as a major contributor to the leasehold income generated by the 1711 framework.  |
| 120 | 115          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Lease Jn[o] Roberts Esq[r]The Lords Proprietors of this Island, The Hon[ble]United Company of Merchants of London Trading tothe East Indies.Do hereby Demise Let and Set unto John RobertsEsq[r] Governour of St Helena &amp; y[c] aforesaid One | Company lease to John Roberts, 1 August 1711. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of London trading to the East Indies, leased to John Roberts, governor of St Helena, a parcel of land containing about 1 acre in James Valley.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Piece or Parcell of Land Lying and being in James Vally Containeing One Acre &amp; there abouts be the same more or less Butting and Bounding upon the Hon[ble] Companys Waste Land, every way Towards the North, East, South and West. To have and to hold The said Piece or Parcell of Land to him the said John Roberts Esq[r] his Executors Administrators and Assignes for the term of Twenty One Years Commencing from the day of the date hereof. Upon Condition That he the said John Roberts Esq[r] his Executors, Administrators and Assignes Do pay or Cause to be paid unto the Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors The Annuall Rent of Four Shillings p[er] Acre (besides One Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings) p[er] Annum in good and Currant Money of the said Island, and that he the said John Roberts Esq[r] his Executors, Administrators and Assignes in Considerat[i]on of the great Charge the aforesaid John Roberts Esq[r] has been at to &amp; Clear and make such a Barren Peice of Ground, fruitfull which heretofore had Ever layen Waste &amp; May on or before the Expiration of the said Term of Twenty One Years have Liberty to Renew the[ir] said Lease at the rate and Terms above mentioned, which Wee the rather grant for the Encouragem[en]t of other People to do the like for the Improvement of this Island and the Benefitt of the Lords &amp; Proprietors. In Witness whereof the said Hon[ble] United Company and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle on James Vally this First day of August in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eleven, And he the said John Roberts Esq[r] to the other p[ar]t hath Set his hand and Seale. Signed and Delivered in the Presence of Us[...]J Lan[d]y[?] f Rec[?] | The parcel was bounded on all four sides (north, east, south and west) by the Company's waste land. The lease ran to John Roberts and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from the date of the deed. Roberts and his successors were to pay the Company the annual rent of 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, in good and current island money. The Company granted Roberts a right of renewal on or before the expiration of the 21-year term, at the same rate and on the same terms. The right of renewal was granted in consideration of the great charge Roberts had incurred in clearing and making fruitful a barren piece of ground that had previously lain waste. The Company stated the grant was made the more readily for the encouragement of others to undertake similar improvement of the island, for the benefit of the Lords Proprietors. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 1 August 1711, and John Roberts set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The witness section is partly illegible in the manuscript, with one name reading J Lan[d]y or similar in the recording role. Interpretations The grant of a leasehold to the sitting governor in his personal capacity, executed by the Company in James Valley with the governor's own counterpart signature, follows the same form as the freehold grant to Roberts of waste ground in James Valley earlier in April 1711. The pattern of Company-to-governor private grants establishes the institutional convention by which the chief office holder accumulated personal estate alongside his official functions, with the Company in its proprietary capacity acting as grantor to its own appointed officer in his private capacity. The express recital that the parcel had previously lain waste and that Roberts had borne great charge in clearing and improving the ground identifies the lease as a reward for prior reclamation work undertaken at the lessee's own expense. The form converts the lease into an instrument of compensation for sunk investment, with the 21-year term and the right of renewal providing security against any future Company decision to resume the improved ground for institutional purposes. The right of renewal at the same rate and on the same terms is institutionally significant, distinguishing this lease from the standard 21-year leases of the 1711 framework, which carried no such guarantee. The provision gave Roberts effective security of tenure beyond the formal 21-year term, since the renewal could be exercised on or before the expiration of the original lease. The combined effect approached perpetual tenure at fixed rent, contingent only on Roberts's willingness to exercise the renewal option. The stated rationale of encouraging others to undertake similar improvement of the island, for the benefit of the Lords Proprietors, frames the grant as an institutional policy lever rather than as a personal favour. The Company presents itself as offering inducement to reclamation by demonstrating the rewards available to those who improve waste ground. The use of the governor's own case as the exemplary instance places the policy advertisement at the highest level of the island establishment, with the inducement carrying the implicit endorsement of the council itself. The rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty reproduces the standard 1711 leasehold rate, with the 1-acre parcel attracting a flat 5s 0d per annum. The application of the standard rate to the governor's personal leasehold, without preferential reduction, preserves the formal equality of all leaseholders under the 1711 framework. The benefit conferred on Roberts lies in the right of renewal rather than in the rent itself. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The dating of the lease from the day of execution, rather than from the standard 25 March 1711 commencement used in the earlier leases of the present series, matches the variation noted in the Cason lease of 27 July 1711. The pattern indicates that leases granted on freshly cleared or reverted ground commenced on physical entry, while leases regularising long-established occupation were back-dated to the start of the institutional year. The lease falls within a sequence of personal grants and arrangements involving Roberts in his individual capacity. The April 1711 freehold grant of waste ground between the Store Yard wall and the Churchyard wall in James Valley had given him a separate parcel in the same valley, later bought back from him in London by the Company for £15 0s 0d on his return to England. The present lease of a further acre, also bounded by Company waste on all sides, adds a second discrete parcel to his personal holding in the valley. The bounding of the parcel by Company waste on all four sides places it as an island of leasehold within unenclosed Company ground. The configuration matches the description of the John Stech parcel of the 1682 inquest, recorded as bounded on all sides by the Company's waste land, and the Cole-Swallow mansion house parcel of 5 June 1705, also bounded by Company waste on all sides. The pattern indicates a recurrent type of small enclosed holding surrounded by institutional ground, with the surrounding waste both protecting and isolating the private parcel. The witness section is imperfectly legible, with one name resembling J Lan[d]ly and a separate notation that may indicate the receiving or recording role. The reduced clarity of the witnessing record contrasts with the careful documentation of the council quorum on other 1711 instruments, suggesting the present lease may have been executed in less formal circumstances or that the recording register was a working document rather than a finished engrossment. Speculations The decision to incorporate the right of renewal into Roberts's personal lease, while withholding such a right from the standard 1711 leasehold framework, suggests the council recognised that the encouragement of waste-ground reclamation required a tenure incentive stronger than the basic 21-year term could offer. Holders willing to invest substantial labour in clearing barren ground needed assurance that their improvements would not revert to the Company at the end of the term without compensation. The renewal right effectively converted the 21-year lease into an instrument approaching perpetual tenure for reclaimed ground, addressing the structural disincentive to invest in long-term land improvement under fixed-term leases. The use of the governor's own case as the documentary example of the renewal policy points to a deliberate institutional choice to use Roberts's elevated position as a demonstration. By placing the formula of encouragement on the governor's own lease, the council established a precedent that subordinate holders could cite when seeking similar treatment for their own reclamation work. The strategy aligned the personal interest of the chief office holder with the wider institutional goal of bringing waste ground into cultivation. The pairing of this lease with the April 1711 freehold grant and the later London buy-back recorded against that earlier grant suggests Roberts was building a portfolio of James Valley parcels that he intended to monetise on departure rather than to retain for personal use. The variety of tenures (freehold of one parcel, leasehold with renewal of another) provided different exit options, with the freehold disposable to the Company at a negotiated price and the leasehold capable of assignment under the standard 1711 supervisory clause. The arrangement gave Roberts maximum flexibility in disposing of his James |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Valley accumulation when his term as governor came to an end. The selection of a 1-acre parcel surrounded entirely by Company waste, rather than a larger holding adjoining existing private estates, indicates a deliberate strategy of taking ground in locations where his improvements could not be challenged by adjoining holders. The bounded position protected the reclaimed parcel against neighbours who might dispute the line between waste and cultivated ground, and provided a clean documentary basis for measuring the extent of Roberts's improvement against the previously barren condition of the ground.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 121 | 116          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Jn[o] RobinsonThe Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of London Tradeing to the East Indies.Do hereby Demise Le[t] and Set unto John Robinson Free Planter Twenty Acres of Gumwood Land Butting and Bounding Towards y[e] North upon the Land of Charles Steward Towards y[e] East upon the Land of James Vesey and Thomas G[a]rgen, Towards the South on the Land of Charles Steward aforesaid and Thomas G[a]rgen and Towards the West upon the Land of the Hon[ble] Companys formerly Henry Webbys.To have and to hold The said Twenty Acres of Gumwood Land to him y[e] said John Robinson his Executors Administrators and assigns for y[e] Terme of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred and Eleven.Upon Condition That he y[e] said John Robinson his Executors Administrators and Assignes Shall always Do and bear true Faith and Allegiance To our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heirs and Successors and to the Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors and shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and Con- stitutions of the said Island and Yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary being the Twenty fifth day of March: the Annual Rent of Four Shillings per Acre (besides one shilling Duty being in all Five Shillings) per Annum in good and Currant Money of the said Island, To the said Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors And that he y[e] said John Robinson his Executors Administrators &amp; Assigns shall and do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty One Years Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair as they are now and not to alter the Fences which are his Land marks and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plot hereunto Annexed, Nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the Consent of the Governour and Councell for the time being.In Witness Whereof Tho said Hon[ble] United Company and Lords Proprietors To these Presents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally This First day of August in y[e] Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Eleven, And he y[e] said John Robinson to the other part hath Set his Hand and Seale. Jn[o] RobinsonSigned and Delivered in the Presence of usDaniel Griffith 3[d] in Councill | Company lease to John Robinson, 1 August 1711. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of London trading to the East Indies, leased to John Robinson, free planter, 20 acres of gumwood land. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of Charles Steward, to the east by the lands of James Vesey and Thomas Gargen, to the south by the land of Charles Steward and Thomas Gargen, and to the west by Company land formerly held by Henry Webby. The lease ran to John Robinson and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1711. Robinson and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per acre, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 1 August 1711, and John Robinson set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Daniel Griffith third in council, Matthew Bazett fourth in council, and Thomas [...]ree[...] as register. Interpretations The lease formalises Robinson's leasehold tenure of the parcel that had already been recorded as the western boundary of the Swallow lease and as the western boundary of the Gargen lease of 20 July 1711. The 1 August execution thus completes the documentary chain begun on 20 July, bringing Robinson within the same Sandy Bay leasehold cluster as his neighbours and fixing the mutual boundary lines through reciprocal reference across the instruments. The boundary description records Charles Steward on both the northern and southern flanks, indicating that Steward held substantial Sandy Bay ground that wrapped around Robinson's parcel. The pattern reproduces Steward's earlier appearance as buyer of 20 acres in Sandy Bay from Richard Griffiths and as joint mortgagee with Orlando Bagley on the Joseph and Martha Fox mortgage of 18 August 1709. By 1711 his Sandy Bay holdings |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                        | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------------|-----------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Matthew Bazett 4[th] in Coun[n]Thomas [...]rec[...] Register | extended sufficiently to form two sides of the boundary description for Robinson's leasehold. The recital of the western boundary as Company land formerly held by Henry Webby preserves the institutional memory of an earlier private holder whose tenure had reverted to the Company. The chain of named former occupiers continues across the present series, with Welley's Land in the Cason lease, Captain Beale's land in the Beale-Company deeds, and the now-Company ground formerly Webby's identified by the previous holder's name even after the reversion. The pattern indicates that even reverted Company ground retained working bynames tied to its earlier private occupation. The same John Robinson appears in the cross-references to consultation book 15 folios 39 and 40 as having given bond with sureties to pay the children of the late Onesipherus Sheado their portions, fixing him as a substantial holder trusted with fiduciary obligations within the island establishment. The combination of leasehold tenure and recognised standing in orphan protection arrangements places Robinson within the literate, propertied tier of the free planter class. The recital of Robinson's status as free planter, without any further trade or office qualifier, places him among the agricultural planters whose tenure rested on cultivation rather than on artisanal trade or military service. The simplicity of the designation contrasts with the dual classifications applied to Isaac Wood (cooper and free planter) and Robert Bell (planter and mason) and indicates Robinson's primary identification as a cultivator. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1711, the standard institutional commencement of the 1711 framework, distinguishes the present lease from the Cason lease and the Roberts lease, both of which ran from the date of execution rather than from Lady Day. The variation between back-dated and forward-dated commencement appears to reflect the difference between regularisation of established occupation (Robinson) and fresh allocation of ground (Cason, Roberts). The witness panel reproduces the reduced quorum used across the 1711 leases, with Griffeth third in council, Bazett fourth in council and the register Thomas [...]rec[...]. The continuity of this panel across the leases of 20 July and 1 August 1711 confirms the stable composition of the leasehold attendance through the summer of 1711. The annual rent on the 20-acre parcel, computed at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £5 0s 0d per annum, placing Robinson among the moderately substantial leasehold tenants of the 1711 framework. His combined position as leaseholder, neighbour to Steward, Vesey and Gargen, and bond-giver for the Sheado orphans points to a multi-faceted role within the Sandy Bay community. Robinson signed in his own hand, placing him within the literate class of free planters whose direct signatures appear on the documentary record. The signature is consistent with his appearance in the consultation book cross-references as a giver of bond, since fiduciary obligations of that kind typically required literate participants able to execute and acknowledge written instruments. Speculations The decision to execute Robinson's lease 12 days after the leases of Swallow, Gargen and Belward, despite his ground forming part of the same Sandy Bay cluster, suggests his case was processed in a separate sitting rather than alongside theirs. The administrative separation may have reflected delays in surveying his specific parcel, in confirming his title against the prior Henry Webby occupation, or in his own attendance before the council. The 1 August sitting, also recording the Belward-Bell assignment of the following year and the Roberts personal lease of the same day, appears to have handled a different |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------------|--------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | mix of business from the freehold-heavy sittings of 9, 23 and 20 July. The reference to the western boundary as Company land formerly Webby's, rather than as simple Company waste, indicates a deliberate distinction between two categories of unenclosed Company ground. Land that had earlier been privately held but had reverted to the Company retained its identification by the previous occupier, while ground that had never been allocated remained described as plain waste. The distinction preserved the documentary record of past tenure for use in future allocation decisions, and protected the Company against any later claim by Webby's heirs or successors based on misidentification of the ground. The wrap-around configuration of Charles Steward's holdings on two sides of Robinson's leasehold suggests the area below the Main Ridge in Sandy Bay was undergoing active consolidation under Steward's hand. The presence of his ground on the northern and southern flanks placed Robinson's leasehold as an enclave within Steward's wider estate, raising the possibility that some prior arrangement or family connection underlay the configuration. Robinson's continued separate tenure within Steward's larger holding, rather than absorption into a single Steward estate, points to a deliberate institutional preservation of his independent position rather than a market outcome shaped by accumulation alone.                                                                                                                                                          |
| 122 | 117          | Island St Helena. Comp[a] Deed to Marg[t] Sich The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hono[ble] United Company of Merchants Trading to the East Indies Do hereby Confirm Unto Margaret Sich Widow and Freeholder Forty Acres of Gumwood Land Situate &amp; being Towards the North Upon the Land of Francis Wranghams Towards the East upon the Land of James Rider Towards the South upon the Land of Henry Francis and Wranghams and Towards the West on the Hono[ble] Companys Wast Land Also one other Parcel of Cabbage Tree Land Containing Twenty Acres formerly belonging to John Alexander Scituate &amp; Lying Towards the North upon the Land of James Rider Towards the East on the Land of Jonathan Beals Orphans Towards the South on the Land of John [Long?] and Towards the West on the Land of James Rider And also One other Parcell of Cabbage Tree Land Containing Ten Acres of Land Scituate &amp; Lying Towards the North Upon the Land of James Ryder, Towards the East upon the Land of Jonathan Beals Orphans Towards the South Upon the Land of John Robinson and Charles Steward and Towards the West on the Land of James Riv[er]. The estate Said Three Parcells of Cabbage Tree and Gumwood Land Containing Seventy Acres Which She the Said Margaret Sich hath a Just and Right Title to as may appear more Largely upon Examination in a Consultation of the One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eleven and Notice being Given by beat of Drum for any Person to make their Common a Certain day therein Limmited But none appearing or any objection made To have and to hold the Said Premises to her the Said Mary Sich on the Heirs and Assigns for Ever Upon Condition That She the Said Margaret Sich her Heirs and Assignes Do bear true faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the | Company grant to Margaret Sich, 1711. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Margaret Sich, widow and freeholder, three parcels totalling 70 acres. The first parcel, of 40 acres of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by the land of Francis Wrangham, to the east by the land of James Rider, to the south by the lands of Henry Francis and of Wrangham, and to the west by the Company's waste land. The second parcel, of 20 acres of cabbage tree land, formerly belonged to John Alexander. It was bounded to the north by the land of James Rider, to the east by the land of Jonathan Beale's orphans, to the south by the land of John Long, with the surname uncertain in the manuscript, and to the west by the land of James Rider. The third parcel, of 10 acres of cabbage tree land, was bounded to the north by the land of James Rider, to the east by the land of Jonathan Beale's orphans, to the south by the lands of John Robinson and Charles Steward, and to the west by the land of James Rider. Sich's right and title were established by examination at a consultation in 1711, with the precise day and month left blank in the manuscript. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Margaret Sich and her heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Queen Her Heires and Successors and to the Said Company and their Su[c]cessors and Shall Duly obey all the Laws &amp; Constitutions of the Said Island, In Witness whereof the Said Hono[ble] Company to these Presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on the Said Island this day of in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eleven.The Plott and Plan of the aforesaid Land being hereunto Annexed Also a Copy of this Deed &amp; Plan Entered in y[e] Register BookSealed and delivered This Deed Ent[c]red in another Place being a[ltd?] in the Presence of UsJn[o] Roberts Gov[r]W[m] Marsden 2 in Coun[n]Dan[iel] Griffeth 3[d] in Coun[n]Mat[hew] Bazett 4[th] in Coun[n] | The Company set its common seal at the Castle in 1711, with the day and month left blank in the manuscript. The plan of the land was annexed to the deed, and a copy of both the deed and the plan was entered in the register book. The instrument was witnessed by John Roberts governor, William Marsden second in council, Daniel Griffith third in council, and Matthew Bazett fourth in council. A marginal note records that the deed was entered in another place, with the manuscript imperfectly legible at the qualifying word. Interpretations The grantee is the same Margaret Sich who had bought out her son Richard Swallow the younger's reversionary interest in her Chapel Valley estate on 4 February 1705 for £140 0s 0d, to redirect the property to her younger children by her second husband. Her appearance here as a substantial freeholder in her own right under the 1711 framework, with 70 acres confirmed across three parcels, places her among the most substantial widows of the present series. The 1711 confirmation extends her recorded estate well beyond the Chapel Valley holdings already documented from 1705. The first parcel of 40 acres of gumwood land takes Francis Wrangham as both its northern boundary and part of its southern boundary, and Henry Francis on the remainder of the southern boundary. The boundary description thus places Sich's land alongside the Wrangham-Francis cluster already documented in Henry Francis's freehold confirmation of 9 June 1711, where Francis Wrangham appeared as the southern boundary on three of his parcels. The reciprocal recording of Henry Francis as Sich's southern boundary fixes the line between the two estates by mutual reference across the two confirmations. The second parcel of 20 acres of cabbage tree land is recorded as formerly belonging to John Alexander, establishing that the long-serving register had himself held substantial cabbage tree ground that had since passed out of his hands. The reference adds to the picture of Alexander's wider estate, which included the Bidott messuage purchased in March 1701, the Grandy 10 acres purchased in November 1701, and the Elinor Cotgrave 70 acres purchased in May 1712. The present recital captures a parcel disposed of before the 1711 confirmation, perhaps to Margaret Sich directly or through an intermediate transaction. The third parcel of 10 acres of cabbage tree land sits in close proximity to the second, both bounded on the north by James Rider and on the east by Jonathan Beale's orphans. The two parcels appear to form a contiguous block of cabbage tree ground, with the south of the second parcel meeting John Long (with the surname imperfectly legible) and the south of the third parcel meeting John Robinson and Charles Steward. The configuration places Sich's holding directly against the same Robinson-Steward cluster documented in the John Robinson lease of 1 August 1711. James Rider appears as a boundary holder on all three of Sich's parcels, indicating an exceptionally substantial Rider estate that wrapped around the Sich holdings on multiple sides. The reference is consistent with James Reder of the freehold confirmations of 9 June 1711, where the surname appears in its more usual Reder spelling. The variant Rider appearing here within the same documentary regime confirms that the two spellings refer to the same family. Jonathan Beale's orphans appear as eastern boundary holders on both cabbage tree parcels. The Beale orphans had earlier featured as boundary holders in the 17 April 1711 Doveton grant and in the Lemon Garden lease of December 1707, where they held the |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | Purslane Bed at the head of Chapel Valley. The pattern fixes the orphan presence as a recurring feature of the boundary record across the present series, reflecting the high adult male mortality that left children's interests as recognisable units of tenure. The Wrangham family appears prominently across the first parcel, with Francis Wrangham on the north and southern boundaries and Wranghams again on the southern boundary alongside Henry Francis. The combined reference to multiple Wrangham holdings, or to a Wrangham holding crossing the south of Sich's parcel, places the family at the centre of the cluster of cabbage tree and gumwood ground around the Sich estate. The blank date in the body of the deed and at the sealing clause indicates an incomplete engrossment, with the present text representing either a draft prepared in advance of the consultation or a copy taken before the precise date was filled in. The marginal note recording that the deed was entered in another place suggests the formal register entry was made at a different folio under the proper date, with the present record retained as a working copy or incomplete fair copy. The absence of the register's signature, while the senior council quorum is recorded, supports the reading that the engrossment was never finalised. The witness panel of governor, second in council, third in council and fourth in council, without the register, reproduces the senior council quorum used for freehold confirmations under the 1711 framework, but omits the register's signature. The omission may reflect the unfinished state of the engrossment or a deliberate separation between the witnessing function and the registering function on this particular instrument. Speculations The decision to bring Margaret Sich forward for confirmation of 70 acres across three contiguous or near-contiguous parcels, with the second parcel formerly belonging to John Alexander, suggests a deliberate consolidation of the Sich estate beyond her existing Chapel Valley holdings. The 1705 buy-out of her son's reversionary interest had established her as an independent property holder commanding substantial cash resources, and the 1711 confirmation extended her recorded estate into the rural uplands in addition to her urban holdings. The combined position places her among the wealthiest individual landholders of the present series. The incomplete state of the present deed, with blank dates and missing register signature, points to a documentary process that was not always carried through to clean completion. The Sich confirmation may have been drafted, examined, and witnessed by the senior council quorum but never finally engrossed and registered in its present form, with the formal register entry made instead at a different folio under the proper date. The retention of the unfinished copy in the present record indicates that the working documents of the 1711 framework included drafts and partial engrossments alongside the finished instruments. The location of the second parcel as formerly belonging to John Alexander raises questions about the route by which the ground passed from Alexander to Sich. The transfer may have been a direct sale, perhaps for cash, or through an intermediate transaction involving the Wrangham or Francis families with whom both Alexander and Sich had documented connections. The absence of any earlier deed recording the transfer in the present series indicates either that the transaction predated the documented period or that it was recorded in a different part of the register not represented here. The 1711 confirmation thus preserves a trace of an earlier transaction whose underlying instrument is not directly accessible from the present record. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 123 | 118          | Island St Helena. Comp[a] Lease to Marg[t] Sich The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hono[ble] United Company of Merchants of London Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Lett unto Margaret Sich Widow and Freeholder Four Acres of Gumwood Land Bounding Towards the North Upon the Land of Francis Wranghams the East Upon the Land of James Rider and Towards the West upon the West and South to the Said And also Two Acres of Cabbage Tree Land Butting Towards the North and South to the Said Margaret Siches Land and Towards the East upon the Land of Jonathan Beals orphans Also Two Acres more of Cabbage Tree Land Butting Towards the North Upon the Land of Jonathan Beals Orphans Towards the South Upon the Land of John Robinson &amp; Charles Steward And Towards the West upon the Land of the said Steward &amp; John H[a]gley. All [w]hich Three Parcell[s] of Gumwood and Cabbage Tree Land Contain[s] in the whole Eight Acres. To have and to hold The said Eight Acres of Gumwood and Cabbage Tree Land to her the Said Margaret Sich and the Heirs of John Sich both of their Executors Administrat[ors] and Assignes for the Terme and Tune of Twenty one Years Commencing from the Twenty fifth Day of March One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eleven. Upon Condition That [h]e the Said Margaret Sich her Heires Executors and Administrat[ors] Shall always do and bear true faith and allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, Her Heirs and Successors, and to the Hon[ble] U[n]ited Company and their Su[c]cessors and shall Duly obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the Said Island and Yearly Pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary being the Twenty fifth Day of March The Annuall Rent of Four Shillings p[er] Acre (besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good and Currant Money of the Said Island to the Said Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors And that She the Said Margaret Sich her Heirs Executors and Administrators Shall and do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years leave the Fences about the Said Land in as goo[d] Repair as they are Now and not Alter the Fences which are her Land Marks and which will Occasion the Alteration of the Plot herunto Annexed nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the Same without the Consent of y[e] Govern[o]r and Councell for y[e] Time being. In Witness whereof the Said Honour[ble] Company and Lords Proprietors To these Presents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this day of in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Eleven, And She the Said Margaret Sich to the oth[er] hath Set her hand and Seale. Sealed and delivered This [...] [In]tred in another Place [...] in y[e] presence of us J[n]o Roberts Gov[r] W[m] M[a]rsden 2 in Coun[n] Dan[ie]l Griffeth 3[d] in Coun[n] Matt[hew] Bazett 4[th] in Coun[n] | Company lease to Margaret Sich, 1711. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of London trading to the East Indies, leased to Margaret Sich, widow and freeholder, three parcels totalling 8 acres. The first parcel, of 4 acres of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by the land of Francis Wrangham, to the east by the land of James Rider, and to the west and south by Sich's own land. The second parcel, of 2 acres of cabbage tree land, was bounded to the north and south by Sich's own land, and to the east by the land of Jonathan Beale's orphans. The third parcel, of 2 acres of cabbage tree land, was bounded to the north by the land of Jonathan Beale's orphans, to the south by the lands of John Robinson and Charles Steward, and to the west by the lands of Charles Steward and John Hagley, with the surname imperfectly legible in the manuscript. The lease ran to Margaret Sich and the heirs of John Sich, with their executors, administrators and assigns, for 21 years from 25 March 1711. Sich and her successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term she was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as her legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. She was not to dispose of the lease or her interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley in 1711, with the day and month left blank in the manuscript, and Margaret Sich set her hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by John Roberts governor, William Marsden second in council, Daniel Griffeth third in council, and Matthew Bazett fourth in council, without the register's signature in the recorded copy. A marginal note records that the deed was entered in another place, with the manuscript imperfectly legible at the qualifying word. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Sich's same-period freehold confirmation of 70 acres completes the institutional package by which her confirmed freehold core was supplemented by 8 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 78 acres places her among the most substantial individual landholders of the present series, and significantly exceeds the combined Henry Francis tenure of 65 acres (40 acres freehold plus 25 acres leasehold) noted earlier in 1711. The three small leased parcels (4 acres, 2 acres and 2 acres) sit directly against Sich's confirmed freehold ground at multiple points. The first leased parcel is bounded by her own land on the west and south. The second is bounded by her own land on the north and south. The third sits between the same Beale orphans and Robinson- Steward boundary that ran along the southern edge of her confirmed 10-acre cabbage tree freehold. The configuration places the leasehold parcels as fillers and extensions adjoining the freehold core, with the small size of each parcel reflecting deliberate selection of marginal ground rather than substantial new fields. The lease formula vests the interest in Margaret Sich and the heirs of John Sich, rather than her own heirs as in the standard lease. The construction routes the future interest through her late husband's line rather than through her personal succession. The arrangement |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | matches the 1705 sale to her by her son Richard Swallow the younger of his reversionary interest, by which she had bought out his claim in order to redirect the Chapel Valley estate to her younger children by her second husband. The present lease similarly fixes the eventual succession to John Sich's heirs, preserving the family settlement she had purchased six years earlier. The treatment of the lease as covering ground heirless in Margaret Sich's own person, but vesting in John Sich's heirs, indicates a clear separation of beneficial and legal interest within the Sich household. Margaret holds the lease during her lifetime, and the institutional benefit passes to her late husband's children rather than to her own heirs from other sources. The arrangement protects the Sich children's interests against any future remarriage or third-party claim by binding the leasehold tenure into the family line her 1705 purchase had established. John Hagley as the western boundary of the third leasehold parcel introduces a new holder into the boundary description, with the surname imperfectly legible. The same Hagley does not feature elsewhere in the present series, suggesting either a smaller holder whose tenure has not generated documented transactions or a variant spelling of a holder recorded under a different form. The Sandy Bay context fits the cluster of Steward, Robinson, Gargen and Swallow holdings already documented. The rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty on the 8-acre combined parcel produces £2 1s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The modest aggregate rent reflects the small size of the leasehold relative to the substantial freehold core, with the leasehold serving as a supplementary extension rather than as the principal element of the estate. The witness panel reproduces the senior council quorum of governor, second in council, third in council and fourth in council, but omits the register's signature, matching the omission noted in the corresponding Sich freehold confirmation. The matched incomplete state of both instruments suggests the Sich documents were drafted and witnessed together as a pair, but the engrossment was not finally completed through registration in the present copy. The blank dates in both the body of the lease and at the sealing clause reproduce the documentary state of the freehold confirmation, with both instruments left undated in the present record. The marginal note recording entry in another place again indicates that the formal register entry was made at a different folio under the proper date, with the present copy retained as a working document. Speculations The decision to take three small leased parcels (4 acres, 2 acres, and 2 acres) rather than a single larger leasehold suggests Sich was filling specific gaps in her existing freehold pattern rather than expanding into substantial new territory. The selection of 2-acre and 4-acre parcels at points where her existing freehold met the surrounding waste or adjoining holdings indicates an intention to consolidate her working block at its edges rather than to acquire fresh productive ground. The small individual sizes also kept the rent burden manageable while completing the boundary configuration. The structuring of the lease to vest in the heirs of John Sich rather than Margaret's own heirs reflects continued execution of the family settlement established by her 1705 buy-out of Richard Swallow the younger's reversionary interest. Routing the leasehold succession through her late husband's line preserved the Sich children's interest against any later claim by her first-marriage heirs, including Richard Swallow the younger himself or his descendants. The arrangement demonstrates the careful documentary engineering required to protect blended-family settlements across two marriages. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | The fact that both the freehold confirmation and the lease for Margaret Sich appear in incomplete or undated form, with the corresponding clean engrossments lodged elsewhere in the register, suggests her documents required additional administrative handling that took them outside the routine 1711 procedure. The complexity of her family settlement, the substantial scale of her holding (over 70 acres confirmed) and the specific provision for John Sich's heirs may have prompted more careful drafting and separate filing of the final engrossments, with the present copies retained as working drafts.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 124 | 119          | Comp[a] Deed to Rob[t] Bell Know all men by these Presents That we the Govern[or] and Councell of the Island St Helena for the Time being for and in the Name and on behalf of the Honour[a]ble United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies the Proprietors of this Island For, and in Consideration of the Summe of Two Hundred Dollars in good and Currant money of the aforesaid Island, Paid or Secured to be Said by Robert Bell of y[e] Said Island Planter and Mason as by an obligation bearing Even date with these P[re]sents may more fully Appear, And for Divers other good Causes and Considerations us thereunto moving as well as for the Advantages and Profit of y[e] Said Hon[ble] Lords Proprietors Have bargained Sold, Set over and Delivered And by these p[re]sents According to the full and true Forme of Law in like effect made and provided Do bargain Sett over And Deliver unto the Said Robert Bell his heires Executors and Assignes all and Singular that Peice or Parcell of Land Containing by Estimati[on] Ten Acres Scituate Lying and being in Sandy Bay neare Adjoyning to the Land of Peter Filmuck on the one Side and James Mudge another on the other Side Together with the [w]hole Proceeds and Dwelling House Sta[n]ds and Buildings and being thereon which was Lately in the Tenor and Occupation of Walter Belward freeplanter (who Sold y[e] Same to y[e] Said Hon[ble] Lords Proprietors with all other Appurtenances of what nature or Kind Soever. To have and to hold the Said hereby Bargained P[re]mises Unto him the Said Robert Bell and his heires for Ever Upon the Same Conditions as all other freehold Land is held by To do and dispose thereof as his or them own Proper Wills and pleasure And the Said Govern[or] and Coun[c]ell on and on behalf of the Hon[ble] Lords Proprie =tors as aforesaid Doth for themselves their Heirs and Su[c]cessors Covenant and agree to and with the Said Robert Bell his Heir[e]s Execut[ors] Administrat[ors] and Assigns That Either of them That he they or any of them Shall and Maye any Time to Time and at all Times here after Hav[e] hold occupie Possesse and Enjoy the before mentioned Premises without any Manner of Mollestation or Interruption of y[e] Gover[nor] and Councell their heirs or Successors or any other Person or Persons whatsoever Claiming or to Cl[a]ime any Matter or thing app[er]taining or belonging thereunto. In witness whereof the Said Govern[or] and Councell To these p[re]sents Att y[e] Honour[a]ble Companys Common Seale at their Castle on y[e] Island this First Day of August In the year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven Hundred &amp; T[w]elv[e]. Signed Sealed and Delivered in y[e] P[re]sence of us. B[en]j[am]in Bouchet Govern[o]rJn[o] B[la]ckMath[ew] Bazett | Company deed to Robert Bell, 1 August 1712. The governor and council of St Helena, acting on behalf of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies as proprietors of the island, sold to Robert Bell, planter and mason of the island, 10 acres of land in Sandy Bay. The parcel was adjacent to the land of Peter Filmuck on one side and the land of James Mudge on the other. The consideration was 200 dollars in good and current island money, paid or secured by Bell under an obligation of the same date as the deed. The parcel included the whole proceeds and dwelling house, the standing buildings on the ground, and all other appurtenances of any nature or kind. The ground had been lately in the tenor and occupation of Walter Belward, free planter, who had sold the same to the Lords Proprietors. The governor and council conveyed the parcel to Robert Bell and his heirs for ever, on the same conditions as all other freehold land was held, to use and dispose of as he and his successors should choose. The governor and council covenanted on behalf of themselves, their heirs and successors that Bell and his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns would hold, occupy, possess and enjoy the parcel without molestation or interruption from the governor and council, their heirs and successors, or from any other person claiming any interest in the ground. The governor and council set the Company's common seal at the Castle on 1 August 1712. The instrument was signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of Benjamin Bouchet governor, John Black and Matthew Bazett. Interpretations The grant operates as a sale by the governor and council, acting in the Company's proprietary capacity, rather than as a fresh allocation of waste ground. The recital that the parcel had been lately in the tenor and occupation of Walter Belward, who had sold the same to the Lords Proprietors, fixes the route by which the ground reached the Company. Belward had conveyed the parcel back to the Company before the present sale, and the Company is now selling forward the same ground to Bell. The transaction thus comprises two stages: Belward's reversion to the Company (not separately documented in the present record) and the Company's onward sale to Bell. The earlier 1 August 1712 assignment of Belward's 6-acre leasehold to Robert Bell, executed on the same day by Benjamin Bouchet, John Black and Matthew Bazett, completes the parallel arrangement under which Belward's combined Sandy Bay interests passed to Bell on the same day. The leasehold assignment transferred the 6-acre Company leasehold parcel on its existing terms, while the present freehold sale transferred 10 acres of freehold from the Company directly to Bell. Together the two instruments produced a coordinated transfer of Belward's tenure in Sandy Bay to Bell within a single day. The consideration of 200 dollars in island money is the first reference in the present series to dollars as the |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | principal currency unit of a substantial Company sale. The valuation of the dollar at 6s 0d per dollar, established in the 1699 Draper-Maxwell sale and confirmed in the 1701 Grandy-Alexander sale, would produce a sterling equivalent of £60 0s 0d for the 10 acres. The choice of dollars rather than sterling for the principal medium reflects the institutional acceptance of Spanish dollars as a working currency for Sandy Bay transactions, and the practical absence of large sterling stocks for use in island sales. The covenant against molestation, given by the governor and council on behalf of themselves, their heirs and successors, binds the institution to defend Bell's title against any future claim. The form differs from the standard private save-harmless covenant in that the indemnifying party is the Company itself, acting through its officers. The covenant thus carries the institutional weight of the Company's proprietary claim, and protects Bell against any later attempt by the Company to re-acquire the ground or by third parties to assert competing claims. The parcel includes the dwelling house, standing buildings and other appurtenances, indicating that Belward's tenure had been actively developed before reversion. The transfer of an improved estate, rather than vacant ground, places this transaction within the same category as the 1707 Lufkin sale to the Company, which had transferred a developed estate with growing provisions. The Company's onward sale to Bell, executed within 13 months of the Belward reversion, indicates an institutional decision to redirect the developed parcel to a new tenant rather than retaining it under Company management. The grantee's status as planter and mason combines agricultural and artisanal classifications, reproducing the dual designation noted in the William Alexander lease of 7 May 1717. The combined trade qualification fitted Bell to maintain and develop the buildings on the parcel as well as cultivate the ground, and the Company's selection of him as buyer indicates a deliberate preference for tenants whose trade skills complemented their agricultural obligations. The phrase tenor and occupation captures both the documentary tenure and the physical occupation of the ground, fixing Belward's prior interest in both legal and possessory terms. The combined formula closes off any later argument that Belward had retained either residual tenure or possessory claim after the reversion to the Company. The witness panel of Benjamin Bouchet governor, John Black and Matthew Bazett reproduces the panel that had executed the parallel leasehold assignment to Bell on the same day. The continuity of the panel across the two instruments confirms that the same sitting of the governor and council produced both the leasehold assignment and the freehold sale to Bell, with the deeds drawn up as complementary instruments within a single coordinated transaction. The reference to the same conditions as all other freehold land is held by incorporates by reference the standard 1711 conditions of true faith and allegiance to the Queen and obedience to the laws of the island. The compressed wording, in contrast to the full recital used in the formal freehold confirmations, indicates that the conditions had become sufficiently established to be incorporated by general reference rather than restated in full. The change in drafting style points to a maturing of the documentary regime under which standard terms could be incorporated without verbatim repetition. Speculations The two-stage transaction by which Belward's ground first reverted to the Company and then passed to Bell, rather than passing directly between Belward and Bell as a private sale, indicates active institutional |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | supervision of the transfer. The Company's interposition between the two private parties may have answered concerns about Belward's pattern of trading at high profit across 1705 to 1708, or about the specific terms of any private agreement between Belward and Bell. By taking the ground back into Company hands and then re-issuing it to Bell, the council preserved its supervisory role and ensured that the new tenant held under fresh institutional title rather than as Belward's successor. The combination of the freehold sale and the leasehold assignment to Bell on the same day, covering 10 acres of freehold and 6 acres of leasehold formerly held by Belward in Sandy Bay, suggests Belward surrendered his entire Sandy Bay tenure to the Company in a single arrangement. The coordinated transfer to Bell of both interests at the same sitting indicates that the council had identified Bell in advance as the intended successor, and that the entire transaction was structured to move Belward's holdings cleanly into Bell's hands without leaving any orphaned parcels in Company management. The choice of 200 dollars as the consideration, rather than a sterling figure, points to the working circulation of Spanish dollars within the island economy at substantial transaction levels by 1712. The use of dollars in a Company transaction, executed by the senior council under the common seal, gave institutional sanction to the dollar as a settlement medium and confirmed its acceptance for sums beyond the small transactions where it had previously appeared. The 200-dollar figure on a 10-acre Sandy Bay sale also established a benchmark valuation for future Company disposals in the area. The selection of Robert Bell as buyer fits the documented pattern of the Company's preference for tenants whose dual artisanal-agricultural classification matched the requirements of developed parcels. His standing as planter and mason placed him in a position to maintain the buildings, cultivate the ground and contribute artisanal services to the surrounding community. The Company's evident desire to keep the parcel under a working tenant capable of sustaining its productive capacity, rather than allowing it to lie idle or pass to a purely commercial buyer, indicates an active institutional policy of matching tenants to ground based on capacity to develop and maintain it. |
| 125 | 120          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to W[m] Slaughter The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto William Slaughter Esq[r] Eleven Acres of Gumwood Land Situate in Sandy Bay, Butting and Bounding towards the North upon the Lands of Richard Hardings Children towards the East, upon the Lands of Benj[amin] Greentree, now in the Possession of Richard Swallow, Towards the South and West upon the Honourable Company[s] Wast Land Also Two Acres of Gumwood Land more Butting towards the North upon the Lands of Thomas Perkins Sen[r] Towards the East upon the aforesaid Hardings Children Towards y[el] South upon the Lands of John Leaverigs Children, And Towards the West upon the Lands of James [Vesey?] Also Two Acres of Cabbage Tree Land Butting towards the North under the Main Ridge in Sandy Bayside, Towards the East upon the aforesaid Richard Hardings Children, Two Acres of Cabbage Tree Land, Towards the South on the Lands of James Rider, and Towards the West upon the before-named Benj[amin] Greentrees Cabbagetree Land which in the Three whole Parcels of Land contains Fifteen Acres. To have and to hold the said P[re]mises to him y[el] said William Slaughter his Executors | Company lease to William Slaughter, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to William Slaughter, esquire, three parcels totalling 15 acres in Sandy Bay. The first parcel, of 11 acres of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by the land of Richard Harding's children, to the east by the land of Benjamin Greentree, then in the possession of Richard Swallow, and to the south and west by the Company's waste land. The second parcel, of 2 acres of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by the land of Thomas Perkins senior, to the east by the land of Richard Harding's children, to the south by the land of John Leaverig's children, and to the west by the land of James Vesey, with the surname uncertain in the manuscript. The third parcel, of 2 acres of cabbage tree land, was bounded to the north by the Main Ridge in Sandy Bay side, to the east by Richard Harding's children's 2 acres of cabbage tree land, to the south by the land of James Rider, and to the west by Benjamin Greentree's cabbage tree land. The lease ran to William Slaughter and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Administrators and assignes for y[e] Term and tune of Twenty one Years Commencing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve Upon Condition. That he the said William Slaughter, shall and do always bear true Faith and allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, Her Heirs and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and Their Successors and shall duly Obey all the Laws &amp; constitutions of the said Island, and Yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annual Rent or Sums of Four Shillings p[er] Acre (besides One Shilling Duty, being in all Five Shillings p[er] An[num] in good and Currant mon[e]y of y[e] said Island unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors, And that he the said William Slaughter his Executors Administrators or assignes, Shall and Do at y[e] Expiration of the said Term of Twenty one years leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now and not to alter y[e] said Fences, which are the Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plot hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without consent of y[e] Governor and Councell for the time being, In Witness Whereof the said Honourable United Company and Lords Proprietors, to these Presents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven Hundred &amp; Thirteen, and he the said William Slaughter to the other part hath Sett his hand &amp; Seale Sealed &amp; Delivered W[m] Slaughter in y[e] Presence of Matthew BazettTho[s] CasonD[an] GriffethJn[o] [B] Alexander | Slaughter and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as the legal landmarks of the parcels and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and William Slaughter set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Matthew Bazett, Thomas Cason, Daniel Griffeth, and John [B] Alexander, with one initial uncertain in the manuscript. Interpretations The grantee's status as esquire places William Slaughter at the upper rank of the social hierarchy recorded in the present series, alongside John Roberts esquire (governor), Thomas Goodwin esquire (governor) and William French esquire. The esquire designation typically marked civilian gentlemen of substantial standing without military rank, and Slaughter's appearance under that title indicates his position within the propertied class of the island establishment. The same William Slaughter had earlier appeared as a western boundary holder in the William Charles freehold confirmation of 20 July 1711, where his land was named alongside that of James Anders on the western boundary of the 10-acre Charles parcel. The present lease extends his recorded tenure into a substantial holding of his own across three Sandy Bay parcels. The 1712 commencement date, with execution on 4 August 1713, means the lease was effectively dated back nearly 17 months to the standard 25 March 1712 commencement. The back-dating preserved the institutional rhythm of Lady Day rent payments and aligned Slaughter's tenure with the wider 1711 framework, though his entry into the leasehold scheme came more than a year after the principal sittings of June and July 1711. The boundary descriptions identify several previously documented holders: Thomas Perkins senior on the north of the second parcel, James Rider on the south of the third parcel, James Vesey on the west of the second parcel and Benjamin Greentree on the eastern boundary of the first parcel. The recital that Benjamin Greentree's land was in the possession of Richard Swallow indicates an active subletting or working arrangement, with Greentree retaining the underlying tenure while Swallow occupied the ground in practice. The distinction between tenure and possession recorded in the manuscript reproduces the institutional precision that allowed multiple interests to coexist on a single parcel. Richard Harding's children appear as boundary holders on all three parcels, indicating a substantial inherited Harding estate in Sandy Bay. The Harding family had earlier featured in the records through Richard Harding, free planter who died before 1703, his widow Sarah Harding, his sister Lydea Harding and the parcels he had transferred or held in his lifetime. The present reference to his children's continuing tenure places them as a significant boundary cluster at the date of the present lease, more than a decade after their father's death. John Leaverig's children, recorded as the southern boundary of the second parcel, introduce a new family name into the present series. Their appearance under the children's designation again indicates the persistence of |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | orphan or minor children's interests as recognised units of tenure across the boundary record. Benjamin Greentree, named as the eastern boundary of the first parcel and as the western boundary of the third, may be the same Benjamin Seale-Pledger Greentree connection traced through earlier records, or a separate holder. The James Greentree of the 1703 Powell sale of 20 acres in Sandy Bay with the slave Oliver and half-still purchase is unlikely to be the same person as Benjamin, but the two may have been brothers or close relatives sharing the Sandy Bay holding. The reference to Richard Swallow's possession of the Greentree land aligns with the same Richard Swallow recorded as boundary holder in the William Charles 1711 freehold confirmation and as the buyer of the Deep Valley mansion from Thomas Cole on 5 June 1705. The witness panel includes Matthew Bazett, Thomas Cason, Daniel Griffeth and John [B] Alexander. Bazett and Griffeth continue from the 1711 leases, but Cason appears here as a witness, the same Thomas Cason who had taken the 40-acre Welley's Land lease as ensign and free islander on 27 July 1711. Cason's appearance on the panel marks his elevation from lessee to witness within two years, indicating a rise in standing within the island establishment. The composition of the panel without the governor or any council number designation suggests a working group rather than the formal senior or junior council quorum. John [B] Alexander on the witness line, with one initial uncertain, may be John Alexander the long-serving register or a closely related family member. Alexander had been recorded as register on the 15 September 1712 registration of the Belward-Bell assignment, suggesting his continued involvement with the register's office through 1712 and 1713. The aggregation of three small parcels (11 acres, 2 acres and 2 acres) within a single lease, rather than as separate instruments, mirrors the pattern noted in the Sich lease of 1711 with three parcels of 4 acres, 2 acres and 2 acres. The institutional preference for combining multiple small parcels into a single lease for the same tenant reduced administrative cost and simplified rent collection, while preserving the geographic distinctness of each unit on the annexed plan. The combined annual rent on the 15-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £3 15s 0d per annum. The modest aggregate rent reflects the small individual sizes of the parcels rather than any preferential rate, and places Slaughter's leasehold contribution to the Company's revenue below the larger 30-acre and 40-acre leases granted earlier in the programme. Speculations The 17-month gap between the institutional commencement date of 25 March 1712 and the actual execution on 4 August 1713 suggests that the survey work or the title examination for Slaughter's three parcels took considerably longer than for the principal 1711 holders. The complexity of mapping three small parcels surrounded by the substantial Harding, Greentree, Perkins, Rider and Vesey holdings would have required careful boundary determination, and the multiple references to children's tenure across the boundaries indicate that minor children's interests may have required separate confirmation or guardian consent before the lease could be finalised. The choice of an esquire to receive three small parcels rather than a single larger holding indicates that Slaughter was filling gaps within an already congested Sandy Bay landscape rather than taking up substantial new ground. The 1711 framework had largely allocated the available Sandy Bay leasehold to Swallow, Gargen, Belward, Perkins, Cason, Robinson and the Charles family by the time Slaughter's lease was executed, and the small |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | fragments documented here represent the remaining ground available for new allocation. The active arrangement by which Benjamin Greentree's land lay in Richard Swallow's possession suggests an informal working tenure that had not been brought within the formal 1711 documentary regime. The Company recorded the underlying tenure as Greentree's while noting the possessory occupation by Swallow, leaving both interests intact rather than forcing a documentary resolution. The dual recording indicates institutional tolerance of informal arrangements where they did not interfere with the Company's primary interests in rent and supervision. The witness panel's composition, with the former lessee Cason now appearing as witness alongside the register and senior council members, suggests a deliberate inclusion of recently elevated holders in the documentary process. The pattern reproduces the small literate circle that had underpinned the formal record throughout the 1700s, with new members admitted as they accumulated property and standing. Cason's progression from junior commissioned officer and lessee in 1711 to witness alongside senior figures in 1713 illustrates the upward mobility available within the island establishment for those who combined military rank with private estate.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 126          | 121          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Deed to R[ichard] Harding[s] Children The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby confirm Unto y[e] severall Children Sons &amp; Daughters of Richard Harding late Free Planter deceased Nineteen Acres of Gumwood Land Situate in Sandy Bay abutting towards the North upon y[e] Land [lately?] Hired by Rich[d] Alexander deceased towards y[e] East upon y[e] Land of Rich[d] Sw[a]lley Freeholder, Towards y[e] South upon y[e] Lands of [Ed]w[ard] Eustice or Geo[rge] [Berry] and Thomas Sw[a]lley Towards y[e] West [upon] Lands of Geo[rge] [Berry] aforesaid Containing Eli[?]. Also Two Acres of Cabbage Tree Land under the Maine Ridge next to Sandy Bay abutting towards the North upon the Land before mentioned [late?] in y[e] possession of the said Richard Alexander, Towards the East upon the Lands [Hired?] of the Honourable Company by James [Driver?] Lying under Dennis Lock, towards the South upon the Lands of James Rider, and towards the West upon the Lands of Benjamine Greentree, being in the whole Two Parcells of Land and contains Nineteen Acres they him her or them or any of them the before named Richard Hardings Children hath a Just right and Title to as may more Largly appear, Upon Examination in a Consultation of the Fifteenth day of January One Thousand Seven Hundred &amp; Thirteen and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any Person to make their Claim on a day certain therein Limitted But none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold the said P[re]mises to him Her them and every of them of the aforesaid Richard Hardings Children their Heirs &amp; Assignes for ever Upon Condition That the said Hardings Children Severally and Joyntly their Heires | Company grant to the children of Richard Harding, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to the several sons and daughters of the late Richard Harding, free planter, two parcels totalling 19 acres in Sandy Bay. The first parcel, of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by land lately hired by the late Richard Alexander, with the qualifier uncertain in the manuscript, to the east by the land of Richard Swalley, freeholder, to the south by the lands of Edward Eustice or George Berry and Thomas Swallow, with the second name imperfectly legible, and to the west by the land of George Berry, with the reading uncertain. The acreage of the first parcel is imperfectly legible in the manuscript. The second parcel, of 2 acres of cabbage tree land, lay under the Main Ridge next to Sandy Bay. It was bounded to the north by the land lately in the possession of the late Richard Alexander, to the east by the land hired from the Company by James Driver, with the surname uncertain, lying under Dennis Lock, to the south by the land of James Rider, and to the west by the land of Benjamin Greentree. The Harding children's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to the Harding children, severally and jointly, and to their heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The plan of the land was annexed to the |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------------|-----------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | and Assignes, shall always Do and Beare true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne Her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these P[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth day of [Aug] in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Thirteen. The Plott and Plan of y[e] abovesaid Land being hereunto Annexed, Also a Copy of James Greentree this Deed and Plan Entered in y[e] Register Book. R[obert] Harper Sealed and Delivered in the presence of: | deed, and a copy of both the deed and the plan was entered in the register book. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of James Greentree and Robert Harper. Interpretations The grant confirms the title of multiple sibling beneficiaries jointly and severally, without naming any of the Harding children individually. The form preserves the institutional record of the family interest without resolving the internal distribution of shares between the siblings. The arrangement contrasts with the primogeniture confirmations recorded earlier in the present series, including the John Cotgrave to Gilbert Cotgrave succession and the Paul Charles to William Charles confirmation, where the eldest son took the full inherited interest. The decision to confirm to the children severally and jointly, rather than to identify a single heir at law, suggests that the Hardings died without a clear designation of primogeniture succession, or that the family chose to keep the inheritance undivided across the sibling group. The arrangement preserves the flexibility for later partition or sale by mutual agreement while protecting the underlying tenure against external claims. The boundary description records Richard Alexander as deceased, and as having lately hired the parcel that lay on the north of the gumwood ground. Richard Alexander had earlier appeared in the records as the buyer of John Hemon senior's Chapel Valley dwelling in April 1704, as the seller of the same to George Dweight on 16 March 1710, and as the buyer of Lufkin's Chapel Valley dwelling on 14 June 1712 for £170 0s 0d in store credit. His death by August 1713 indicates a relatively short period between the 1712 purchase and his decease, and his interests were active across both urban Chapel Valley and rural Sandy Bay leasehold. The cross-references to consultation book 15 folio 80 noted in the February 1716 Beale-Company deed had recorded an agreement involving George Sanders, John Long and the children of the late Richard Alexander, with John Long acting on behalf of himself and Captain Fassall's and French's children. The present 1713 deed thus precedes the documented arrangements for the Alexander orphans, which were established in the consultation book by 1716. The mention of the late Richard Alexander on Harding's boundary in 1713 represents the earliest reference to his death in the documents currently before the present record. Richard Swalley, recorded as freeholder on the eastern boundary, is probably the same Richard Swallow of the documented holdings in Sandy Bay, with the variant spelling Swalley falling within the normal range of scribal variation. The same Richard Swallow had been recorded as boundary holder in the William Charles 1711 confirmation and as the buyer of the Deep Valley mansion from Thomas Cole in 1705. Thomas Swallow on the southern boundary of the gumwood parcel reproduces his earlier appearance as the grantee of the 40-acre confirmation of 20 July 1711 and as the lessee of the 31-acre Sandy Bay leasehold of the same day. The recurrence of Thomas Swallow alongside Richard Swallow within the Harding boundary description indicates the substantial Swallow family presence in Sandy Bay across two named individuals, with their respective parcels both forming boundary lines for the present confirmation. Edward Eustice and George Berry appear together or alternately as southern and western boundary holders, with the manuscript imperfectly legible at the second name. Both names are new to the present series, indicating either smaller holders whose tenure has not previously generated documented transactions, or variant spellings of holders recorded under different forms. Their position as boundary holders without separate documentation |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | reproduces the pattern noted in the 1711 confirmations, where adjoining holders had to be named even where their own titles were not under review. The James Driver of the second parcel's eastern boundary, with the surname uncertain, is recorded as hiring land from the Company under Dennis Lock. The byname Dennis Lock identifies a topographical feature or named hilltop in Sandy Bay, similar to the earlier byname Two Gun Ridge that had served as a marker in Grace Coulson's 1711 confirmations. The persistence of working bynames across boundary descriptions reflects the continued reliance on local knowledge of the landscape alongside the formal survey records. The consultation date of 15 January 1714, falling after the 4 August 1713 confirmation date by approximately five months, presents an unresolved internal chronological feature of the manuscript. The reading of the consultation date as 15 January 1713/14 in the old calendar would place the consultation before the confirmation if 1713 is read as the year-ending date according to the old style. The institutional logic of the framework requires the consultation to precede the confirmation, so the consultation date is here understood as 15 January 1713 in the old calendar reckoning, equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning. The witness panel records James Greentree and Robert Harper as the named attestors of the deed, without the formal council quorum signatures recorded on most other 1711 to 1713 confirmations. The reduced witnessing arrangement may reflect either an incomplete engrossment, with the full council signatures intended to be added at a later stage, or a deliberate departure from the standard form for confirmations involving children's interests. James Greentree, who had bought 20 acres in Sandy Bay from Powell in 1703 and the Bevean Chapel Valley house in 1705, appears here in the witness role rather than as a principal. Speculations The confirmation of 19 acres to the Harding children jointly and severally, rather than to a named eldest son, suggests the family had been managing the inheritance collectively in the years since their father's death. Richard Harding's documented holdings in 1691 and his death by 1703 left the children as minors holding undivided interests, and by 1713 the surviving siblings had reached the point where formal confirmation of the joint inheritance was sought without immediate partition. The joint confirmation also protected the children's collective interest against any future attempt by an individual heir to claim sole inheritance under primogeniture, by recording the title as held severally and jointly across all the sons and daughters. The arrangement gave each child a documented interest defensible against the others, while preserving the option for later partition by mutual agreement. The grant of substantial Sandy Bay ground to the Harding children at the same date as the Slaughter lease for three adjoining small parcels (4 August 1713) indicates a coordinated administrative effort to map and confirm the cluster of Sandy Bay holdings around the Harding boundary. Both instruments depend on accurate determination of the Harding children's ground as a fixed reference, since Slaughter's parcels are bounded by the Harding land on multiple sides. The same-day execution of both deeds fixed the mutual boundaries by reciprocal reference across the instruments. The recital of recently deceased boundary holders, including Richard Alexander on two boundaries of the Harding parcels, suggests the period 1712 to 1713 saw significant generational change among the Sandy Bay holders. The institutional pressure to confirm the Harding children's title before further deaths altered the boundary descriptions may have prompted the relatively rapid execution of the present deed following the January 1714 |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | consultation, with the resulting confirmation fixing the boundaries at the moment of confirmation rather than allowing further drift through subsequent transactions or deaths.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 127 | 122          | Island St Hellena The Comp[a] Deed to R[ichard] Gurling The Lords Proprietors of this Island. The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby confirm unto Richard Gurling Free holder Twenty Acres of Land form[e]rly James La[s]thops dec[ease]d, Buting towards the North upon the said Honourable Companys Wast Land, Towards the East upon the of Walter Morri[s] freeholder, Towards the South &amp; West upon the Lands of Anne Fuller and Frances Goodwin, Lying Scituate in a Branch of Lemmon Vally, Also Eleven Acres of Land more, Tett, [w]hereof being formerly Walter Belwards and the other one Acre formerly ridg[d]ed Baglys Lying Scituate in or neigh of Head of Fryer Vally Butting towards the North upon the said Honourable Companys Wast Land, Towards the East and South upon the Lands of George Carne, and towards the West upon the Lands of the aforesaid Edward Bagly[s] Children, being Two Parcels of Land, and in the whole contains Thirty one Acres Which he the said Richard Gurling hath a Just Right and Title to[o] as may appear more largely Upon Examination of the Fifteenth day of January One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and Notice being given by Beate of Drum for any p[er]son to make their claim on a Certain day therein Limitted, But none appearing in any objection made. To have and to hold The said P[re]mises to him the said Richard Gurling his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said Richard Gurling his Heires and Assignes, Shall and Do bear always true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne Her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, In Witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these P[re]sents have Sett there Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. The Plott and Plan of the abovesaid Land being hereunto Annexed, Also a Copy of this Deed &amp; Plan entred in the Register Book. Sealed and Delivered in the p[re]sence of Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company grant to Richard Gurling, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Richard Gurling, freeholder, two parcels totalling 31 acres. The first parcel, of 20 acres of land formerly held by the late James Lasthop, lay in a branch of Lemon Valley. It was bounded to the north by the Company's waste land, to the east by the land of Walter Morris, freeholder, and to the south and west by the lands of Anne Fuller and Frances Goodwin. The second parcel, of 11 acres of land, lay in or near the head of Fryer Valley. Ten acres of it had formerly belonged to Walter Belward, and the remaining acre had formerly belonged to Edward Bagley, with the description of the smaller parcel imperfectly legible in the manuscript. The 11 acres were bounded to the north by the Company's waste land, to the east and south by the land of George Carne, and to the west by the land of Edward Bagley's children. Gurling's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Richard Gurling and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The plan of the land was annexed to the deed, and a copy of both the deed and the plan was entered in the register book. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same Richard Gurling who had earlier figured prominently in the records as a substantial land dealer and broker, including the £500 0s 0d composite estate purchase from George Hoskison on 12 October 1706 in bills of exchange payable in England, the 1704 sale of the Chapel Valley plot to George Carne, the 1707 delivery of 22 acres at the head of Lemon Valley to Thomas Goodwin as executor for the late John Goodwin, the 1708 mortgage of Hoskison's 45 acres, and the 17 August 1708 purchase of 10 acres in Fryer Valley from Walter Belward for £70 0s 0d. The present 1713 confirmation regularises some of his accumulated holdings within the 1711 documentary framework. The recital that the second parcel comprised 10 acres formerly Walter Belward's directly connects to the August 1708 purchase from Belward, and the present confirmation places that earlier transaction within the regularised documentary regime. The additional acre formerly held by Edward Bagley extends the holding |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | marginally beyond the original Belward purchase, indicating that Gurling had acquired or annexed a small adjoining parcel from the Bagley estate or its successors. The first parcel of 20 acres formerly held by the late James Lasthop introduces a new earlier holder into the chain of title. The Lasthop name does not appear elsewhere in the present series in this form, although the similarly named James Easthope or Eastop of the October 1687 sale of 10 acres at the head of Fisher Valley to John Coole may be the same individual or a relative. The variant spelling Lasthop, rather than Easthope or Eastop, places the identification in some doubt. The boundary description of the first parcel places it in a branch of Lemon Valley, with Walter Morris (also spelt Morres or Morris in earlier records) on the east, and Anne Fuller and Frances Goodwin on the south and west. Frances Goodwin is the widow of the late Thomas Goodwin and the current wife of George Carne, last documented as joint seller with her husband of the Goodwin Captain's House to Henry Francis on 25 May 1715 for £285 0s 0d. The present 1713 reference to her holding in Lemon Valley as Frances Goodwin, rather than Frances Carne, indicates that the 1713 confirmation preceded the remarriage or that the documents continued to identify her by her first-marriage surname for the purposes of the Goodwin estate. The Carne marriage thus dates between August 1713 and May 1715. Anne Fuller as the southern and western boundary holder introduces another female holder into the records, paired with Frances Goodwin in the same description. The pairing of two female landholders on the southern boundary of Gurling's parcel indicates the substantial position of women within the Lemon Valley landholding pattern, with widows and possibly unmarried adult women holding ground in their own right alongside the male freeholders. The second parcel's boundary description records George Carne on the east and south of the Fryer Valley parcel. The position of Carne as a substantial Fryer Valley boundary holder matches his earlier acquisitions: 15 acres from Robert Leach in January 1705, 15 acres from Robert Gurling in April 1709, and his other Fryer Valley activities. By 1713 Carne's Fryer Valley estate wrapped around two sides of Gurling's 11-acre parcel, indicating the systematic consolidation of his holdings in that area. Edward Bagley's children, named on the western boundary of the Fryer Valley parcel, indicate the death of Edward Bagley before 4 August 1713 and the transmission of his interest to his minor or surviving children. The earlier Edward Bagley had appeared as buyer of 10 acres with dwelling house from John and Margaret Bagley on 10 August 1705, as party to the composite arrangement with William and Mary French on 4 March 1708, and as joint mortgagee with Charles Steward on the Joseph and Martha Fox mortgage of 18 August 1709. His death by 1713 marks another generational transition within the substantial planter class. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 again falls after the deed date of 4 August 1713 in modern reckoning, presenting the same chronological feature noted in the Harding children's confirmation of the same day. As before, the consultation date is read as 15 January 1713 in the old calendar (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation. The same chronological structure across both deeds executed on 4 August 1713 indicates a coordinated administrative approach, with the consultation work undertaken in January and the formal confirmations issued in the August sitting. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the pattern observed in the Slaughter lease of the same date, with Cason continuing as witness, Henry Francis appearing in the witnessing role and John Alexander providing the register's signature. The |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                | continuity of the small literate circle across the August 1713 confirmations confirms the stable composition of the documentary regime, with established holders such as Francis and Alexander attesting the formal record of their neighbours' titles. Speculations The confirmation of 31 acres across two distinct parcels in separate valleys (Lemon Valley and Fryer Valley) marks Gurling's recorded estate at the moment of confirmation, but represents only a fraction of the substantial holdings documented in his earlier transactions. The £500 0s 0d Hoskison composite purchase of 1706 had included a 30-acre tenement house at the Little Horse Pasture, 20 acres at the head of Lemon Valley, growing yams, livestock and a black mare, none of which appear in the present 1713 confirmation. The selective regularisation of only the two parcels here suggests that Gurling's other holdings may have been disposed of, brought under separate documentation, or simply not yet brought into the 1711 framework. The combination of two parcels in different valleys within a single deed reflects the practical convenience of consolidated documentation rather than any geographic continuity between the holdings. The 1711 framework typically combined a holder's various parcels into a single instrument where possible, reducing administrative cost and producing a comprehensive documentary record of the individual's overall position. The fragmented nature of Gurling's 31 acres indicates a portfolio assembled through multiple transactions over time rather than through a single grant or inheritance. The identification of the parcel as formerly Belward's connects the present confirmation directly to the 1708 private sale between Belward and Gurling, demonstrating the institutional process by which private transactions could be brought within the formal Company documentary framework. The 1711 reform thus served not only to confirm long-established holdings but also to regularise more recent private acquisitions, integrating the working land market with the institutional record. The persistent appearance of George Carne as boundary holder across multiple 1709 to 1715 documents indicates the systematic expansion of his Fryer Valley estate during this period. By 1713 he had assembled sufficient ground to act as the southern and eastern boundary for Gurling's 11-acre parcel, and his wider position included the Goodwin estate inherited through his marriage to Frances. The Carne household's consolidation of property in Fryer Valley between 1705 and 1715 represents one of the most successful estate-building exercises documented in the present series.  |
| 128 | 123          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to R[ichard] GurlingThe Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. | Company lease to Richard Gurling, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Richard Gurling, freeholder, three parcels totalling 11 acres.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Richard Gurling Freeholder, Six Acres of Land abutting Toward[s] North and South upon the Honourable Companys West Land, Towards the East upon his own Land, and towards the West upon the Land. belonging to Edward Bagly[s] Children dec[ea] sed and in possession of Thomas Smithen. Also Three Acres and three quarters of an Acre Scituate in a Branch of Lemmon Vally, Buting towards the North South East and West upon the said Honourable Companys West Land. Likewise One Acre and one Quarter of an Acre more. Butting and Bounding towards the North, East &amp; West upon the said Honour[abl] Companys West Land, and towards the South upon the said Richard Gurlings own Land lately purchased of the said Honourable Company and formerly James L[as]thops dec[ea]d, being in all Three Parcels of Land and Contains in the whole Eleven Acres. To have and to Hold The said P[re]mises to him the said Richard Gurling his Executors Administrators or Assignes for y[e] Tearne and Tim[e] of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen Upon Conditions That he the said Richard Gurling his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always DO and bear true faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all y[e] Laws &amp; constitutions of y[e] said Island, and yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) The annuall rent or sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre besides one shilling duty, being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant money of y[e] said Island, unto the said Honourable Company, and their Successors. And that he the said Richard Gurling his Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Term of Twenty one Years leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter y[e] said Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plot hereunto Annexed nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same, without consent of y[e] Govern[or] &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Company, and Lords Proprietors to these Presents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and y[e] said Richard Gurling to the other part hath Sett his Hand and Seale. Sealed and Delivered Richard Gurling in the p[re]sence of Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | The first parcel, of 6 acres of land, was bounded to the north and south by the Company's waste land, to the east by Gurling's own land, and to the west by the land belonging to the late Edward Bagley's children, then in the possession of Thomas Smithen. The second parcel, of 3 acres and three quarters of an acre, lay in a branch of Lemon Valley and was bounded on all four sides by the Company's waste land. The third parcel, of 1 acre and one quarter of an acre, was bounded to the north, east and west by the Company's waste land, and to the south by Gurling's own land lately purchased from the Company and formerly held by the late James Lasthop. The lease ran to Richard Gurling and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1713. Gurling and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Richard Gurling set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Gurling's same-day freehold confirmation completes the institutional package by which his confirmed freehold core of 31 acres was supplemented by 11 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 42 acres places him among the substantial multi-tenure holders of the present series, though far below the documented scale of his earlier dealings reflected in the £500 0s 0d Hoskison composite purchase of 1706. The three small leased parcels (6 acres, 3¼ acres and 1¼ acres) reproduce the fractional acreage pattern noted in the Margaret Sich lease of 1711 and reflect the deliberate filling of gaps adjoining the confirmed freehold rather than acquisition of substantial new ground. The 1711 framework's institutional preference for placing leasehold extensions directly against confirmed freehold cores appears clearly in the third parcel, where the southern boundary is recorded as Gurling's own land lately purchased from the Company and formerly held by the late James Lasthop. The recital that Gurling's own land was lately purchased from the Company and formerly held by the late James Lasthop indicates that the 20-acre freehold parcel confirmed in the same-day deed had been acquired from the Company itself rather than through private succession from Lasthop. The Company appears to have taken the Lasthop ground into its hands on his death and then sold it forward to Gurling, with the present 1713 confirmation regularising the title under the 1711 framework. The pattern resembles the Belward to Bell transaction of August 1712, where the Company interposed itself between a private seller and buyer. The reference to land belonging to the late Edward Bagley's children, then in the possession of Thomas Smithen, identifies an institutional arrangement under which the children's underlying tenure had been let out to a working occupant during their minority or pending settlement of the inheritance. The distinction between underlying ownership (the Bagley children) and active |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | possession (Thomas Smithen) reproduces the institutional precision noted in the Slaughter lease of the same date, where Benjamin Greentree's land lay in Richard Swallow's possession. The 1711 documentary framework consistently distinguished tenure from physical occupation where they did not coincide. Thomas Smithen as a working occupant of the Bagley children's land introduces a new individual into the present series. The Smithen name does not appear elsewhere in the records currently before the present record, suggesting either a more recent arrival or a smaller holder whose own tenure has not generated documented transactions. The second parcel of <math>3\frac{3}{4}</math> acres in a branch of Lemon Valley is bounded on all four sides by the Company's waste land, placing it as an enclosed island of leasehold within unenclosed Company ground. The configuration matches the John Roberts personal lease of 1 August 1711, also bounded by Company waste on all sides, and the Cole-Swallow Deep Valley mansion purchase of June 1705 noted in the earlier records. The pattern indicates a recurrent type of small leasehold or freehold enclave within institutional ground. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1713, rather than from 25 March 1711 as used in the principal 1711 leases, marks a refinement in the back-dating practice of the 1711 framework. Leases executed in 1713 commenced from the most recent Lady Day rather than being back-dated to the original institutional commencement of the framework. The change indicates that the 1711 procedure had become a continuing administrative process rather than a single one-off documentary regularisation, with the commencement date adjusted to reflect each year's institutional cycle. The fractional acreage of the second and third parcels (<math>3\frac{3}{4}</math> acres and <math>1\frac{1}{4}</math> acres) reflects the precision of the 1711 surveying programme, with the measured ground recorded down to quarter-acre increments. The institutional shift from the round-number allocations of the 1682 inquest (10, 20, 30 acres) to the precise survey measurements of the 1711 framework represents a significant administrative development in the documentation of island tenure. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested Gurling's freehold confirmation of the same day, the Harding children's confirmation of the same day, and the Slaughter lease of the same day. The continuity of the witness panel across the four 4 August 1713 instruments confirms that the day's business was conducted by a stable group of witnesses moving through the sequence of confirmations and leases in coordinated session. The combined annual rent on the 11 acres of leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £2 15s 0d per annum. The aggregate rent on the 11-acre leasehold extension fits within the moderate range of supplementary leasehold rents, reflecting the small individual parcel sizes rather than any preferential treatment. Speculations The decision to combine three small parcels (6, <math>3\frac{3}{4}</math> and <math>1\frac{1}{4}</math> acres) within a single lease, rather than as three separate instruments, indicates the institutional preference for consolidating a holder's various leased fragments into a single documentary record. The arrangement reduced administrative cost and produced a comprehensive picture of the individual's leasehold position, while preserving the geographic distinctness of each parcel through the boundary descriptions and the annexed plan. The configuration of the three leasehold parcels around Gurling's confirmed freehold ground suggests a strategy of completing the boundary line at points where the freehold met the surrounding Company waste. The third parcel's recital that it adjoined Gurling's own land lately purchased from the Company indicates a deliberate |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | sequencing, with the freehold acquisition followed shortly afterward by the leasehold extension along the adjacent waste. The two-stage approach allowed Gurling to secure the freehold core first and then expand outward into the surrounding ground through the more flexible leasehold instrument. The same-day execution of Gurling's freehold confirmation and leasehold extension, alongside the Slaughter lease and the Harding children's confirmation, indicates that 4 August 1713 was a major working day for the documentary regularisation of Sandy Bay, Lemon Valley and Fryer Valley holdings. The administrative concentration of multiple substantial instruments within a single sitting represents an institutional effort to clear accumulated business in a coordinated session, with the consultation work having been undertaken in the preceding January and the formal confirmations and leases issued together in August. The continued involvement of Gurling in the 1711 framework, six years after his £500 0s 0d Hoskison purchase and five years after his Belward purchase, indicates a sustained commitment to the regularisation of his various holdings through the new documentary regime. The pattern contrasts with holders who appeared in the framework once and then disappeared from the records, and suggests that Gurling's active property dealing required continuing documentary maintenance to keep his interests defensible against future challenge.             |
| 129          | 124          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Geo[rge] Carne The Lords Proprietors of this Island The honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies Do hereby Confirm unto George Carne freeholder Thirty Acres of Gumwood Land butting and bounding Towards the North upon the Lands of Richard Gurling freeholder, Towards the East upon the Lands of the Honourable Companys great Plantation, Towards the South upon the Lands of the Lords of George[?] Keiling, and towards the West upon the Lands of Walter Mor[ris] freeholder, Which he the said George Carne hath a just right and Title to, As may appear more largely, Upon Examination in a Consultation of the Thirteenth day of February One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve, and Notice being given by Beat of Drum for any Person to make their Claim on a Certain day therein limitted but none Appearing or any Objection made, To have and to hold The said Premises to him the said George Carne his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said George Carne his Heires and Assignes do bear always true faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these Presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. | Company grant to George Carne, 4 August 1713, with later assignment by George Carne to the Company, 22 December 1714. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to George Carne, freeholder, 30 acres of gumwood land. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of Richard Gurling, freeholder, to the east by the land of the Company's great plantation, to the south by the lands of the heirs of George Keiling, with the reading of the qualifying word uncertain in the manuscript, and to the west by the land of Walter Morris, freeholder. Carne's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 13 February 1713. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to George Carne and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. On 22 December 1714, George Carne assigned all his right, title and interest in the 30 acres to the Company and its heirs or assigns for ever, in consideration of £150 0s 0d paid to him before the signing of the assignment. The |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Sealed and Delivered In the Presence of: Tho[s] CasonH Francis Jn[o] AlexanderGeo[rge] Cornes Assignm[t] of this Deed of y[e]Comp[a] I Do hereby Assigne all my Right, title, &amp;Interest in the above ment[ione]dThirty Acres of Land to the Hon[ble] Comp[a] &amp;their Heires or Assignes for Ever inconsideration of One hundred &amp; fifty pounds paidme before the Signinghereof. Witness my hand this 22[d] of Dec[embe]r1714. George CarneAttested by: Donald Hollinell[?] H Antipas Tovey | assignment was witnessed by Donald Hollinell, with the surname uncertain in the manuscript, and Antipas Tovey. Interpretations The grantee is the same George Carne who had figured prominently in earlier records as a substantial merchant and land accumulator. The boundary description places his 30 acres directly south of Richard Gurling's 11 acres confirmed on the same day, indicating that the two deeds were drafted to reflect the mutual boundary between the adjoining estates. The reciprocal recording of Carne and Gurling as neighbours fixes their shared line by mutual reference across the same-day confirmations. The consultation date of 13 February 1713 places the examination within the same January-February 1713 administrative cycle that produced the 15 January 1713 consultation underlying the Harding children's confirmation and the Gurling confirmation of the same day. The clustering of consultations within the winter of 1713, followed by the issue of formal deeds in the August sitting, confirms the working pattern of the 1711 framework as a continuing administrative process with seasonal cycles of examination and engrossment. The reference to the Company's great plantation as the eastern boundary identifies a substantial Company-managed agricultural establishment, distinct from the unenclosed Company waste land that bounds most of the other parcels in the present series. The great plantation appears earlier in the records, including the boundary description of the 4 January 1705 Leach to Carne sale of 15 acres at the head of Fryer Valley, where the eastern boundary had also been the Company's great plantation. The persistence of this institutional land use across the period 1705 to 1713 indicates a long-term Company investment in direct agricultural management alongside the framework of private freehold and leasehold tenure. The southern boundary against the lands of the heirs of George Keiling reproduces the persistent presence of the Keeling family estate, last documented as the late Governor Keeling's land at the head of Fryer Valley in the 4 January 1705 Leach to Carne deed. The deceased Governor Keeling's holdings continued to be identified by family reference across the documentary record, with the heirs maintaining the boundary position more than a decade after his death. Walter Morris on the western boundary continues his appearance across earlier records, including his 1707 sale of his late father's Chapel Valley house to John Clavering for £40 0s 0d and his earlier appearance in 1705 as a witness to the Mary Oliver indenture to George Carne. The 1713 boundary reference confirms his continued presence as a Fryer Valley holder alongside his urban Chapel Valley dealings. The eighteen-month interval between the 4 August 1713 confirmation and the 22 December 1714 assignment back to the Company indicates that Carne held the freehold for a short period before reconveying it to the Company at the price of £150 0s 0d. The brief tenure suggests either a planned arrangement under which the freehold confirmation was a step within a wider transaction, or a change of circumstances that prompted Carne to dispose of the holding within months of acquiring it. The price of £150 0s 0d on a 30-acre parcel produces a per-acre rate of £5 0s 0d, well above the upland rate of £1 0s 0d to £2 0s 0d per acre noted across the 1682 to 1712 records. The premium reflects the gumwood classification and possibly the proximity to the Company's great plantation, but also indicates that Carne realised a substantial price for ground that had not been held under independent tenure for long. The assignment of the freehold back to the Company, rather than to a private buyer, completes a circular transaction: the Company confirmed the freehold to Carne |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | in August 1713, and Carne reconveyed it to the Company in December 1714. The institutional purpose of such a manoeuvre is not immediately apparent on the face of the documents, since the Company could have retained the original ground without granting it out in the first place. The brief assignment instrument follows the standard form of a quit-claim or release rather than a full conveyance, with consideration recited as £150 0s 0d paid before signing and the transfer described as all my right, title and interest. The compressed form reflects the institutional rather than private character of the transaction, with the Company already having the underlying proprietary interest and Carne releasing the documented freehold confirmation back to the institution. Antipas Tovey witnessing the December 1714 assignment connects this transaction to the wider Tovey family documentary involvement, including the 18 June 1713 gift to Mary Maxwell and the later register function performed by Tovey. The continuity of witness participation across multiple instruments reflects the small literate circle that underpinned the documentary regime. Speculations The circular transaction by which the Company confirmed the freehold to Carne in August 1713 and then reacquired it in December 1714 suggests an institutional purpose beyond the apparent transfer of ownership. The most probable explanation is that the 1713 confirmation served to fix the formal boundaries and tenure of a parcel whose status had become uncertain through earlier informal dealings, and the 1714 assignment then converted the confirmed freehold into Company ground free of any residual private claim. The £150 0s 0d consideration paid to Carne would in this case represent compensation for releasing his interest rather than a market price for the ground itself. An alternative explanation is that Carne accepted the freehold confirmation in August 1713 with the intention of holding it as a tradeable asset, and then disposed of it back to the Company in December 1714 as part of his wider financial reorganisation in preparation for either his own departure from the island or his marriage to Frances Goodwin between August 1713 and May 1715. The 1715 sale of the Goodwin Captain's House by George and Frances Carne to Henry Francis for £285 0s 0d realised cash for the Carne household at a similar period, suggesting a coordinated disposal of various land assets between late 1714 and mid-1715. The Company's willingness to pay £150 0s 0d to reacquire a freehold it had granted only sixteen months earlier indicates either that the institutional value of the parcel was substantial enough to justify the buyback or that the Company sought to clear a boundary anomaly before further private accumulation took place. The proximity to the Company's great plantation supports the institutional value reading, with the Company likely seeking to extend its directly managed agricultural establishment into the adjoining gumwood ground. The pricing benchmark of £5 0s 0d per acre established by this transaction places the Carne freehold within the upper tier of the recorded land values, exceeding the rates achieved by most upland transactions in the documented record. The premium price suggests that the institutional buyback was not a simple market transaction at the open price, but represented a negotiated settlement that compensated Carne generously for releasing the title and removing the parcel from private circulation. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 130 | 125          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Lease to Cason The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett Unto Lieutenant Thomas Cason Five Acres of Cabbagetree Land, Lying Scituate and being in Sandy Bay, under the Mainridge which was formerly in the Possession of Henry Webly, butting and bounding towards the North and East upon the Honourable Companys West Land, Towards the South upon the Land of Thomas Swallow, and towards the West upon the said Honourable Companys Land, now in the Possession of Charles Steward. To have and to hold The aforesaid Five Acres of Land, To him the said Thomas Cason his Executors Adminis- trators and Assignes for Tearne and time of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty Fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven Hundred &amp; Thirteen Upon Condition That he y[e] said Thomas Cason his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always Do and bear true faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and constitutions of y[e] said Island. And Yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) the annuall Rent and sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre besides one shilling duty, being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Honour[able] Company, and their Successors. AND that he y[e] said Thomas Cason his Executors Administrat[ors] and Assignes shall and Do at y[e] Expiration of the said Teerne of Twenty one years, leave the Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter y[e] Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will occasion the alteration of y[e] Plot hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or interest in y[e] Same without y[e] Consent of Governour &amp; Councell, for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof y[e] said Honourable Company and Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale, at their Castle in James Vally the Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August, A. A. this Year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Thirteen, and y[e] said Thomas Cason to the other part hath Sett his hand and Seale. Sealed and Delivered Tho[s] Cason in the P[re]sence of: Matthew BazettH Francis | Company lease to Thomas Cason, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Lieutenant Thomas Cason 5 acres of cabbage tree land in Sandy Bay, lying under the Main Ridge. The parcel had formerly been in the possession of Henry Webly. It was bounded to the north and east by the Company's waste land, to the south by the land of Thomas Swallow, and to the west by the Company's land then in the possession of Charles Steward. The lease ran to Thomas Cason and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1713. Cason and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Thomas Cason set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Matthew Bazett and Henry Francis. Interpretations The grantee's title of lieutenant marks Cason's elevation from his earlier rank of ensign recorded in the lease of Welley's Land on 27 July 1711. The promotion from ensign to lieutenant within just over two years indicates active military advancement, with Cason now holding the second commissioned rank in the garrison hierarchy. The combination of military rank and continued private land holding reproduces the broader pattern of garrison officers building up estates alongside their military careers. The recital that the parcel had formerly been in the possession of Henry Webly identifies an earlier holder whose tenure had ended before the present lease. The Webly name appears earlier in the 1 August 1711 John Robinson lease, where the western boundary had been recorded as Company land formerly held by Henry Webby. The variant spellings Webly and Webby refer to the same earlier holder, with his Sandy Bay ground now subject to redistribution by the Company under the 1711 framework. The 5 acres now leased to Cason represent one portion of the former Webly ground, with the |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | remaining portion previously identified as Company land on Robinson's western boundary. The reference to the Company's land in the possession of Charles Steward on the western boundary illustrates the same distinction between underlying tenure and active possession noted in the Slaughter lease and the Gurling lease. Steward held the ground in working possession but the underlying tenure remained with the Company, indicating an informal or unrecorded arrangement that the documentary regime acknowledged without formal regularisation. Charles Steward's persistent appearance across the Sandy Bay records confirms his position as one of the most substantial holders in the area. Thomas Swallow on the southern boundary continues his appearance as a major Sandy Bay holder, with his 40-acre 1711 freehold and 31-acre 1711 leasehold combining into one of the largest combined estates documented in the present series. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1713, rather than from 25 March 1711 as in the principal first-round leases, reproduces the 1713 commencement date used in the Gurling lease of the same day. The 1711 framework had by 1713 evolved into a continuing administrative process, with the leasehold commencement dates adjusted to reflect the most recent Lady Day rather than the original framework date. The combined annual rent on the 5-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £1 5s 0d per annum. The modest rent reflects the small size of the parcel and places Cason's leasehold revenue contribution within the lower tier of the framework rents, in contrast to the £10 1s 0d per annum on his original 40-acre Welley's Land leasehold. The witness panel of Matthew Bazett and Henry Francis is reduced from the four-person panel used on the same day for the Slaughter lease, the Harding children's confirmation, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Gurling lease and the Carne freehold confirmation. The absence of John Alexander and Thomas Cason himself from the present witness list reflects the practical impossibility of Cason witnessing his own lease, and indicates that the surrounding witnesses had moved on to other business by the time the present lease was sealed. The acquisition of the 5-acre parcel under Cason's lieutenant rank, two years after his original 40-acre lease as ensign, suggests a continuing institutional pattern of allocating reverted ground to officers as their careers progressed. The combined position by August 1713 placed him at 45 acres of Sandy Bay leasehold (40 acres at Welley's Land plus the present 5 acres), placing his combined holding among the larger leasehold estates of the framework. Speculations The decision to add a small 5-acre parcel to Cason's existing leasehold, rather than to grant a substantial new holding, suggests the Company was using marginal reverted ground to extend the working capacity of established officers' estates rather than to bring new tenants into the framework. The selection of a parcel formerly held by Henry Webley indicates that reverted Sandy Bay ground was being parcelled out in small allocations rather than consolidated into larger blocks, perhaps because the boundaries had been fragmented by the original Webley occupation or because the Company sought to spread the leasehold revenue across multiple tenants. The contrast between Cason's 1711 status as ensign and free islander and his 1713 status as lieutenant indicates that his military career had advanced significantly in the intervening period. The simultaneous extension of his land holding through the present lease may have been intended to provide an officer of his new rank with the increased private resources appropriate to the elevated position. The institutional alignment of military promotion with land |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | allocation suggests that the Company recognised land tenure as a form of officer compensation, supplementing the formal military pay with productive ground. The continued appearance of Cason as both lessee in the present instrument and as witness on the earlier Slaughter lease of the same day indicates a growing dual role within the documentary system. By August 1713 Cason had passed from being simply a recipient of Company allocations to participating in the witnessing of his neighbours' transactions. The progression reflects the practical mechanism by which new members were admitted to the small literate circle that underpinned the formal record, with established holders taking on documentary roles as they accumulated standing and property.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 131          | 126          | St Helena. Comp[a] Deed to R[ichard] SwallowThe Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honour[able] United Company of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies.Do hereby Confirm unto Richard Swallow Free Holder Eighteen Acres of Cabbagetree Land Scituate at y[e] Head of Deep Vally being formerly the Lands of Thomas Coals (dec[ease]d) Butting and bounding towards y[e] East, South upon Thirteen Acres of y[e] Honour[ables] Companys Land Hired by y[e] said Richard Swallow, towards the West upon y[e] Lands in Possession of Matthew Bazett[s] hired of the said Honourable Company, and towards the North upon the Land of Thomas Allis Free Holder, which he y[e] said Richard Swallow hath a Just right and Title to[o], as may appear more largely upon Examination in a Consultation of the 15 day of January A. A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any person to make their Claim on a day certain therein Limitted but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold the said premises to him y[e] said Richard Swallow his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said Richard Swallow his Heires and Assignes Do bear alwayes true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queene her Heires and Successors and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, In Witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these Presents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. A. Day of August One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen.Sealed and Delivered in the Presence of:Tho[s] CasonH FrancisJn[o] Alexander | Company grant to Richard Swallow, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Richard Swallow, freeholder, 18 acres of cabbage tree land at the head of Deep Valley. The land had formerly belonged to the late Thomas Coals. The parcel was bounded to the east and south by 13 acres of Company land hired by Swallow himself, to the west by land in the possession of Matthew Bazett held on hire from the Company, and to the north by the land of Thomas Allis, freeholder. Swallow's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Richard Swallow and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same Richard Swallow who had earlier appeared as buyer of the Deep Valley mansion house and 17 acres from Thomas Cole on 5 June 1705 for £104 0s 0d, as the son and heir apparent who sold his reversionary interest to his mother Margaret Sech on 4 February 1705 for £140 0s 0d, and as witness to the Orchard-Bagley assignment and the Tovey-Bagley assignment of 1711 and 1713. The present confirmation regularises his Deep Valley holdings within the 1711 documentary framework, fixing his title to 18 acres at the head of the valley. The recital that the ground had formerly belonged to the late Thomas Coals introduces an earlier holder whose tenure had ended before the present confirmation. The Coals surname connects with the Henry Coales of Pleasant |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | Valley in the 1682 inquest, the Henry Coales recorded as a witness to the Sutton Isaack to Audouart gift of October 1698, and the late Thomas Coales noted as the northern boundary in the Cason 27 July 1711 Welley's Land lease. The variant spellings Coals, Coales and Coules across the records refer to the same family, with the present Thomas Coals identifiable as the same individual whose death was noted in the 1711 boundary descriptions. The boundary description's reference to 13 acres of Company land hired by Swallow himself on the east and south of the confirmed parcel records his combined working estate as a substantial Deep Valley holding. The 18-acre confirmed freehold plus 13 acres of Company leasehold produces a combined working area of 31 acres at the head of the valley. The configuration reproduces the pattern noted across the 1711 framework, where confirmed freehold sat adjacent to Company leasehold under the same holder's working tenure. Matthew Bazett as the western boundary holder, with his land described as in his possession and held on hire from the Company, reproduces the institutional precision used elsewhere in the 1713 instruments. Bazett's Deep Valley leasehold connects to his earlier acquisition of 10 acres at the head of Deep Valley from Jonathan Mudge documented in the present record. The present reference indicates that Bazett continued to occupy Deep Valley ground in 1713, building on his earlier acquisitions and his role as fifth in council and surveyor for the 1711 framework. Thomas Allis as the northern boundary, recorded as freeholder, continues the documentary record of his substantial Deep Valley estate. Allis had been described as of Deep Valley in his April 1704 purchase from Benjamin Miller, and his title now stands confirmed in the present 1713 boundary reference. The continuing presence of Allis as a Deep Valley boundary holder fixes his estate as one of the dominant private holdings at the head of the valley. The consultation date of 15 January 1714, falling after the deed date in modern reckoning, reproduces the chronological pattern noted in the Harding children's confirmation and the Gurling freehold confirmation of the same day. As before, the consultation date is here read as 15 January 1713 in the old calendar, equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning, placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The clustering of three same-day confirmations (Harding children, Gurling, and the present Swallow) all referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation indicates a coordinated processing of multiple confirmations from the same winter sitting. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested the Gurling freehold confirmation of the same day, the Gurling lease, and the Harding children's confirmation. The continuity of the witness panel across the four 4 August 1713 instruments confirms the stable composition of the documentary attendance throughout the day's business, with the same group moving through a sequence of related instruments in coordinated session. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Swallow's hired ground, in contrast to the freehold-plus-lease packaging used for some 1711 holders, indicates that the 13 acres he hired from the Company remained under separate documentation not represented in the present record. The reference to the hired ground within the freehold confirmation captures the boundary relationship without bringing the leasehold itself within the 1711 framework on this occasion. The cabbage tree classification of the 18-acre parcel matches the dominant tree cover at the head of Deep Valley, in contrast to the gumwood land that predominated in the Sandy Bay and Lemon Valley confirmations of the same day. The classification distinction reflects the differentiated landscape across the |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|---------------------|--------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | island, with each valley carrying its own characteristic vegetation. Speculations The confirmation of 18 acres to Richard Swallow at the head of Deep Valley, set against the earlier 1705 purchase of 17 acres of cabbage tree land plus the mansion house from Thomas Cole, suggests a connection between the two transactions. The 1705 purchase had referred to 10 acres formerly Richard Leach's and 7 acres formerly John Hemmons's, with the land bordered on all sides by the Company's waste land. The present 1713 confirmation of 18 acres, formerly belonging to the late Thomas Coals, may represent a separate accumulation from the 1705 purchase, or alternatively the same ground re-described under different earlier holders following further investigation by the 1711 surveying. The reference to the parcel as formerly belonging to the late Thomas Coals, rather than to Richard Leach or John Hemmons, indicates either that the underlying chain of title had been re-examined under the 1711 framework or that the present 18 acres represent additional Deep Valley ground beyond the original 1705 purchase. The two readings cannot be definitively distinguished on the face of the present record, but the difference between 17 acres in 1705 and 18 acres in 1713 supports the second reading, with the present confirmation covering a separately accumulated parcel. The substantial combined working estate of 31 acres at the head of Deep Valley (18 acres freehold plus 13 acres hired ground), set against the Matthew Bazett holdings on the west and the Thomas Allis estate on the north, indicates that the head of Deep Valley had become the focus of substantial private accumulation by 1713. The combined holdings of Swallow, Bazett and Allis at the head of the valley represent a significant concentration of cultivated ground, with the Company waste land that had previously surrounded the area now largely brought within documented tenure. The acquisition of the Deep Valley mansion estate by Richard Swallow in 1705 and the present confirmation of substantial additional Deep Valley ground in 1713 trace a sustained accumulation strategy across the eight-year period. Swallow's progression from 17 acres with mansion in 1705 to 31 acres combined freehold and leasehold in 1713, alongside his continued urban dealings and his role as witness to multiple lease assignments, marks him as one of the more active estate-builders documented in the present series.  |
| 132 | 127          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Lease to R[ichard] Swallow The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honour[able] United Company of Merchants of England Tradeing to y[e] East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Richard Swallow Freeholder, Thirteen Acres of Cabbage Tree Land, Scituate lying and being at or near the head of Deep Vally butting and bounding towards the North, East and West, upon the said Richard Swallows own Land, formerly Thomas Coales dec[ease]d, and towards the South upon the Honourable Companys Wast Land, | Company lease to Richard Swallow, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Richard Swallow, freeholder, two parcels totalling 15 acres at or near the head of Deep Valley. The first parcel, of 13 acres of cabbage tree land, was bounded to the north, east and west by Swallow's own land, formerly held by the late Thomas Coales, and to the south by the Company's waste land.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------|-----------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | ALSO Two Acres of Land more, butting &amp; bounding every way upon the said Honourable Companys Wast Land containing in both parcells Fifteen Acres. To have and to hold the same to him the said Richard Swallow his Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes for the Tearne &amp; time of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Upon Condition That he the said Richard Swallow his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always Do and bear true Truth and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, and yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) The Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings per Acre, besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annum, in good &amp; Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors, And that he the said Richard Swallow his Executors Administrators and Assignes Shall and Do at y[e] Expiration of the said Tearne of Twenty one Years, leave the Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter y[e] said Fences, which are the Land marks and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in y[e] same, without consent of y[e] Governour &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof, the said Honourable United Company, and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents, have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August A. A. y[e] year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. And y[e] said Richard Swallow to the other part hath Sett his Hand &amp; Seale. Sealed and Delivered Rich[a]rd Swallow in y[e] Presence of: Tho[s] [Cason] H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | The second parcel, of 2 acres of land, was bounded on all four sides by the Company's waste land. The lease ran to Richard Swallow and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1713. Swallow and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Richard Swallow set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Swallow's same-day freehold confirmation completes the institutional package by which his confirmed freehold core of 18 acres was supplemented by 15 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 33 acres at the head of Deep Valley places him among the substantial multi-tenure holders of the August 1713 sitting, alongside Gurling (42 acres combined) and the wider tenure clusters of Sandy Bay. The freehold confirmation issued on the same day had referred to 13 acres of Company land hired by Swallow on the east and south boundaries of the confirmed parcel. The present lease formalises that 13-acre hired ground as the first parcel of leasehold under the 1711 framework. The reciprocal reference between the two same-day instruments fixes the relationship between freehold and leasehold by mutual recording, with each deed acknowledging the other's parcel as boundary or working ground. The slight inconsistency in the boundary direction (the freehold names the hired land as east and south; the lease describes the leasehold parcel as bounded by Swallow's own land on north, east and west, and by Company waste on south) indicates that the two parcels sit in a complementary configuration rather than as straightforward neighbours on a single line. The arrangement places the 13-acre leasehold partially wrapped around the 18-acre freehold, with the leasehold extending the working block toward the southern Company waste land. The second parcel of 2 acres, bounded on all four sides by Company waste, sits as a separate enclave within unenclosed Company ground. The configuration matches the pattern noted in the John Roberts personal lease of 1 August 1711, the Cole-Swallow Deep Valley mansion purchase of June 1705, and the second parcel of the Gurling lease of the same day. The recurrence of small enclaves bounded entirely by Company waste across multiple instruments indicates a regular feature of the 1711 framework, where small parcels of cultivable ground within larger Company holdings were individually leased to nearby holders. The recital of Swallow's own land as formerly Thomas Coales's, reproduced from the freehold confirmation of the same day, fixes the chain of title for the freehold core. The continued naming of the late Coales as the previous holder, even on the boundary of the lease where the leasehold itself had no Coales history, illustrates the institutional practice of preserving documented title chains across multiple instruments to support future verification. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1713, in line with the Gurling lease and the Cason lease of the same day, confirms the institutional adoption of the most recent Lady Day as the commencement date for 1713 leases. The shift from the original 25 March 1711 commencement used in the principal first-round leases reflects the framework's evolution into a continuing administrative process with annual cycles. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Gurling lease, the Harding children's confirmation and Swallow's own freehold confirmation of the same day. The continuity of the panel across the August 1713 sitting confirms the stable composition of the documentary attendance, with the same group of witnesses moving through the sequence of related instruments in coordinated session. The combined annual rent on the 15-acre leasehold extension, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £3 15s 0d per annum. The aggregate rent fits within the moderate range of the leasehold revenues recorded across the present series, and complements rather than dominates Swallow's confirmed freehold position. Speculations The deliberate placement of the 13-acre leasehold parcel against the south of the 18-acre freehold, with the leasehold acting as the boundary against the unenclosed Company waste, indicates a strategy of locking in the boundary line between cultivated ground and uncultivated Company ground through the leasehold instrument. By taking the leasehold as the outer ring of the working estate, Swallow protected the freehold core against any future Company decision to grant or lease the adjoining waste to a different holder whose use might encroach on the established cultivation. The addition of the 2-acre enclosed parcel within Company waste suggests Swallow was filling a specific gap or extending his working capacity into a discrete pocket of cultivable ground not contiguous with his main holding. The institutional willingness to lease such small enclaves to nearby holders, rather than retaining them as unallocated waste, reflects the Company's interest in maximising the rent generated from cultivable ground across the island while preserving its overall proprietary control. The coordinated processing of multiple Deep Valley and adjacent confirmations on 4 August 1713 (Swallow's freehold and lease, Gurling's freehold and lease, the Harding children's grant, the Slaughter lease and the Cason lease) indicates a major administrative effort to clear accumulated business across several valleys in a single sitting. The same witness panel attending each instrument suggests the council and its small literate circle worked through the entire day's business in continuous session, moving from one holder to the next without interruption. The institutional efficiency of such coordinated processing reflects the documentary maturity that the 1711 framework had achieved by its second year of operation. The selective regularisation of Swallow's holdings through the present freehold-plus-lease package, leaving any other Sandy Bay or Chapel Valley interests unaddressed, indicates that the 1711 framework operated on a parcel-by-parcel basis rather than as a comprehensive estate review. The Deep Valley estate received documentary attention because the freehold core there required confirmation, while other Swallow interests elsewhere on the island remained outside the present round of regularisation, perhaps awaiting later processing or relying on their established documentary basis. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 133 | 128          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Deed to Walter Morris[s] The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading into the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto Walter Morris[s] freeholder, Ten Acres of Gumwood Land Lying Scituate in Fryor Vally, butting and bounding towards the North upon y[e] Lands of Richard Gurling freeholder, Towards the East upon the Lands of George Carne, Towards the South upon the Lands of Governour Keelings Children, and towards the West upon the said Honourable Lords Proprietors Wast Land, Which he the said Walter Morris[s] hath a just right and Title to[o], as may appear more largely upon Examination, in a Con- sultation of the Fifteenth day of January A. A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and Notice being given by Beat of Drum, for any Person to make their Claim on a certain day therein Limitted, but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to him the said Walter Morris[s] his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said Walter Morris[s] his Heires and Assignes Do bear always true Truth and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, In witness whereof the said Honourable Lords Proprietors to these Presents, have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth A. A. day of August A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in the p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander This Deed is assigned by y[e] s[ai]d Walter Morris to Cap[t] [En]o[h?] Goodwin by Indo[rsement] hereon dated 5[th] Nov[r] 1723 &amp; Entred in the new Reg[r] Book Fol[io] 39. T W [...rid]g[e] R[r?] | Company grant to Walter Morris, 4 August 1713, with later assignment by Walter Morris to Captain Enoch Goodwin, 5 November 1723. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Walter Morris, freeholder, 10 acres of gumwood land in Fryer Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of Richard Gurling, freeholder, to the east by the land of George Carne, to the south by the lands of Governor Keeling's children, and to the west by the Company's waste land. Morris's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Walter Morris and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. A later endorsement records that on 5 November 1723 Walter Morris assigned the deed to Captain Enoch Goodwin, with the reading of the first name uncertain in the manuscript. The assignment was entered in the new register book at folio 39, and the entry was attested by T W [...rid]g[e] in the register's role, with the surname imperfectly legible. Interpretations The grantee is the same Walter Morris (also recorded as Morres or Morris in earlier instruments) who had appeared across the records as a witness to the 1706 Mary Oliver indenture to George Carne, as the seller of his late father's Chapel Valley house to John Clavering on 3 July 1707 for £40 0s 0d, and as a boundary holder in multiple Fryer Valley confirmations. The present confirmation regularises his title to 10 acres of gumwood land in Fryer Valley under the 1711 framework. The boundary description places Morris's parcel directly south of Richard Gurling's confirmed freehold and west of George Carne's 30-acre confirmed freehold, both confirmed on the same day. The three same-day confirmations (Gurling, Carne, Morris) thus fixed the mutual boundary lines between three adjoining Fryer Valley holders by reciprocal reference across the instruments. The coordinated processing of the three adjoining estates within a single sitting reproduces the administrative pattern noted in the Swallow-Gurling Sandy Bay pairings of 20 July 1711. The southern boundary against the lands of Governor Keeling's children continues the persistent appearance of the Keeling family estate in Fryer Valley boundary descriptions, last noted in the 4 January 1705 Leach to Carne deed as the late Governor Keeling's land, in the 12 October 1706 Gurling-Hoskison sale as the source of |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | yams grown on the heirs' ground, and in the present Carne confirmation as the heirs of George Keiling. The continued institutional identification of the Keeling estate through the children's tenure across nearly two decades after the governor's death indicates the durable territorial presence of the family in the area, even without active management by adult holders. The consultation date of 15 January 1714, falling after the deed date in modern reckoning, reproduces the chronological feature noted in the earlier 4 August 1713 confirmations. The same reading applies here, with the consultation read as 15 January 1713 in the old calendar (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The Morris confirmation joins the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation and the Swallow freehold confirmation as the fourth same-day confirmation referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day. The unbroken continuity of the witness composition across at least seven instruments executed on 4 August 1713 (the Slaughter lease, the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Gurling lease, the Carne confirmation, the Swallow freehold confirmation, the Swallow lease, the Cason lease and the present Morris confirmation) confirms the sustained working session and the participation of the same small literate circle throughout the day's business. The ten-year tenure of Morris's freehold from 1713 to 1723, ending in assignment to Captain Enoch Goodwin, indicates that Morris held the parcel for a substantial period before disposing of it. The 1723 assignment falls outside the present series of records but provides a marker for the documentary continuity of the holding. The endorsement notation records the entry in the new register book at folio 39, indicating that the register had by 1723 been replaced or extended by a new volume. Captain Enoch Goodwin as the 1723 assignee, with the first name uncertain, may represent a further generation or branch of the Goodwin family beyond the Thomas Goodwin (governor), John Goodwin (eldest son) and Robert Goodwin already documented. The title of captain places the assignee within the garrison hierarchy, parallel to the earlier Captain Beale and Captain Hark[ins] noted in the urban boundary descriptions. The reference to T W [...]rid[g]le as the attesting register on the 1723 endorsement records the further succession of registers beyond John Alexander, Thomas Greene, Philip Forsy and Philipas Tovey already documented in the present series. The 1723 surname is imperfectly legible but appears to incorporate the element rid[g]le, suggesting a possible form such as Trolridge, Trotridge or a similar surname. The new register's identity remains uncertain on the present reading. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Morris on 4 August 1713, in contrast to the freehold-plus-lease packaging used for Gurling, Swallow and Carne on the same day, indicates that Morris's tenure rested entirely on the confirmed freehold without additional leasehold extension. The omission distinguishes his position from the broader pattern noted earlier in the 1711 framework, and suggests either that his working estate did not extend beyond the 10-acre core or that any leasehold ground he held was secured under separate documentation not represented in the present record. Speculations The decision to confirm Morris's title in a single 10-acre freehold parcel, without supplementary leasehold extension, suggests his working estate had reached a stable size before the 1711 framework and required only documentary regularisation rather than expansion. The absence of leasehold ground indicates either that Morris |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | had not pursued additional Company tenure or that the institutional preference for leasehold extension was applied only where holders had documented working arrangements with the Company. The coordinated 4 August 1713 confirmation of three adjoining Fryer Valley holders (Gurling on the north, Carne on the east, Morris on the south of Carne and west of Carne, with the present 10 acres positioned to complete the cluster) indicates a deliberate administrative effort to map and confirm the entire Fryer Valley landholding pattern in a single sitting. The reciprocal boundary references across the three instruments produced a comprehensive cartographic record of the area, with each freehold defined relative to its neighbours and the surrounding Company ground. The ten-year retention of the freehold from 1713 to 1723, followed by assignment to a Captain Enoch Goodwin, suggests Morris held the parcel as a working asset for an extended period before disposing of it to a member of the Goodwin family. The 1723 assignment, executed under the new register book and recorded at folio 39, marks a generational transition in the local landholding pattern, with the older free planters such as Morris giving way to military officers and the next generation of established families. The continued documentary record of the original 1713 deed, supplemented by the 1723 endorsement, illustrates the institutional practice of preserving complete title chains across successive transactions on the same parcel. The assignment of the freehold to a Goodwin family member, rather than to a new buyer outside the existing landholding circle, reproduces the pattern of intra-family or intra-circle consolidation noted in the Carne household's accumulation of the Goodwin estate through Frances Goodwin's remarriage. The Goodwin family's continued territorial expansion across nearly four decades, beginning with Thomas Goodwin's first witness role in 1683 and continuing into the 1720s, marks them as one of the most persistent estate-builders documented in the present records.  |
| 134 | 129          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Lease to Walter Morris[s]The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England, Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Set unto Walter Morrisss Free holder, One Acre and an Half of Gumwood Land, Butting and Bounding towards the North upon the Lands of George Carne, towards the East, and South, upon the Lands of Governour Keelings heirs, and towards the West upon the said Walter Morrisss his own Land Scituate in Fryer Vally. To have and to hold the aforesaid One Acre and an Half of Gumwood Land, to him the said Walter Morrisss his Heires Executors Administrators and Assignes for y[e] Terme and time of Twenty One Years Commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and twelve. Upon Condition That he the said Walter Morrisss his [Heires?] Exec[utors] and Administrators Shall always Do, and bear true Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the | Company lease to Walter Morris, 4 August 1713, with later assignment by Walter Morris to Captain Enoch Goodwin, 5 November 1723. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Walter Morris, freeholder, 1 acre and a half of gumwood land in Fryer Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of George Carne, to the east and south by the land of Governor Keeling's heirs, and to the west by Morris's own freehold land. The lease ran to Walter Morris and his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712. Morris and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per acre, made up of 4s 0d per acre                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Honourable United Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, and yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) the Annual Rent &amp; Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shillin[g] duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Acre in good and Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors AND that he the said Walter Morriss his Heires Executors and Administ[rators] shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years, leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks, and which will occasion the alteration of the Pla[t] of Plan hereunto Annexed, nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without y[e] Consent of the Governour and Councell for the time being. In Witness whereof the said Honourable Comp[any?] and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August &amp; One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and the said Walter Morriss to the other part hath Sett his Hand and Seale. Sealed and Delivered Walter Morris[s] In the Presence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander This Lease is Assigned by y[e] above named Walter Morris[s] to Cap[t] [En]o[h] Goodwin by Indorsement on y[e] back thereof dated 5[th] Nov[r] 1723. Entred in y[e] new Reg[r] Booke f[oli]o 39. T W [...]uthridg[e] [...] Co[ng?] | plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Walter Morris set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. A later endorsement records that on 5 November 1723 Walter Morris assigned the lease to Captain Enoch Goodwin. The assignment was entered in the new register book at folio 39, and the entry was attested by T W [...]uthridge in the register's role, with the surname imperfectly legible. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Morris's same-day freehold confirmation completes the institutional package by which his confirmed freehold core of 10 acres was supplemented by 1½ acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 11½ acres in Fryer Valley places him among the smaller multi-tenure holders of the August 1713 sitting, in marked contrast to the substantial Gurling, Carne and Swallow estates confirmed and leased on the same day. The earlier freehold confirmation issued the same day had not referred to any hired ground on Morris's boundaries, indicating that the present lease represents a fresh acquisition rather than the regularisation of an existing leasehold occupation. The selection of just 1½ acres as a leasehold extension reflects deliberate filling of a small gap adjoining the freehold core rather than substantial expansion of working capacity. The boundary description places the leasehold parcel between George Carne to the north, Governor Keeling's heirs to the east and south, and Morris's own freehold to the west. The leasehold thus sits as a small triangular or wedge-shaped fragment between three larger holdings, with Morris's freehold acting as the western boundary. The configuration produces a contiguous block of cultivated ground combining the 10-acre freehold and the 1½-acre leasehold, with the small leasehold fragment completing the geometric coverage of the working estate. The reference to Governor Keeling's heirs on the eastern and southern boundaries reproduces the persistent appearance of the Keeling family estate. The variant terms across the documents (the late Governor Keeling's land, his heirs, Governor Keeling's children, the heirs of George Keeling) all refer to the same descended estate, with the children or heirs continuing to hold the ground in undivided form. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712, rather than from 25 March 1713 used in the Gurling, Swallow and Cason leases of the same day, marks a distinct one-year back-dating. The variation places Morris's leasehold commencement one year earlier than the other 1713 leases, suggesting either an administrative correction to align with an earlier consultation date or a deliberate adjustment to capture an additional year of rent. The Morris freehold confirmation rested on the 15 January 1713 consultation, and the 1712 leasehold commencement may relate to an earlier examination not separately recorded in the present deed. The combined annual rent on the 1½ acres of leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces 7s 6d per annum, with the duty calculation slightly varied by the fractional acreage. The very modest rent reflects the small parcel size and represents one of the smallest individual leasehold revenues recorded in the present series. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day. The continuity of the panel across at least nine instruments executed on 4 August 1713 confirms the sustained working session and the participation of the same small literate circle throughout the day's business. The 5 November 1723 assignment to Captain Enoch Goodwin matches the same-date assignment of Morris's freehold confirmation, recorded with the same endorsement reference to the new register book at folio 39. The coordinated assignment of both freehold and leasehold instruments to the same assignee preserved the integrity of the combined working estate across the transfer, with the new holder taking on both tenures together rather than acquiring only one part. The 1723 endorsement attester T W [...]uthridge, recorded here with the surname imperfectly legible, may match the same individual identified as T W [...]rid[g]e in the freehold confirmation endorsement. The variant readings indicate that the register's surname incorporated elements such as uthridge, ridge or similar, but the precise form cannot be confidently reconstructed from the present manuscript. Speculations The selection of 1½ acres as the leasehold extension, rather than a larger parcel that would have produced more substantial agricultural capacity, suggests the available adjoining ground was already largely occupied by the Carne and Keeling estates. The small wedge-shaped fragment between three established holdings represents the practical limit of expansion available to Morris in Fryer Valley at the date of the lease, with the surrounding cultivated ground leaving little room for substantial additional acquisition. The one-year discrepancy between the 1712 commencement date of the lease and the 1713 commencement date used in other same-day leases may reflect a deliberate institutional decision to align Morris's leasehold with an earlier administrative determination, perhaps the consultation underlying the larger Gurling-Belward chain or the surveying work that mapped the Fryer Valley cluster. The variant commencement date adds an additional year of rent obligation to Morris's account compared with leases commencing in 1713, producing a small but measurable institutional revenue advantage. The combined 1723 assignment of both the freehold confirmation and the leasehold extension to Captain Enoch Goodwin indicates that the Goodwin family acquired Morris's complete Fryer Valley estate as a single transaction. The assignment of two separate tenures within the same overall holding to one assignee preserved the working integrity of the combined estate, and ensured that the new Goodwin holder took on both the long-term security of the freehold and the supplementary leasehold extension. The pattern reflects the institutional preference for keeping confirmed freehold cores and their associated leasehold extensions together where possible, rather than allowing them to be separated through differential assignment. The relative obscurity of the 1723 register's surname in the present record, with the manuscript imperfectly legible, marks a further stage in the succession of registers beyond the earlier John Alexander, Thomas Greene, Philip Forsy, Philipas Tovey and Antipas Tovey already documented. The continued turnover in the register's office across the 1711 to 1723 period reflects the steady operation of the documentary regime and its capacity to absorb new personnel as senior holders moved on, retired or returned to England. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|--------------|--------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 135          | 130          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Orlando Bagley The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honour[able] United Company of Merchants of England Tradeing to y[e] East Indies. Do hereby confirm unto Orlando Bagley Freeholder, Twenty Three Acres of Cabbage tree Land Scituate at the Head of Powels Vally, buting and bounding towards the North upon the Honourable Companys Wast Land, towards the East upon the Lands of Margaret Bagley Widow, which she Hires of the said Honourable Lords Proprietors, and towards the South and West upon the Lands of John Greentrees Orphans, now in the Possession of Richard Swallow Freeholder, Which he the said Orlando Bagley hath a Just right and Title too, as may appear more Largely upon Examination in a consultation of the 15[th] day January &amp; A. A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and Notice being given by Beat of Drum, for any Person to make their claim on a certain day therein Limmitted but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to him the said Orlando Bagley his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said Orlando Bagley his Heires and Assignes Do bear always true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In Witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these Have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth A. A. day of August A. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the Presence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company grant to Orlando Bagley, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Orlando Bagley, freeholder, 23 acres of cabbage tree land at the head of Powell's Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north by the Company's waste land, to the east by the lands of Margaret Bagley, widow, which she hired from the Lords Proprietors, and to the south and west by the lands of John Greentree's orphans, then in the possession of Richard Swallow, freeholder. Bagley's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Orlando Bagley and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same Orlando Bagley who had earlier appeared in the records as the recipient of a gift of 10 acres at the head of Chapel Valley from his father Orlando Bagley senior on 5 August 1695, and as the seller of those same 10 acres to Edward Edmunds on 9 January 1696 for £12 0s 0d. He had also acquired two Company leasehold interests by assignment: the John Orchard 10- acre lease at Peter Bagley's on 26 September 1711, and the Joseph Tovey 26-acre lease on 14 June 1713. The present confirmation establishes his freehold position at 23 acres at the head of Powell's Valley, adding substantially to his accumulated leasehold portfolio. The location at the head of Powell's Valley introduces a new place name into the present series, distinct from the earlier references to Lemon Valley, Fryer Valley, Sandy Bay, Chapel Valley, Deep Valley, Sharks Valley, Fishers |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | Valley, Sarahs Valley, Youngs Valley, Oak Gutt, Little Horsepad and Pleasant Valley. The valley takes its name from the Powell family, last documented through Gabriel Powell's extensive activities including the 1703 sale to James Greentree of 20 acres in Sandy Bay with the slave Oliver and half-still, the 1706 purchase from Hoskison of 50 acres for £350 0s 0d, and the December 1707 temporary letting of John Beale's land to James Sich. The boundary description records Margaret Bagley, widow, on the eastern boundary, with her land held on hire from the Company. The reference identifies Margaret as another widow holding leasehold ground in her own right, paralleling the substantial widow positions noted earlier in Grace Coulson, Margaret Sich and Elinor Cotgrave. The institutional recognition of widows as independent leasehold tenants across multiple boundary descriptions confirms the consistent pattern by which women held ground in their own name under the 1711 framework. The identification of Margaret Bagley as a widow does not specify her precise family connection to Orlando Bagley, but the proximity of the holdings and the shared surname suggest a close kinship. She may have been the widow of an elder Bagley such as Orlando Bagley senior or another family member documented in the records, with the Powell's Valley boundary preserving the family's territorial continuity across generational change. The southern and western boundaries against the lands of John Greentree's orphans, in the possession of Richard Swallow, reproduce the institutional distinction between underlying tenure and active possession noted across the August 1713 instruments. The orphans of the late John Greentree held the underlying interest, while Richard Swallow occupied and worked the ground in practice. The arrangement parallels the Slaughter lease record of Benjamin Greentree's land in Richard Swallow's possession, suggesting Swallow held working occupation of multiple Greentree family parcels under similar arrangements. The John Greentree of the present boundary description connects to the earlier John Greentree who sold 20 acres in Lemon Valley to Mrs Elizabeth Johnson, widow, on 27 April 1698 for £20 0s 0d in store credit. His orphans appear here as boundary holders 15 years after that sale, indicating his death in the intervening period and the persistence of his children's interests as recognised tenure units even where their ground was actively occupied by others. The dual occupancy arrangement on the Greentree orphans' ground, with Richard Swallow holding working possession, indicates a structured response to the management of minor children's interests during their minority. The institutional preference for leasing or letting out orphan ground to working occupiers, rather than allowing it to lie idle, protected the underlying inheritance value while generating income for the orphan estate. The arrangement reproduces the broader pattern of orphan protection noted across the consultation book cross-references in the February 1716 Beale-Company deed. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the chronological feature noted in the other 4 August 1713 confirmations, and is here read as 15 January 1713 in the old calendar (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The Bagley confirmation joins the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Swallow freehold confirmation and the Morris confirmation as the fifth same-day confirmation referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day. The continuity of the panel across at least 10 instruments executed on 4 August 1713 confirms the sustained working session throughout the day's business. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Orlando Bagley on the same day indicates that his existing leasehold positions (the Orchard assignment and the Tovey assignment) provided his leasehold capacity, with the present confirmation adding only the freehold dimension to his combined estate. His combined holding by August 1713 thus reached approximately 23 acres of confirmed freehold plus 36 acres of assigned leasehold (10 acres from Orchard plus 26 acres from Tovey), totalling 59 acres across multiple tenures and locations. Speculations The confirmation of 23 acres of freehold at the head of Powell's Valley to a holder who had previously built up substantial leasehold positions through assignment marks a significant shift in Orlando Bagley's land strategy. The earlier years of his recorded activity saw him receiving and disposing of small parcels (the 10-acre Chapel Valley gift in 1695 and sale in 1696), and acquiring leasehold rights through assignment (Orchard 1711, Tovey 1713). The present 1713 freehold confirmation represents the largest single-tenure acquisition documented for him in the present record, indicating a maturation of his accumulation strategy into substantial freehold tenure alongside his leasehold portfolio. The boundary descriptions placing Bagley's freehold between Margaret Bagley's leasehold to the east and the Greentree orphans' ground in Richard Swallow's possession to the south and west indicate a substantially developed Powell's Valley cluster. The presence of two Bagley holdings (Orlando's confirmed freehold and Margaret's leasehold) adjoining each other in the valley suggests deliberate family consolidation, with both Bagleys positioned in the valley as part of a coordinated estate-building strategy. The dual occupancy arrangement on the Greentree orphans' ground reflects the institutional accommodation of complex tenure situations where minor children's interests required protection through working arrangements with adult occupiers. Richard Swallow's role as the working occupier of multiple Greentree family parcels (Benjamin's land in the Slaughter lease, and John's orphans' ground in the present confirmation) marks him as a substantial intermediate in such arrangements, perhaps acting as a guardian, trustee or commercial tenant for the orphan estate. The repeated reference to his possession across multiple boundary descriptions suggests an established institutional role rather than ad hoc arrangements. The selective confirmation of Orlando Bagley's Powell's Valley freehold within the August 1713 sitting, leaving his earlier-acquired Chapel Valley and other interests outside the present round, indicates that the 1711 framework operated on a parcel-by-parcel basis rather than as a comprehensive estate review. The freehold at the head of Powell's Valley required documentary regularisation because it represented his largest single-tenure holding without prior formal confirmation, while his earlier-acquired Chapel Valley parcel had already been disposed of and his leasehold positions rested on separate assignments rather than confirmations.  |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 136 | 131          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Orlando Bagley The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honourable United Company of Merch[an]ts of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Orlando Bagley Freeholder Forty Acres of Land lying Scituate in Powels Vally, butting and bounding towards the North &amp; East upon the Honourable Companys Land Hired by Margaret Bagley Wid[ow] Towards the South upon the Lands of Benj[amin] Greentree, and towards the West upon the said Orlando Bagleys own Land. To have and to hold The aforesaid Forty Acres of Land to him the said Orlando Bagly his Heires Execut[ors] Adminis[trators] and Assignes for y[e] Terme &amp; Time of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve. Upon Condition That he the said Orlando Bagly his Heires Executors Administrators and Assigns shall always Do and bear true faith and allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to y[e] Honourable United Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, and yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) the Annuall Rent and Sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre besides one shilling duty being in all Five shillings per An[num] in good and Currant money of the said Island unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors. And that he the said Orlando Bagly his Heires Executors and Administrators shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, Nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in it, without Consent of y[e] Governour and Councell for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof the said Honourable United Company and Lords Proprietors, to these P[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth &amp; A. day of August A. One Thousand Seven and Thirteen, and the said Orlando Bagley to the other p[ar]t hath sett his Hand and Seale. Orlando Bagley Sealed and Delivered in y[e] P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company lease to Orlando Bagley, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Orlando Bagley, freeholder, 40 acres of land in Powell's Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north and east by the Company's land hired by Margaret Bagley, widow, to the south by the land of Benjamin Greentree, and to the west by Bagley's own freehold land. The lease ran to Orlando Bagley and his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712. Bagley and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Orlando Bagley set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Bagley's same-day freehold confirmation completes a substantial institutional package, with 23 acres of confirmed freehold supplemented by 40 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 63 acres in Powell's Valley places Bagley among the most substantial single-valley holders documented in the present series, exceeding the combined positions of Henry Francis at the head of Wrangham country and approaching the scale of Margaret Sich's confirmed estate. Combined with his prior assignments of the Orchard 10-acre lease and the Tovey 26-acre lease, Bagley's total tenure across multiple locations by August 1713 reaches approximately 99 acres (23 acres freehold plus 76 acres of leasehold). The aggregate position marks him as one of the largest individual landholders documented in the present records, with the bulk of his estate held under the more flexible leasehold tenure rather than freehold. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712, rather than from 25 March 1713 used in most other August 1713 leases, reproduces the variation noted in the Morris lease of the same day. The one-year back-dating to 1712 may reflect an earlier administrative determination or an institutional decision to align the commencement with a prior consultation date. The matching 1712 commencement in two of the same-day leases (Morris and Bagley) suggests a coordinated decision affecting at least two of the leases issued on 4 August 1713. The boundary description places Bagley's leasehold directly east of his own confirmed freehold, indicating a continuous working block of 63 acres in Powell's Valley. The configuration matches the consistent pattern noted across the 1711 framework, where leasehold parcels typically adjoined confirmed freehold cores under the same holder's tenure. The arrangement allows the combined estate to be worked as a single agricultural unit while the underlying titles remained separate under different institutional regimes. Margaret Bagley, widow, appears as the boundary holder on two sides of the leasehold (north and east), with her land described as Company ground held on hire. The repeated reference to her tenure across two adjacent boundaries indicates a substantial Margaret Bagley |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | leasehold in Powell's Valley, paralleling the Orlando Bagley positions. The close juxtaposition of two Bagley holdings in the same valley, both supplemented by Company leasehold, suggests deliberate family consolidation across at least two generations or branches. Benjamin Greentree on the southern boundary continues his appearance as a Sandy Bay and Powell's Valley holder, last documented as a boundary in the William Slaughter lease where his land lay in the possession of Richard Swallow. The recurrence of Benjamin Greentree across multiple August 1713 instruments fixes him as a substantial cross-valley holder, though the present record does not separately document his own tenure under the 1711 framework. The combined annual rent on the 40-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £10 0s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The substantial rent obligation places Bagley's leasehold among the larger revenue-generators of the 1711 framework, alongside the Cason 40-acre lease at £10 1s 0d per annum and the Perkins 30-acre lease at £7 10s 0d per annum. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the continuous working session throughout 4 August 1713. The unbroken witnessing across at least 11 instruments executed in coordinated session on that day represents the most extended documented continuity of witness composition in the present series. The absence of any reference to the Orchard or Tovey leasehold assignments within the present documentation indicates that those earlier acquisitions remained under separate documentation, with the present 1713 lease covering only the Powell's Valley extension. The selective regularisation of Bagley's holdings through the 1711 framework left his various tenures under multiple documentary regimes, with the freehold confirmation and the Powell's Valley lease forming a coordinated package while the earlier assignments stood apart. Speculations The acquisition of 40 acres of leasehold immediately adjacent to a 23-acre freehold confirmation, both processed within a single 1713 sitting, marks a deliberate strategy of consolidating a substantial single-valley estate under coordinated documentary protection. The Powell's Valley concentration contrasts with Bagley's earlier accumulation through scattered leasehold assignments in different locations (Peter Bagley's land for the Orchard lease, the Tovey parcel elsewhere), and indicates a maturation of his land strategy toward localised consolidation in a single area. The matching 25 March 1712 commencement dates for the Morris lease and the present Bagley lease, distinguishing them from the 25 March 1713 commencement used in the Gurling, Swallow, Cason and Charles leases of the same day, suggests that some leases were back-dated by an additional year to align with an earlier administrative determination. The institutional pattern may reflect either a deliberate decision to capture an extra year of rent obligation for certain holders or a procedural alignment with consultation dates falling in 1712 rather than 1713. The substantial size of the leasehold (40 acres) relative to the freehold (23 acres), producing a 63-acre combined estate weighted toward leasehold, indicates that Powell's Valley contained substantial Company waste available for distribution under the 1711 framework. The institutional willingness to grant Bagley such a large leasehold extension, alongside his existing freehold confirmation, suggests the Company was actively developing Powell's Valley through structured tenure arrangements rather than retaining the ground as undocumented waste. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | The combined working capacity represented by Bagley's complete documented tenure (approximately 99 acres across freehold, multiple leaseholds, and assigned interests by August 1713) makes him one of the most substantial documented holders in the present records, alongside Thomas Goodwin, George Carne, Richard Gurling and the major widows. The scale of his combined estate, built up through a sequence of gifts, sales, assignments, freehold confirmations and leasehold extensions over nearly 20 years, marks him as a successful estate-builder whose strategy combined opportunistic acquisition with systematic documentation under the institutional framework.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 137 | 132          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to B[en]j[amin] Greentree The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto Benjamin Greentree Son &amp; Heire of John Greentree dec[ease]d Freeholder, Seventeen Acres of Cabbagetree Land, Scituate in Sandy Bay under the Main ridge formerly James Riders dec[ease]d, Butting &amp; bounding towards the North, to Dianas Geak, towards the East upon the Land of Orlando Bagly, towards the South upon Nineteen Acres of y[e] Honour[ables] Companys Land, Hired for, and in behalfe of the said Benjamin Greentree by Richard Swallow in whose possession the same now is, and towards the West upon the Lands of Thomas Perkins Sen[r] As also Five Acres more of Gumwood Land, butting &amp; bounding towards the North &amp; East upon the Lands of Orlando Bagley, and towards the South &amp; West upon the Honourable Companys Waste Land in Powels Valley, being two parcels of Land, and in the whole contains Twenty two Acres, which he the said Benjamin Greentree, hath a just right and Title too, as may appear more largely upon Examination, in a Consultation of the fifteenth day of January A. A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and Notice being given by Beat of drum for any person to make their claim on a day certain therein Limitted, but none appearing or any objection made To have and to hold The said p[re]misses to him the said Benjamin Greentree his Heires and his Assignes for ever. Upon Condition That he the said Benjamin Greentree his Heires and Assigns Do bear always true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and his Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island. In Witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these Presents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island, this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August &amp; A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company grant to Benjamin Greentree, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Benjamin Greentree, son and heir of the late John Greentree, freeholder, two parcels totalling 22 acres. The first parcel, of 17 acres of cabbage tree land, lay in Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge. It had formerly belonged to the late James Rider. The parcel was bounded to the north by Diana's Geak, to the east by the land of Orlando Bagley, to the south by 19 acres of Company land hired for and on behalf of Benjamin Greentree by Richard Swallow, in whose possession it then was, and to the west by the land of Thomas Perkins senior. The second parcel, of 5 acres of gumwood land, lay in Powell's Valley. It was bounded to the north and east by the lands of Orlando Bagley, and to the south and west by the Company's waste land. Greentree's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Benjamin Greentree and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The identification of Benjamin Greentree as son and heir of the late John Greentree fixes the inheritance route by which the parcels reached the present holder. John Greentree had earlier appeared in the records as the seller of 20 acres in Lemon Valley to Mrs Elizabeth Johnson, widow, on 27 April 1698 for £20 0s 0d in store credit, and his orphans had featured as boundary holders in the Orlando Bagley confirmation of the same day in Powell's Valley. The present confirmation to Benjamin Greentree |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | as son and heir consolidates the documented inheritance into his own freehold tenure. The pairing of John Greentree's orphans (mentioned in Bagley's confirmation) and Benjamin Greentree (named here as son and heir) suggests that Benjamin had reached majority by the time of the August 1713 sitting, while younger siblings of his remained under minority. The documentary record treats the eldest son and heir as the named freeholder, while the wider sibling group continued to be identified collectively as orphans in some boundary descriptions. The arrangement reproduces the primogeniture pattern noted in the Cotgrave and Charles confirmations of earlier sittings. The recital that the first parcel had formerly belonged to the late James Rider introduces a deceased earlier holder whose Sandy Bay ground had passed into the present chain of title. James Rider had appeared as a boundary holder across multiple August 1713 instruments (the Slaughter lease, the Harding children's grant, the Margaret Sich confirmation, and others), all referring to him as a living holder. The present recital of his death may indicate that he had died between the 15 January 1713 consultation and the 4 August 1713 confirmation, but the use of the past tense formerly more probably reflects that the parcel had passed out of his hands at some earlier date, perhaps to John Greentree before his own death, with the chain now reaching Benjamin Greentree through the dual succession. The boundary description records the northern limit of the first parcel as Diana's Geak, a striking topographical name not previously documented in the present series. The term geak appears to be a local variant or scribal rendering of a feature name, perhaps referring to a peak, gap or rock formation. The reference Diana's, taking the form of a personal possessive applied to a topographical feature, suggests either a folk name commemorating a particular person or a transferred classical allusion adopted by local usage. The name fits the broader pattern of working bynames preserving local knowledge of the landscape across the formal survey records. The southern boundary against 19 acres of Company land hired for and on behalf of Benjamin Greentree by Richard Swallow records a complex tripartite arrangement. The Company held the underlying tenure, Swallow held the working possession through a hired lease, and the lease itself was held on behalf of Benjamin Greentree as the ultimate beneficiary. The institutional structure indicates that Swallow was acting as a trustee or agent for the Greentree interest, holding the leasehold under his own name while the benefit accrued to Greentree. The trustee arrangement parallels the dual occupancy noted in the Slaughter lease record of Benjamin Greentree's land in Richard Swallow's possession, and in the Orlando Bagley confirmation's recital of the late John Greentree's orphans' lands in the possession of Richard Swallow. The repeated appearance of Richard Swallow as the working occupier or trustee for multiple Greentree family interests across the August 1713 instruments fixes his role as the principal intermediate manager of the Greentree estate during the period of orphan minority or pending settlement. The arrangement by which Swallow hired the 19-acre Company parcel for and on behalf of Benjamin Greentree, with the lease in Swallow's name but the benefit to Greentree, allowed an adult freeholder to take leasehold ground that would otherwise have been difficult to allocate to a youth or to an estate in transition. The institutional flexibility in accepting such trustee arrangements indicates the Company's willingness to accommodate family management strategies that preserved children's interests while ensuring active occupation and rent payment. The second parcel of 5 acres of gumwood land in Powell's Valley, bounded by Orlando Bagley on north and east and by Company waste on south and west, places the |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | parcel in immediate proximity to Bagley's 23-acre confirmed freehold and 40-acre lease. The recital matches the Bagley lease's southern boundary reference to Benjamin Greentree, fixing the mutual line between the Bagley and Greentree Powell's Valley estates through reciprocal documentation. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the same chronological feature noted in the earlier 4 August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The Greentree confirmation joins the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Swallow freehold confirmation, the Morris confirmation and the Orlando Bagley confirmation as the sixth same-day confirmation referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the continuity of the working session throughout 4 August 1713. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Benjamin Greentree on the same day, despite the boundary recital of the 19-acre Company leasehold held by Swallow on his behalf, indicates that the trustee arrangement remained under Swallow's separate documentation. The trustee lease did not require new institutional regularisation at the August 1713 sitting because it was already operating effectively under Swallow's name, and the benefit to Greentree was preserved through the recital in the freehold confirmation. Speculations The complex tripartite arrangement by which Swallow hired Company ground in his own name on behalf of Benjamin Greentree, while also holding working possession of other Greentree family parcels, indicates a sophisticated institutional response to the management of inherited estates across generations and minorities. The Company accepted that adult trustees could take leasehold tenure on behalf of beneficiaries who were either unable or unsuitable to hold the leases directly, provided the underlying rent obligation was maintained. The pattern reflects the broader institutional flexibility of the 1711 framework in accommodating the practical realities of family succession. The confirmation to Benjamin Greentree of substantial Sandy Bay and Powell's Valley freehold (totalling 22 acres in his own name) and the associated trustee leasehold of 19 acres held by Swallow on his behalf produces a combined working interest of 41 acres distributed across two valleys. The cross-valley distribution indicates that Benjamin Greentree's inherited interests extended beyond a single localised estate, and the trustee arrangement allowed him to maintain the geographic spread without requiring him to manage the leasehold tenure directly. The deliberate documentary fixing of Benjamin Greentree as the principal heir in the present confirmation, while the wider sibling group remained collectively identified as orphans in some descriptions, suggests an ongoing process of estate settlement following John Greentree's death. The August 1713 confirmation may represent a stage in that settlement, with the eldest son taking the documented freehold tenure while the wider family interest in other parcels continued to operate through trustee arrangements pending fuller resolution. The institutional treatment of inheritance in successive stages, rather than as a single immediate distribution, allowed for the gradual transition of family estates across generational change. The Sandy Bay and Powell's Valley cluster of August 1713 instruments (Slaughter lease, Harding children's grant, Carne confirmation, Swallow freehold and lease, |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Cason lease, Morris freehold and lease, Orlando Bagley freehold and lease, and the present Greentree confirmation) collectively maps an interconnected network of holdings across two valleys, with reciprocal boundary references confirming the mutual lines between adjoining estates. The administrative achievement of fixing this entire network through a single day's sitting represents the maturity of the 1711 documentary regime, with the framework now capable of regularising complex multi-party tenure arrangements in coordinated session.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 138          | 133          | Island St Hellena The Comp[a] Lease to B[en]j[amin] Green[tree] The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Benjamin Greentree (Son &amp; Heire of John Greentree dec[ease]d) Freeholder, Nineteen Acres of Cabbagetree Land, Lying Scituate in Sandy Bay, butting &amp; bounding towards the North upon the said Benjamin Greentrees own Seventeen Acres of Land adjoining thereunto, Towards the East upon the Lands of Orlando Bagley towards the South upon the Lands of William Slaughter, which he Hires of the Honourable Company, and towards the West upon a P[a]rcel of Land now in the Possession of Thomas Gargen formerly rented of, the said Honourable Company by Richard Alexander deceased AND Two Acres of Land more, butting &amp; bounding towards the North upon his the said Benjamin Greentrees own Land before mention[ed], towards the East upon the Lands of Orlando Bagley, and towards the West and South, upon the said Hon[ourable] Companys Wast Land, being in both parcels Twenty one Acres. To have and to hold The said P[re]misses, to him the said Benjamin Greentree, and the Heires of John Greentree, his &amp; their Executors Administrators and Assigns, For the Terme of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition That he the said Benjamin Greentree his Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes shall always Do and bear true faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, and Yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March), The Annual Rent &amp; sum of Four shillings per Acre, besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings per Annum, in good &amp; Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and that he the said Benjamin Greentree his Executors Administrators or Assignes shall &amp; Do at the | Company lease to Benjamin Greentree, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Benjamin Greentree, son and heir of the late John Greentree, freeholder, two parcels totalling 21 acres in Sandy Bay. The first parcel, of 19 acres of cabbage tree land, was bounded to the north by Greentree's own 17 acres of land adjoining the leasehold, to the east by the land of Orlando Bagley, to the south by the land of William Slaughter, which he hired from the Company, and to the west by a parcel then in the possession of Thomas Gargen, formerly rented from the Company by the late Richard Alexander. The second parcel, of 2 acres of land, was bounded to the north by Greentree's own land previously mentioned, to the east by the land of Orlando Bagley, and to the west and south by the Company's waste land. The lease ran to Benjamin Greentree and the heirs of John Greentree, with their executors, administrators and assigns, for 21 years from 25 March 1712. Greentree and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, with the counterpart signed by Richard Swallow, with the reading uncertain in the manuscript. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Benjamin Greentree's same-day freehold confirmation completes the |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years, leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks and which will occasion the alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the consent of Governour &amp; Councell for the time being. In Witness whereof, the said Honourable United Company &amp; Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. day of August &amp; One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and the said Benj[amin] Greentree to the other p[a]rt hath sett his Hand &amp; Seale. Rich[ar]d Swallow[?]Sealed and Delivered in the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] CasonH[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | institutional package by which his confirmed freehold of 22 acres was supplemented by 21 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 43 acres across Sandy Bay and Powell's Valley places him among the substantial multi-tenure inheritors documented in the August 1713 sitting. The first parcel of 19 acres formally regularises the same 19-acre Company holding referenced in the freehold confirmation as hired for and on behalf of Benjamin Greentree by Richard Swallow. The present lease moves the leasehold tenure directly into Benjamin Greentree's name (in conjunction with the heirs of John Greentree), supplanting the prior trustee arrangement under Swallow. The transition indicates that the 1711 framework provided a mechanism for formalising trustee arrangements into direct beneficiary tenure as the underlying succession was settled. The vesting formula combines Benjamin Greentree personally with the heirs of John Greentree, mirroring the construction noted in the Margaret Sich lease where the leasehold ran to her and the heirs of John Sich. The arrangement protects the wider family interest by ensuring that succession to the leasehold passes through John Greentree's line rather than through Benjamin's personal heirs alone. The continuing institutional concern for the late John Greentree's children's interests, even after Benjamin had reached majority and taken his own freehold confirmation, indicates the family settlement was structured to preserve the orphan estate across the eldest son's tenure. The signature line records Richard Swallow as the apparent signatory of the counterpart, with the reading uncertain. The unusual appearance of Swallow's signature rather than Greentree's own confirms his continuing trustee or guardian role in the formal documentation, perhaps reflecting Greentree's youth or the procedural convention by which an established adult took on the formal execution of instruments on behalf of younger family members during a transitional period. The institutional acceptance of such substitutional execution preserved the legal validity of the lease while accommodating the practical realities of inherited tenure. The western boundary of the first parcel records a complex chain: a parcel then in the possession of Thomas Gargen, formerly rented from the Company by the late Richard Alexander. The recital indicates that the leasehold had passed from Alexander to Gargen on Alexander's death by 1713, presumably through Company reallocation rather than direct private transfer. The chain confirms Alexander's death and the institutional process by which his leasehold interest had been redistributed to a new tenant in the period leading up to August 1713. Thomas Gargen as the western boundary connects to the same Thomas Gargen who had received the 20-acre Company lease in Sandy Bay on 20 July 1711, building on his earlier 10-acre freehold confirmation. The further acquisition of the parcel formerly held by Alexander extends his Sandy Bay leasehold position to include ground reverted from the deceased Alexander estate. The southern boundary against William Slaughter's hired land matches the William Slaughter lease of 4 August 1713 of 15 acres across three parcels in Sandy Bay. The reciprocal documentation of the boundary between Greentree's leasehold and Slaughter's leasehold within the same day's sitting fixes the mutual line by mutual reference, with each lease describing the other's parcel. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712, rather than from 25 March 1713 used in other 4 August 1713 leases, reproduces the variation noted in the Morris lease and the Orlando Bagley lease of the same day. The three same-day leases with the 1712 commencement (Morris, Orlando Bagley and the present Greentree) thus share a distinct administrative origin, perhaps reflecting consultations conducted in 1712 rather than 1713. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The second parcel of 2 acres bounded by Greentree's own land to the north, Orlando Bagley to the east and Company waste to west and south, places this small enclave at the meeting point of the Greentree and Bagley estates. The configuration completes the geometric coverage of the Greentree working block, with the two parcels of leasehold supplementing the freehold core to produce a contiguous estate. The combined annual rent on the 21-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £5 5s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The substantial rent obligation places Greentree's leasehold among the moderately large revenue generators of the 1711 framework. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the unbroken working session throughout 4 August 1713. Speculations The substitutional execution of the counterpart by Richard Swallow rather than by Benjamin Greentree himself, despite Greentree being named as the principal lessee, suggests Greentree had not yet reached the age or standing required for direct personal execution of formal instruments. The 1711 framework accommodated such procedural arrangements by allowing trusted adults to sign on behalf of beneficiaries, with the substantive tenure vesting in the named lessee while the formal execution remained with the substitute signatory. The transition from the trustee arrangement under Swallow (recorded in the freehold confirmation as land hired for and on behalf of Benjamin Greentree by Richard Swallow) to the direct lease in Greentree's own name (with Swallow's substituted signature) represents an intermediate stage in the settlement of the John Greentree estate. The institutional process appears to have moved progressively from full trustee management toward direct beneficiary tenure, with the August 1713 lease marking a transitional moment in which the underlying tenure vested directly in Greentree but the formal execution continued through Swallow's involvement. The transfer of the parcel formerly leased by Richard Alexander to Thomas Gargen, occurring in the period between Alexander's death and the 1713 sitting, indicates an active institutional process for reallocating reverted leases. The Company did not allow the leasehold to lapse on Alexander's death but redirected it to a new tenant, preserving the rent stream and ensuring continued cultivation. The redistribution mechanism reproduces the broader institutional preference noted across the present series for active management of leasehold ground. The coordinated processing of multiple Greentree, Bagley, Slaughter, Swallow, Gargen and other Sandy Bay holdings within the single 4 August 1713 sitting indicates an administrative push to complete the documentary regularisation of the Sandy Bay landholding network. By the end of the day's business, the major holders across Sandy Bay and Powell's Valley had been brought within the 1711 framework through coordinated freehold confirmations, leasehold extensions and mutual boundary recordings. The documentary achievement represents the most extensive single-day regularisation effort documented in the present series, with at least 12 instruments executed in continuous session by the same small literate circle. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|--------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 139          | 134          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Tho[s] Allis The Lords Proprietors of this Island, The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto Thomas Allis Freeholder Three Acres of Land Scituate in Deep Valley, Butting and a Bounding towards the North upon the Honourable Companys Land Hired by him the said Thomas Allis, towards the East and South upon the said Honourable Companys Wast Land, and towards the West upon the Land of Richard Swallow Freeholder Which said Three Acres of Land, he the said Thomas Allis hath a Just right and Title too, as may appear more largely upon Examination, in a Consultation of the Fifteenth Day of January, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and Notice being given, by beat of Drum, for any Person to make their claim, on a day certaine, therein Limitted, but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold The aforesaid Three Acres of Land, to him the the said Thomas Allis, his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said Thomas Allis his Heires and Assignes Do bear always true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] to these presents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August: One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] presence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company grant to Thomas Allis, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Thomas Allis, freeholder, 3 acres of land in Deep Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north by the Company's land hired by Allis himself, to the east and south by the Company's waste land, and to the west by the land of Richard Swallow, freeholder. Allis's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Thomas Allis and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same Thomas Allis (also recorded as Thomas Allis senior in earlier instruments) who had built up a substantial Deep Valley estate over more than two decades through successive purchases. His documented acquisitions include the stone house from Robert Tomps in 1689, the 18-year lease from John Stevens in the same year, 10 acres from John Hemmons in 1696, the quit-claim from Stephen Child in 1704, and 10 acres from Benjamin Miller in 1704. His title was recorded as of Deep Valley by 1704, and he had appeared as a Deep Valley boundary holder across multiple August 1713 instruments. The present 3-acre confirmation adds a small parcel to that established estate. The modest 3-acre size of the confirmed freehold stands in sharp contrast to the substantial accumulations elsewhere recorded for Allis. The selection of just 3 acres for confirmation suggests this parcel had a distinct documentary status requiring separate regularisation, perhaps as the most recent acquisition or as the only parcel without prior formal Company recognition. His broader Deep Valley holdings, built up through private purchases over the preceding 24 years, remained outside the present round of regularisation. The boundary description records Allis's own hired Company land on the northern boundary, indicating the same combination of confirmed freehold and Company leasehold under a single holder noted in earlier 1711 confirmations. The freehold core thus adjoined a working leasehold under Allis's direct tenure, with the institutional combination producing a continuous block under different documentary regimes. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | Richard Swallow as the western boundary connects directly to the Swallow 18-acre freehold confirmation of the same day at the head of Deep Valley, and to his 15-acre leasehold extension. The reciprocal boundary references between Allis's confirmation and Swallow's freehold confirmation fix the mutual line between the two adjoining estates by mutual recording, with each deed acknowledging the other's parcel. The Swallow freehold confirmation had recorded Thomas Allis on its northern boundary, while the present Allis confirmation records Richard Swallow on its western boundary. The two reciprocal references confirm that Allis's 3-acre parcel lies immediately east of Swallow's 18-acre estate at the head of Deep Valley, with the two confirmed freeholds together forming part of a connected cluster of private holdings in the upper valley. The eastern and southern boundaries against Company waste land place the small confirmed parcel as a frontier holding extending into uncultivated Company ground. The configuration matches the pattern noted in several earlier confirmations, where small confirmed freeholds sat at the meeting point between established private estates and unenclosed Company ground. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the same chronological feature noted in the earlier 4 August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The Allis confirmation joins the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Swallow freehold confirmation, the Morris confirmation, the Orlando Bagley confirmation and the Benjamin Greentree confirmation as the seventh same-day confirmation referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the continuity of the working session throughout 4 August 1713. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Allis on the same day, despite the boundary recital of his hired Company land, indicates that his existing leasehold occupation remained under separate documentation not represented in the present record. The selective regularisation of only the 3-acre freehold, leaving the adjoining leasehold under its existing arrangement, indicates that the 1711 framework operated on a parcel-by-parcel basis rather than as a comprehensive estate review. Allis's substantial earlier accumulation through private purchases (the Tomps stone house, the Stevens lease, the Hemmons 10 acres, the Child quit-claim and the Miller 10 acres) appears to have been kept under its original private documentation rather than brought within the 1711 framework. The institutional process thus left mature private estates undisturbed where their documentary basis was secure, focusing the regularisation effort on parcels requiring formal Company recognition. Speculations The confirmation of a single 3-acre parcel to an established Deep Valley holder with substantial documented holdings elsewhere suggests this small parcel had a particular institutional status requiring confirmation. The most probable explanation is that the 3 acres had recently been acquired or had reverted from Company waste through enclosure, and that the 1711 framework provided the appropriate vehicle for formalising this new addition without disturbing Allis's broader pre-existing private estate. The placement of the confirmed parcel between Allis's own hired Company leasehold on the north and the Company waste to the east and south, with Richard Swallow's freehold on the west, indicates a deliberate |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | insertion of confirmed freehold tenure at the boundary between cultivated and uncultivated ground. By securing the 3 acres in freehold rather than leaving them under leasehold or undocumented occupation, Allis protected his working position against future Company decisions about the surrounding waste. The reciprocal documentation of the Allis-Swallow boundary across the two same-day confirmations represents the systematic mapping of the upper Deep Valley cluster through the 1711 framework. Both confirmations rest on the same 15 January 1713 consultation, suggesting the documentary regularisation of the area was undertaken as a coordinated effort with the boundary lines determined collectively before the formal confirmations were issued. The selective treatment of Allis's holdings, with only the 3-acre frontier parcel brought into the present round and the substantial earlier private acquisitions left undisturbed, indicates that the 1711 framework was designed to supplement existing documentary regimes rather than replace them. The result was a layered documentary system in which different parcels held by the same person could rest on different institutional foundations, with the framework operating only where formal Company recognition was newly required.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 140          | 135          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Tho[s] AllisThe Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Thomas Allis Freeholder, Thirty Acres of Land Scituate lying &amp; being in Deep Valley butting &amp; bounding towards the North upon the Land of John Worrall Sen[r] which he Hires of the Honourable Company, Towards the East upon y[e] said Honourable Companys Wast Land, towards the South upon the said Tho[s] Allis his own[p] Land, and towards the West upon the Lands of Richard Swallow. To have and to hold The aforesaid Thirty Acres of Land to him the said Thomas Allis his Executors Administrators and Assignes for the Terme and Time of Twenty one Years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition. That he the said Thomas Allis his Executors Administrators and Assignes Shall always Do, and bear true Truth and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws &amp; constitutions of the said Island, and Yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March), the Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant money of the said Island, Unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors, And that he the said Thomas Allis &amp; his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall and Do at the Expiration of the y[e] said Twenty one years leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are | Company lease to Thomas Allis, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Thomas Allis, freeholder, 30 acres of land in Deep Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of John Worrall senior, which he hired from the Company, to the east by the Company's waste land, to the south by Allis's own freehold land, and to the west by the land of Richard Swallow. The lease ran to Thomas Allis and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712. Allis and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the United Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Thomas Allis set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Allis's same-day freehold confirmation completes the institutional package by which |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------|-----------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | now and not to alter the Fences which are the Landmarks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease, or Interest in the same without th[e] Consent of Governour &amp; Councell for the time being. In witness whereof the said Honourable Company and Lords proprietors to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale, at the United Castle in James Vally this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. A. A in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen and y[e] s[ai]d Tho[s] Allis to the other p[ar]t hath Sett his Hand and Seale. Thomas AllisSealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | his confirmed freehold of 3 acres was supplemented by 30 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 33 acres documented through the August 1713 sitting forms only one part of his broader Deep Valley estate, with his earlier private purchases continuing to operate under separate documentation. The previous reference within Allis's freehold confirmation to his own hired Company land on the northern boundary indicated existing leasehold occupation. The present lease formalises a substantial 30-acre leasehold within the 1711 framework, suggesting that the freehold confirmation's reference to hired ground may relate to this lease itself or to additional separate leasehold beyond the 30 acres now confirmed. The reference to the Castle as the United Castle marks the first appearance of this formal institutional name in the August 1713 instruments. The same name had been used in the 6 April 1711 consultation on fencing and deeds and in the February 1716 Beale to Company deed. The variant designations of the principal Company building (the Castle, the Castle in James Valley, Union Castle, United Castle) reflect the evolving formal terminology applied to the same structure across the period. The boundary description records John Worrall senior on the northern boundary, with his land described as hired from the Company. The Worrall family had appeared in earlier records through John Worrall as a witness to the 24 March 1694 Casthope to Wells sale and through Joseph Worrall as witness to the 7 February 1696 Bagley to Wilson sale. The present 1713 reference to John Worrall senior, with the senior qualifier indicating an established adult with a younger namesake or successor in the field, adds another Worrall holding to the documented record of the family's tenure on the island. The eastern boundary against Company waste, the southern boundary against Allis's own freehold, and the western boundary against Richard Swallow's land collectively place the 30-acre leasehold in a position that wraps around Allis's confirmed freehold core. The configuration produces a substantial continuous block of cultivated ground combining the 3-acre freehold and the 30-acre leasehold, with Swallow's adjoining holding to the west forming the established boundary line. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712, rather than from 25 March 1713 used in some other 4 August 1713 leases, places the present lease alongside the Morris, Orlando Bagley and Benjamin Greentree leases, all of which share the 1712 commencement date. The four same-day leases with the 1712 commencement (Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree and the present Allis) thus form a coordinated administrative subset distinct from the leases with 1713 commencement. The combined annual rent on the 30-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £7 10s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The substantial rent obligation places the Allis leasehold among the larger revenue contributors of the 1711 framework, alongside the Cason 40-acre lease and the Orlando Bagley 40-acre lease. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day. The continuity of the witness composition across the extensive 4 August 1713 sitting confirms the sustained working session and the participation of the same small literate circle throughout the day's business. Allis signed in his own hand, placing him within the literate class of free planters whose direct signatures appear on the documentary record. His signature pattern across multiple instruments over the years confirms his standing within the propertied group capable of executing formal documents personally. The absence of any reference to Allis's substantial earlier purchases (the Toms stone house, the Stevens |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | lease, the Hemmons 10 acres, the Child quit-claim and the Miller 10 acres) indicates that those earlier private acquisitions remained under their original documentation rather than being brought within the 1711 framework. The institutional regularisation operated parcel by parcel, addressing only those holdings that required formal Company recognition at the present sitting. Speculations The substantial 30-acre leasehold issued to Allis alongside the modest 3-acre freehold confirmation indicates that the Company viewed the leasehold extension as the more significant element of his August 1713 documentary package. The freehold confirmation served to fix the narrow boundary line between cultivated and uncultivated ground, while the leasehold extension brought substantial additional working capacity within the institutional framework. The placement of the 30-acre leasehold around the smaller 3-acre freehold, with Allis's own freehold forming the southern boundary of the leasehold parcel, suggests deliberate documentary configuration. By framing the leasehold around an existing freehold core, the institutional record produced a single coordinated working block under different documentary regimes, with each tenure type protecting and reinforcing the other. The matching 25 March 1712 commencement date across the Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree and Allis leases indicates a coordinated administrative origin for these four leases, distinct from the leases with 1713 commencement. The shared back-dating to 1712 may reflect the consultation work undertaken in the winter of 1712 or an institutional decision to capture an additional year of rent obligation for certain holders. The pattern reproduces the institutional precision with which the framework calibrated rent commencement dates to the underlying administrative determinations. The combined Allis estate by August 1713, comprising his 1689 to 1704 private purchases together with the present 33 acres regularised under the 1711 framework, made him one of the most substantial documented Deep Valley holders alongside Richard Swallow. The cumulative effect of more than two decades of accumulation, supplemented by the 1713 institutional confirmation and lease, established the Allis family as a continuing presence in the upper Deep Valley landscape, with the senior qualifier already applied to Thomas Allis in the August 1713 boundary descriptions suggesting a generational succession was developing.  |
| 141 | 136          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Cha[s] Steward The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby confirm unto Charles Steward Freeholder Seventeen Acres of Land Scituate under Sandy Bay Ridge, butting towards the North upon the Lands of Benj[ami]n Sich, towards the East upon the Lands of Maxwells Orphans, towards the South upon y[e] Lands of said Charles Steward Hires of y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]. | Company grant to Charles Steward, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Charles Steward, freeholder, 17 acres of land under Sandy Bay Ridge. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of Benjamin Sich, to the east by the lands of Maxwell's orphans, to the south by the land Charles Steward hired from the Company, and to the west by the land of Thomas Coales's children.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | and towards y[e] West upon y[e] Lands of Tho[s] Coal[e]s Children, Which said Seventeen Acres of Land, he y[e] said Charles Steward, hath a Just right &amp; Title too, as may appear more plainly upon examination in a Consultation of y[e] fifteenth day of January One Thousand Seven hund[r]ed Thirteen and Notice being given by beat of Drum, fo[r] any person to make their Claime on a day certain therein limitted, but none appearing or any objections made. To have and to hold The said premises to him the said Charles Steward, his Heires &amp; Assignes for ever Upon Condition. That he the said Charles Steward his Heires and Assignes, Do and shall bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires &amp; Successors and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the Honourable Company to these p[re]sents have sett. their Common Seale, at their Castle on said Island this Fourth A. day of August A. in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Steward's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Charles Steward and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same Charles Steward who had appeared across the records as a substantial Sandy Bay holder and joint mortgagee. His earlier documented dealings include the purchase of 20 acres in Sandy Bay from Richard Griffis (already in occupation) for £20 0s 0d, the joint mortgagee role with Orlando Bagley on the Joseph and Martha Fox mortgage of 18 August 1709 for £32 0s 0d, his repeated appearance as a boundary holder across Sandy Bay leases of 1711 (Cason's Welley's Land, the Robinson lease, the Cason 4 August 1713 lease), and his consistent role as witness to multiple transactions including the Lufkin to Company sale of 1707. The present 1713 confirmation establishes his title to 17 acres under Sandy Bay Ridge in his own name. The boundary description records Benjamin Sich on the northern boundary. The Sich family had appeared in earlier records through Margaret Sich (widow, twice-widowed of Swallow and Sech) confirmed in 70 acres on her 1711 freehold confirmation, through James Sich who held the disputed John Beale parcel temporarily from Powell in December 1707, and through Benjamin Sich noted as a boundary holder in the 1709 Goodwin to Francis sale. The present 1713 boundary reference confirms Benjamin Sich's continuing presence as a Sandy Bay holder alongside other Sich family members. Maxwell's orphans on the eastern boundary introduce a new family into the present series. The orphan designation indicates the death of an adult Maxwell parent and the survival of minor children whose interests required institutional protection through the documentary regime. The connection to the earlier Samuel Maxwell, corporal, who had bought the messuage house near Fort James from James Draper on 29 November 1699 for £18 0s 0d, is uncertain, but the family name continuity suggests the orphans may be his children or those of a related Maxwell holder. The reference to the further land Charles Steward hired from the Company on the southern boundary indicates Steward's combined freehold and leasehold position, with his confirmed core supplemented by adjoining Company leasehold. The configuration matches the consistent pattern across the 1711 framework, where freehold cores typically adjoined leasehold extensions under the same holder's tenure. The boundary description thus captures Steward's overall working estate, with both tenure types operating in continuity. Thomas Coales's children on the western boundary preserve another orphan holding within the boundary description. The earlier Thomas Coales had appeared as the northern boundary of Cason's 1711 Welley's Land lease, and his death by 1713 had been recorded in the Richard Swallow 4 August 1713 freehold confirmation, where his land was described as formerly Thomas Coales (deceased). The present reference to Coales's children identifies the surviving family interest as continuing through orphan tenure. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the same chronological feature noted across the August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The Steward confirmation joins the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Swallow freehold confirmation, the Morris confirmation, the Orlando Bagley confirmation, the Benjamin Greentree confirmation and the Allis confirmation as the eighth same-day confirmation referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the unbroken working session throughout 4 August 1713 across at least 14 documented instruments. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Steward on the same day, despite the boundary recital of his hired Company land on the southern flank, indicates that the leasehold occupation remained under separate documentation. The selective regularisation of only the 17-acre freehold, leaving the adjoining leasehold under existing arrangements, indicates that the 1711 framework operated on a parcel-by-parcel basis with each holding addressed according to its specific documentary requirements. The continuing recurrence of orphan boundary references across the August 1713 instruments (the Harding children, the Bagley children, Maxwell's orphans, Thomas Coales's children, John Greentree's orphans, Beale's children, Hardings children, Edward Bagley's children, John Leaverig's children, Richard Alexander's children through the consultation book cross-references) marks a sustained pattern of high adult male mortality. The orphan estates persisted as recognisable units of tenure across multiple boundary descriptions, with their underlying interests preserved through institutional mechanisms even where adult management had ceased. Speculations The confirmation of 17 acres of freehold to Charles Steward, with adjacent Company leasehold also identified, marks his transition from a holder whose substantial documented dealings had been primarily through private purchases and mortgages into a recognised freeholder under the 1711 framework. The institutional regularisation followed nearly a decade of active land dealing in Sandy Bay and provided documentary protection for the core of his accumulated estate. The boundary description's pattern of orphan and minor-children holdings on three of the four sides (Sich on the north as an adult, Maxwell's orphans on the east, Coales's children on the west) places Steward's confirmed freehold at the centre of an established orphan-dominated tenure cluster. The configuration indicates that Sandy Bay had become a focus of inherited minor children's interests by 1713, with adult freeholders such as Steward managing or holding ground alongside multiple orphan estates of deceased neighbours. The selective regularisation of Steward's holdings, with only the 17-acre core brought into the present round and the adjoining hired land left under separate documentation, fits the broader institutional pattern by which the 1711 framework addressed each holding according to its specific documentary requirements. The result was a layered documentary system in which the same person could hold different parcels under different institutional foundations, with the framework operating principally where formal Company recognition was newly required. The persistent appearance of Charles Steward across the documentary record from his early Sandy Bay purchase through to the present confirmation, his consistent witness role across multiple transactions, and his joint mortgagee position alongside Orlando Bagley indicates an active and trusted presence within the small literate circle |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | that underpinned the formal record. The 1713 confirmation marks the formal recognition of his standing as a substantial freeholder, complementing his already established role as a senior participant in the documentary regime.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 142          | 137          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Cha[s] Steward The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Charles Steward Freeholder Ten Acres of Cabbage Tree Land Scituate in Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge, butting &amp; bounding towards the North to the same, towards the East, upon Five Acres of Land in y[e] Possession of Lieut[ena]nt Thomas Cason lately belonging to Henry Webly, Towards the South &amp; West upon the Lands of Thomas Swallow Freeholder, ALSO Thirteen Acres of Gumwood Land, abutting towards the North upon the said Honourable Companys Land formerly Hired by the said Charles Steward, towards y[e] East upon the Lands now in Possession of John Robinson, towards the South and West upon the said Honourable Companys West Land, ALSO One Acre &amp; Three Quarters more of Gumwood Land butting towards the North and West upon the said Lieut[ena]nt Casons Land Hired of the Honourable Company, towards the East and South, upon the aforesaid Lands Hired by y[e] said Charles Steward And Likewise Two Acres &amp; One Quarter of an Acre more of like Gumwood Land buiting towards the North-East &amp; West upon the said Charles Stewards Hired Land and upon the South to the said Honourable Companys West Land Lying Scituate under or the Writing Stone Ridge in Sandy Bay, which Three Parcels of Gumwood Land with the Ten Acres of Cabbagetre, contains in the whole Twenty Seven Acres. To have and to hold. The said Premises to him, the said Charles Steward his Executors Administ[rators] and Assignes for the Terme and Time of Twenty one Years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March one Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition That he the said Charles Steward his Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall always Do and bear true Truth and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, and Yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March, the annuall Rent &amp; Sum of Four shillings per Acre, besides one shilling duty being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant money of y[e] said Island, Unto the said Hon[ble] Company &amp; their Successors AND That he y[e] said Charles Steward his Executors Administ[rators] or Assignes shall &amp; Do at y[e] expiration of y[e] said Terme of Twenty one years leave the Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair, as | Company lease to Charles Steward, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Charles Steward, freeholder, four parcels totalling 27 acres in Sandy Bay. The first parcel, of 10 acres of cabbage tree land, lay under the Main Ridge. It was bounded to the north by the Main Ridge, to the east by 5 acres of land in the possession of Lieutenant Thomas Cason, lately belonging to Henry Webly, and to the south and west by the land of Thomas Swallow, freeholder. The second parcel, of 13 acres of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by the Company's land formerly hired by Steward, to the east by the land then in the possession of John Robinson, and to the south and west by the Company's waste land. The third parcel, of 1 acre and three quarters of gumwood land, was bounded to the north and west by Lieutenant Cason's land hired from the Company, and to the east and south by the land Steward hired from the Company. The fourth parcel, of 2 acres and one quarter of gumwood land, lay under Writing Stone Ridge in Sandy Bay. It was bounded to the north, east and west by Steward's hired land, and to the south by the Company's waste land. The lease ran to Charles Steward and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712. Steward and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and Charles Steward set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Steward's same-day freehold confirmation completes the institutional package by which his confirmed freehold core of 17 acres was |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------------|-----------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | they are now, and not to alter y[e] s[ai]d Fences which, are y[e] Land marks, &amp; which will occasion y[e] alteration of y[e] Plott hereunto Annexe[d] Nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without consent of Govern[or] &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being In witness whereof y[e] Hon[ble] United Company &amp; Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale, at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August. A. in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred &amp; Thirteen, and y[e] s[ai]d Cha[s] Steward, to y[e] other p[ar]t hath sett his hand &amp; Seale. Charles Steward Sealed and Delivered In the Presence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | supplemented by 27 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 44 acres in Sandy Bay places him among the most substantial single-area accumulators documented in the August 1713 sitting, alongside Orlando Bagley's 63-acre combined estate in Powell's Valley. The four-parcel structure of the leasehold (10 acres, 13 acres, 1¼ acres, 2¼ acres) reflects the institutional preference for consolidating multiple small holdings within a single lease rather than separate instruments. The varied parcel sizes and locations across Sandy Bay indicate that Steward's working estate had been built up through multiple acquisitions of available ground over time, with the present lease formalising the entire collection within a single documentary regime. The eastern boundary of the first parcel records 5 acres in the possession of Lieutenant Thomas Cason, lately belonging to Henry Webby. The reference connects directly to the Cason lease of the same day, by which Cason received 5 acres of cabbage tree land in Sandy Bay formerly in the possession of Henry Webby. The mutual recording of the parcel across both same-day instruments fixes the line between Steward's and Cason's holdings by reciprocal reference, with each lease describing the other's parcel. The Henry Webby reference appears here for the third time in the present series (after the 1 August 1711 Robinson lease describing Company land formerly Webby, and the 4 August 1713 Cason lease describing 5 acres formerly in his possession). The recurring reference to Webby across the period 1711 to 1713 indicates that his reverted ground had been parcelled out among multiple Sandy Bay tenants under the 1711 framework, with each subdivision identified by reference to his earlier occupation. The southern and western boundaries of the first parcel against Thomas Swallow's freehold land record Swallow's extensive Sandy Bay tenure. Swallow had received his 40-acre freehold confirmation on 20 July 1711, his 31-acre leasehold on the same day, and his Deep Valley confirmation and lease on 4 August 1713. The recurring boundary references to Swallow across multiple Sandy Bay and Deep Valley instruments fix him as one of the dominant cross-valley holders documented in the present series. The second parcel's boundary description records the northern boundary as Company land formerly hired by Steward himself, indicating that the present 13 acres were taken up after an earlier portion of Steward's leasehold had reverted to the Company. The reference suggests an evolving pattern of Steward's leasehold occupation, with some parcels being released and others taken up across the period 1711 to 1713. The institutional flexibility of the leasehold framework allowed such adjustments without disturbing the underlying freehold core. The fourth parcel's location under Writing Stone Ridge introduces another working byname into the present series, parallel to the Two Gun Ridge of Grace Coulson's 1711 confirmation, the Dennis Lock of the Harding children's confirmation, the Diana's Geak of the Benjamin Greentree confirmation, and the Sexton's Ground of the William Alexander 1717 lease. The persistence of working bynames across boundary descriptions reflects the continued reliance on local knowledge of the landscape alongside the formal survey records. The presence of fractional acreage in two of the four parcels (1¼ acres and 2¼ acres) reproduces the precision of the 1711 surveying programme noted across the Gurling lease and the Morris lease of the same day. The institutional shift from round-number allocations to precise survey measurements down to quarter-acre increments represents a significant administrative development in the documentation of island tenure. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712 places this lease alongside the Morris, Orlando Bagley, Benjamin Greentree and Allis leases, all of which share the 1712 commencement date. The five same-day leases with the 1712 commencement form the coordinated administrative subset distinct from the leases with 1713 commencement, reflecting a consistent decision to back-date certain leases by an additional year. The combined annual rent on the 27-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £6 15s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The substantial rent obligation places Steward's leasehold among the larger revenue contributors of the 1711 framework, alongside the Cason 40-acre lease, the Allis 30-acre lease and the Orlando Bagley 40-acre lease. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the continuous working session across at least 15 documented instruments executed on 4 August 1713. Speculations The complex four-parcel structure of Steward's leasehold, with parcels of widely varying sizes scattered across Sandy Bay and located by reference to multiple topographical features (the Main Ridge, Writing Stone Ridge, and intervening locations), indicates a working estate assembled through opportunistic acquisition over time. The institutional consolidation of these fragments within a single lease reduced administrative cost while preserving the geographic distinctness of each unit through the boundary descriptions and the annexed plan. The references to Steward's earlier hired land on two of the four parcels (the second and fourth parcels both record Steward's existing hired ground as adjacent boundary) suggest his leasehold position had been built up through a sequence of related acquisitions, with each new parcel taken up adjacent to his existing holdings. The pattern indicates a deliberate strategy of contiguous expansion, with the present 1713 lease formalising the cumulative result of multiple smaller acquisitions. The reciprocal mutual boundary references between Steward's lease and Cason's same-day lease, both naming each other's holdings by reference to the former Webly ground, fix the precise lines of subdivision within the reverted Webly estate. The systematic mapping of the former Webly parcel through multiple coordinated leases issued in 1711 (Robinson) and 1713 (Cason and Steward) demonstrates the comprehensive institutional documentation of reverted Company ground as it was redistributed to new tenants. The matching 25 March 1712 commencement across five same-day leases (Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree, Allis and the present Steward) suggests these holdings were all the subject of a coordinated administrative determination at some earlier point in 1712, perhaps relating to a substantial consultation or survey effort whose formal documentary regularisation was deferred until August 1713. The institutional precision in calibrating the rent commencement to the underlying administrative work reflects the maturity of the 1711 framework's documentary practices. The combined position of Steward by August 1713 (17 acres freehold and 27 acres leasehold, totalling 44 acres) supplemented his earlier private acquisitions including the 20 acres from Richard Griffiths. The accumulated working estate of approximately 64 acres in Sandy Bay made him one of the most substantial Sandy Bay holders documented in the present series, alongside Thomas Swallow, the Bagley family and the Greentree estate. His role as a witness across multiple instruments and as a joint mortgagee with Orlando Bagley placed him within the small literate circle that underpinned the documentary regime, completing the picture of his |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | established standing in both property and institutional terms.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 143 | 138          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Jn[o] Coles The Lords Proprietors of this Island, the Honour[ab]le United Comp[a] of Merch[an]ts of England Tradeing to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto John Coles, Freeholder, Eighteen Acres of Cabtrage Tree Land, Scituate in Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge formerly the Lands of James Wakefield, butting &amp; bounding towards y[e] North upon y[e] Lands of Francis Wranghams, Towards the East upon y[e] Lands of Thomas Coal[e]s Children, and towards South &amp; West upon a Parcel of Land y[e] said John Coles Hires of y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[any] ALSO Ten Acres of Gumwood Land, butting &amp; bounding towards the North upon another Parcell of Land Hired as aforesaid, Towards the East South &amp; West, upon y[e] Lands Hired of y[e] said Honourable Comp[a] by Lieu[t][n]t Tho[s] Cason, Likewise, Two Acres of Land more Butting towards y[e] North East West, &amp; South every way, upon the Lands of Robert Adley[s] Freeholder, being Three Parcels of Land, and in the whole contienes Thirty Acres, to which y[e] s[ai]d John Coles hath a Just right &amp; Title too, as may appear more largely upon examination in a consultation of the Fifteenth &amp; A. day of January, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any person to make their claim, on a day certain therein Limmitted, but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold The said Thirty Acres of Land, to him the said John Coles his Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition That he the said John Coles his Heires &amp; Assignes Do always bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen A[n]n[e] her Heires Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the s[ai]d Island. In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these p[re]sents, have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on y[e] said Island, this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August. In the years of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company grant to John Coles, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to John Coles, freeholder, three parcels totalling 30 acres. The first parcel, of 18 acres of cabbage tree land, lay in Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge and had formerly belonged to James Wakefield. It was bounded to the north by the land of Francis Wrangham, to the east by the land of Thomas Coales's children, and to the south and west by a parcel that Coles hired from the Company. The second parcel, of 10 acres of gumwood land, was bounded to the north by another parcel of land hired by Coles from the Company, and to the east, south and west by the land hired from the Company by Lieutenant Thomas Cason. The third parcel, of 2 acres of land, was bounded on all four sides (north, east, west and south) by the land of Robert Adley, freeholder. Coles's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to John Coles and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee may be the same John Coles who had earlier appeared in the records as the seller of 10 acres at the head of Fryer Valley to Thomas Goodwin on 26 March 1696 for £11 0s 0d, or his son or namesake. The first parcel of 18 acres in Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge places the present holder in a different valley from the Fryer Valley parcel sold in 1696, suggesting either substantial geographic expansion or a different individual sharing the name. The Sandy Bay focus of the present confirmation also fits the John Coles named as a boundary holder in the Cason 27 July 1711 Welley's Land lease. The recital that the first parcel had formerly belonged to James Wakefield introduces a deceased earlier holder whose Sandy Bay ground had passed into the present chain of title. James Wakefield had appeared in earlier records through the 24 May 1693 Young to Goodwin sale, where the 8-acre Little Horsepad parcel was identified as part of Wakefield's lot. The same Wakefield connection appears in the May 1694 Harper to Goodwin sale, the March 1695 Crosby to Goodwin sale, and the 1690 Trapp to Goodwin sale of the head of Lemon Valley near the late John Greentree. The present Sandy Bay reference indicates that Wakefield's holdings extended across multiple areas of the island, with the original 18-acre parcel here representing a substantial Sandy Bay component beyond his other documented ground. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The boundary description records Francis Wrangham on the northern boundary of the first parcel. The Wrangham family had appeared earlier in the 1682 inquest, in Henry Francis's 1711 freehold confirmation (where Francis Wrangham was a boundary holder on three of Francis's parcels), and in the Margaret Sich 1711 confirmation. The persistent Wrangham presence across multiple boundary descriptions over more than three decades indicates the durable territorial position of the family. Thomas Coales's children on the eastern boundary again record orphan tenure persisting after the death of the parent. The same Thomas Coales had been documented as deceased in the Richard Swallow freehold confirmation of the same day and in the Charles Steward freehold confirmation. The continued naming of his children across multiple boundary descriptions across the August 1713 sitting confirms their substantial inherited holdings in Sandy Bay. The second parcel's complete enclosure by Coles's own hired land on the north and by Lieutenant Cason's hired Company land on the east, south and west places the 10-acre gumwood parcel as an isolated freehold core surrounded by leasehold ground. The configuration produces an unusual cartographic pattern where the confirmed freehold operates as an inner unit within a wider leasehold-dominated landscape. The third parcel of 2 acres bounded on all four sides by the land of Robert Adley, freeholder, presents a similar enclave configuration but with adjacent freehold rather than leasehold. The 2-acre parcel sits as an isolated Coles holding within Adley's surrounding ground. Robert Adley is recorded here as freeholder, indicating his confirmed Sandy Bay tenure though his own confirmation does not appear separately in the present series. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the same chronological feature noted across the August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The Coles confirmation joins the Harding children's grant, the Gurling freehold confirmation, the Swallow freehold confirmation, the Morris confirmation, the Orlando Bagley confirmation, the Benjamin Greentree confirmation, the Allis confirmation and the Steward confirmation as the ninth same-day confirmation referencing the 15 January 1713 consultation. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, continuing the unbroken working session across at least 16 documented instruments executed on 4 August 1713. The repeated appearance of Cason as witness while his own holdings are referenced in the boundary descriptions of the present confirmation indicates the institutional accommodation of dual roles, with Cason both attesting his neighbour's title and having his own holdings identified within it. The reference to Coles's hired Company land on the southern and western boundaries of the first parcel, and on the northern boundary of the second parcel, indicates a substantial Company leasehold position held by Coles separate from the present freehold confirmation. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument on the same day suggests this leasehold remained under separate documentation, with the present 1713 sitting addressing only the freehold elements of his combined estate. Speculations The confirmation of 30 acres of freehold across three geographically distinct parcels indicates that John Coles held an established estate built up through multiple acquisitions in different parts of Sandy Bay. The recital of James Wakefield as the former holder of the first parcel |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | suggests that significant portions of the Coles estate originated through purchases from the older generation of free planters whose deaths over the period 1690 to 1710 had released substantial ground onto the market. The unusual configuration of the second parcel, completely enclosed by Coles's own and Cason's hired Company land, suggests deliberate strategic placement of the confirmed freehold at the centre of a wider leasehold-dominated working area. By securing freehold tenure to the 10-acre core, Coles protected the most valuable element of his working estate while leaving the surrounding ground under more flexible leasehold tenure. The arrangement also fixed his eastern boundary against Cason's leasehold through the institutional record, preventing future boundary disputes as either holding changed hands. The third parcel of 2 acres enclosed entirely by Robert Adley's freehold ground produces a particularly tight enclave configuration. The placement may reflect either an inherited fragment of an earlier larger holding that was substantially absorbed by Adley, or a deliberate Coles acquisition of an isolated parcel within Adley's estate for specific working purposes. The institutional regularisation of such a small enclave indicates the precision with which the 1711 framework accommodated even minor parcels within its documentary regime. The coordinated processing of John Coles's confirmation alongside the Cason, Steward, Greentree, Bagley, Slaughter, Carne, Gurling, Swallow, Allis, Morris and Harding children's confirmations within the single 4 August 1713 sitting represents an extraordinary documentary achievement. The institutional capacity to clear at least 17 distinct freehold confirmations and leasehold extensions within a single working session, with consistent witness composition and reciprocal boundary referencing across the instruments, marks the maturity of the 1711 framework's documentary practice. The systematic clearing of the entire Sandy Bay and Deep Valley landholding network in coordinated session demonstrates the framework's evolution into a comprehensive institutional regime for documenting and protecting private tenure across the island's principal cultivated valleys.  |
| 144 | 139          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Jn[o] Coles The Lords Proprietors of this Island, The Hon[ble] United Company of Merch[an]ts of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto John Coles Freeholder, Fifteen Acres and an Half of Land Scituate in Sandy Bay, butting &amp; bounding, towards the North &amp; South upon the s[a]id John Coles own Freeland, towards the East upon y[e] Land in Possession of Lieut[ena]nt Tho[s] Cason which he Hires of y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a] and towards y[e] West upon the said Hon[ble] Companys Wast Land, ALSO Seven Acres more, butting towards y[e] North upon y[e] Lands of James Greentree Freeholder, towards the East upon the said Hon[ble] Comp[a]ys Wast Land, and towards y[e] South &amp; West upon y[e] Lands of Robert Adlis Freeholder Likewise, Two Acres &amp; an Half of Land more, butting towards the North upon y[e] aforesaid John Coles own Land, towards the East &amp; South upon the before mentioned Land, in the Possession of James Greentrees, and towards y[e] West upon y[e] Hon[ble] | Company lease to John Coles, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to John Coles, freeholder, three parcels totalling 25 acres in Sandy Bay. The first parcel, of 15 acres and a half of land, was bounded to the north and south by Coles's own freehold land, to the east by the land in the possession of Lieutenant Thomas Cason, which he hired from the Company, and to the west by the Company's waste land. The second parcel, of 7 acres, was bounded to the north by the land of James Greentree, freeholder, to the east by the Company's waste land, and to the south and west by the land of Robert Adlis, freeholder. The third parcel, of 2 acres and a half, was bounded to the north by Coles's own land, to the east and south by the land in the possession of James Greentree, and to the west by the Company's waste land. The lease ran to John Coles and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|--------------------|-----------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Comp[alys Wast Land, Being in y[e] whole Three Parcels Twenty Five Acres. To have and to hold the same, above mentioned, to him the said John Coles his Executors Administrators, &amp; Assignes for y[e] Terme &amp; time of Twenty one Years Commenceing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition That he the said John Coles his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always Do and bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires &amp; Successors, and to y[e] s[ai]ld Hon[ble] Company &amp; their Successors, and shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of y[e] said Island. And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary being y[e] 25 day of March, the Annuall Rent &amp; Sum of Four shillings p[er] Acre besides one shilling duty being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, Unto y[e] said Hon[ble] Company and their Successors AND That he y[e] said John Coles his Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes Shall &amp; Do at y[e] expiration of the said Term of Twenty one years, leave y[e] Fences abou[t] y[e] said Land, in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter y[e] s[ai]ld, Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will occasion the alteration of y[e] Plott hereunto Annexed, Nor dispose of this Lease, or Interest in y[e] same, without consent of y[e] Governour and Councell for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof the said Honourable United Company and Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents, have Sett their Common Seale, at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth A. day of August One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen And the said John Coles to the other p[ar]t hath Sett his Hand &amp; Seale. John Coles Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Coles and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and John Coles set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The pairing of this lease with Coles's same-day freehold confirmation completes the institutional package by which his confirmed freehold of 30 acres was supplemented by 25 acres of leasehold extension. The combined holding of 55 acres in Sandy Bay places him among the substantial multi-tenure holders documented in the August 1713 sitting, alongside Charles Steward (44 acres combined) and Orlando Bagley (63 acres combined in Powell's Valley). The three-parcel structure of the leasehold (15½ acres, 7 acres, and 2½ acres) reproduces the institutional preference for consolidating multiple small parcels within a single lease rather than as separate instruments. The varied parcel sizes and the fractional acreages of two of the three parcels reflect the precision of the 1711 surveying programme and the institutional capacity to document each small extension within a unified record. The first parcel of 15½ acres is bounded to the north and south by Coles's own freehold land, placing the leasehold parcel as a wedge or band running east to west between two parts of his confirmed estate. The configuration produces an unusual cartographic pattern where the leasehold sits as a corridor within the freehold rather than as an outer extension beyond it. The arrangement may have arisen from the historical pattern of accumulation, with the freehold formed through purchases that left gaps subsequently filled by leasehold. The eastern boundary of the first parcel against Lieutenant Cason's hired Company land establishes the reciprocal documentation with the same-day Cason lease, which had recorded the western boundary of Cason's 5 acres formerly belonging to Henry Webly as Company land then in the possession of Charles Steward. The set of mutual boundary references across Cason, Coles and Steward's same-day instruments fixes a comprehensive cartographic record of the central Sandy Bay landholding cluster. The second parcel records James Greentree as the northern boundary holder, freeholder. The same James Greentree had appeared in earlier records through the 1703 purchase from Gabriel Powell of 20 acres in Sandy Bay with the slave Oliver and half-still for £86 0s 0d, the 1705 purchase from Owen Bevean of the Chapel Valley house with reserved room for £35 0s 0d, the 1715 purchase from Richard Cleve of the rebuilt James Valley house for £150 0s 0d, and the 1715 purchase from John Goodwin of 4 acres for £28 0s 0d. The 1713 confirmation of his freehold status indicates that his recorded estate had been established before the present August 1713 sitting, and the boundary reference confirms his continuing Sandy Bay presence. Robert Adlis on the southern and western boundaries of the second parcel, recorded as freeholder, reproduces the same Robert Adley named in the third parcel of Coles's freehold confirmation as the surrounding holder of the 2- |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | acre enclave. The variant spellings Adley and Adlis refer to the same person, with the slight scribal variation falling within the normal range. Adlis's confirmed status as freeholder, combined with his substantial holding sufficient to surround Coles's 2-acre parcel on all four sides, indicates his significant Sandy Bay tenure though his own confirmation does not appear separately in the present series. The third parcel of 2½ acres records the eastern and southern boundaries as land in the possession of James Greentree, indicating Greentree's active occupation of ground in the immediate vicinity of Coles's parcels. The reciprocal documentation between Coles's third parcel and Greentree's documented holdings further establishes the interconnected landholding network mapped through the August 1713 sitting. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712, in line with the Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree, Allis and Steward leases of the same day, places the present lease within the coordinated administrative subset with 1712 commencement. The six same-day leases sharing the 1712 commencement (Morris, Bagley, Greentree, Allis, Steward and the present Coles) reflect a consistent decision to back-date these leases by an additional year compared with the leases commencing in 1713. The combined annual rent on the 25-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £6 5s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The aggregate rent fits within the upper range of the leasehold revenues recorded across the 1711 framework, complementing Coles's confirmed freehold tenure. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, completing the unbroken working session across at least 17 documented instruments executed on 4 August 1713. The Coles lease may represent the conclusion of the day's recorded business in the present series, marking the apparent end of the coordinated August 1713 documentary effort. Speculations The complex configuration of the leasehold parcels, with the first parcel running as a corridor between two parts of Coles's freehold and the second parcel sitting between James Greentree's freehold on the north and Robert Adlis's freehold on the south and west, indicates a working estate built up through opportunistic acquisition of available ground over time. The institutional regularisation through the 1711 framework captured the result of this incremental accumulation within a unified documentary record, with the boundary descriptions preserving the precise relationship between Coles's holdings and those of his neighbours. The matching 25 March 1712 commencement date across six same-day leases (Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree, Allis, Steward and the present Coles) marks a consistent administrative decision to align these leases with an earlier institutional determination. The shared back-dating produces a coordinated subset within the day's business, distinct from the leases with 1713 commencement (Gurling, Cason and Charles), and suggests that two parallel administrative timelines operated within the August 1713 sitting. The reciprocal mutual boundary references across the Coles, Cason, Steward and Greentree instruments produce a comprehensive map of the central Sandy Bay landholding cluster. The systematic documentation of each holder's parcels by reference to the adjoining parcels of others creates a coordinated cartographic record that exceeds the documentation that could be achieved through individual instruments processed at separate sittings. The 1711 framework's institutional achievement in mapping the entire interconnected landholding network |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | through coordinated session represents one of its principal documentary innovations. The combined accumulation of approximately 17 same-day instruments executed on 4 August 1713 marks the most extensive documented single-day regularisation effort in the present series. The institutional capacity to clear this volume of business within a single working session, with consistent witness composition and reciprocal boundary referencing across the instruments, demonstrates the maturity of the 1711 framework as a comprehensive documentary regime. The systematic clearing of major holdings across Sandy Bay, Deep Valley, Lemon Valley, Fryer Valley and Powell's Valley in coordinated session represents the framework's evolution into a unified institutional system for documenting and protecting private tenure across the principal cultivated valleys of the island.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 145 | 140          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to [Fra Steward] The Lords Proprietors of this Island, The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merch[an]ts of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm Unto Francis Steward Son of Onesiphorus Steward deceased, Ten Acres of Cabbage Tree Land formerly y[e] Lands of Francis Steward (dec[ase]d) his Grandfather Likewise Ten Acres of Cabbage tree Land more, in equal shares unto y[e] before named &amp; Unto Francis Steward, Mary Steward &amp; Martha Steward, according to y[e] Last Will &amp; Testament of their deceased Father y[e] said Onesiphorus Steward, which last mentioned Ten Acres of Land is part of Twenty Acres commonly called &amp; known by Name of Churches Land, and is next adjoining to the first mentioned Ten Acres of Land, as one P[ar]cell, Lying Scituate under Sandy Bay Ridge, Buting &amp; Bounding towards the North, upon y[e] Lands of Benamine Sich, under y[e] Main Ridge, Towards y[e] East upon the Lands of Thomas Swallow Sen[ior] in y[e] South, upon y[e] Lands of John Leevers Children, and towards y[e] West upon y[e] Lands of Maxwell[s] Orphans formerly part of Churches Land, which said Twenty Acres of Land, he y[e] s[ai]d Francis Steward, and they the s[ai]d Mary &amp; Martha Steward, Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too, in each of their propper shares &amp; Dividends, as above mentioned, and may more largely appear upon examination in a Consultations of the Fifteenth &amp; A. A. day of January One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any person to make their Claim on a day certain therein Limmitted, But none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold the aforesaid p[re]misses, to the before named Francis Steward Mary Steward &amp; Martha Steward and their, and each of them, Heires and Assignes for ever, Upon Condition That they the said Francis Steward, Mary Steward &amp; Martha Steward, their &amp; every of them Heires &amp; Assignes Do bear always true, faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, In witness whereof the said Honourable Comp[an]y to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island | Company grant to Francis, Mary and Martha Steward, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Francis Steward, son of the late Onesiphorus Steward, two parcels totalling 20 acres of cabbage tree land under Sandy Bay Ridge. The first parcel, of 10 acres of cabbage tree land, had formerly belonged to his grandfather, the late Francis Steward. The second parcel, of 10 acres of cabbage tree land, was confirmed in equal shares to Francis Steward, Mary Steward and Martha Steward, according to the last will and testament of their late father Onesiphorus Steward. This parcel formed part of 20 acres commonly known as Church's Land and lay adjoining the first parcel as one combined unit. Together the two parcels were bounded to the north by the land of Benjamin Sich, under the Main Ridge, to the east by the land of Thomas Swallow senior, to the south by the land of John Leevers' children, and to the west by the land of Maxwell's orphans, formerly part of Church's Land. The right and title of Francis, Mary and Martha Steward to their proper shares were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Francis Steward, Mary Steward and Martha Steward and to their heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grant operates as a confirmation across three generations of the Steward family. The first parcel had originally been held by Francis Steward the elder (grandfather), passed to his son Onesiphorus Steward, and now reached the present Francis Steward as son of Onesiphorus and grandson of the original Francis. The |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                            | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|--------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | this Fourth &amp; y[e] day of August A. in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | second parcel had also belonged to Onesiphorus and now passed under his will to all three of his children Francis, Mary and Martha in equal shares. The Steward grant thus consolidates two separate inheritance routes within a single confirmation deed, with different distributive structures applied to each parcel. The Onesiphorus Steward identified here as the deceased father is the same Onesiphorus Steward who had appeared earlier as a boundary holder in the Thomas Swallow senior lease of 20 July 1711, where his land was described as the western boundary of the second parcel, with Onesiphorus Steward also recorded as deceased at that date. The 1711 reference confirmed his death before that lease was executed, and the present 1713 confirmation regularises the inheritance from his estate to his three children. The grandfather Francis Steward (deceased) appears in the 1682 inquest as the holder of Sandy Bay land originally derived from John Cleverlee's assembly of the John Long allotment. The 1682 Cleverlee-Steward chain placed Francis Steward as an early Sandy Bay holder, and the present 1713 confirmation traces his ten acres through to the third-generation present holder. The institutional preservation of the title chain across nearly three decades demonstrates the documentary continuity achieved through the 1711 framework. The distinction between the first and second parcels reflects different inheritance pathways. The first parcel reaches the present Francis Steward as the sole grandson named, suggesting either his exclusive entitlement under his grandfather's estate or his recognition as the principal heir of that earlier generation. The second parcel reaches the three siblings jointly under their father Onesiphorus's will, illustrating the institutional accommodation of testamentary dispositions that distributed property among multiple children rather than concentrating it through primogeniture. The reference to the second parcel as part of 20 acres commonly known as Church's Land, with the western boundary against Maxwell's orphans recorded as formerly part of Church's Land, identifies an earlier large block that had been subdivided between the Steward family and the Maxwell family before the present confirmation. The byname Church's Land may refer to an earlier ecclesiastical or chaplain holder, paralleling the Joseph Church, minister mentioned in the 18 June 1713 Antipas Tovey to Mary Maxwell gift as the former holder of 20 acres of which the Maxwell parcel formed a portion. The two references together establish that Church's 20-acre lot in Sandy Bay was distributed across the Steward, Maxwell and possibly other holdings, with the 1713 institutional regularisation fixing the boundaries of the subdivided fragments. The link to the Antipas Tovey to Mary Maxwell gift of 18 June 1713 is particularly significant. The 4-acre gift to Mary Maxwell described its parcel as part of 20 acres formerly the lot of the late Joseph Church, minister. The present confirmation similarly identifies its second parcel as part of 20 acres called Church's Land. The two transactions, executed within less than two months of each other and identifying related portions of the same original Church lot, reveal an active institutional concern in 1713 with regularising the subdivided estate of the deceased minister. The northern boundary against Benjamin Sich reproduces the same Benjamin Sich named on the northern boundary of Charles Steward's freehold confirmation of the same day. The mutual cross-referencing between the two Steward family confirmations (Charles Steward, here Francis-Mary-Martha Steward) and the surrounding Sich, Swallow, Leeverg and Maxwell holdings produces another comprehensive cartographic mapping of the central Sandy Bay cluster. John Leeverg's children on the southern boundary reproduces the same John Leaverig's children mentioned |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | in the Slaughter lease of the same day. The variant spellings Leeverg and Leaverig refer to the same deceased holder whose children's inherited interest persisted as a boundary reference across multiple August 1713 instruments. Maxwell's orphans on the western boundary, formerly part of Church's Land, connects directly to the Antipas Tovey to Mary Maxwell gift of June 1713, where Mary Maxwell received her 4-acre portion of the original Church 20-acre lot. The Maxwell family thus held multiple portions of the subdivided Church estate, with the inherited children's interest persisting alongside Mary Maxwell's separate freehold receipt. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the chronological feature of the August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, continuing the unbroken working session across the 4 August 1713 sitting. Speculations The choice of the testamentary will rather than primogeniture as the inheritance mechanism for the second parcel reflects Onesiphorus Steward's deliberate decision to distribute the ground equally among all three of his children rather than concentrate it in his eldest son. The contrast with the primogeniture pattern noted in other inheritance confirmations (the Cotgrave, Coulson, Charles and Greentree successions) indicates that holders had some flexibility in choosing how to dispose of their estates by will, and could override the default succession rules where they wished to provide more equitably for daughters and younger sons. The distinct treatment of the two parcels within the single confirmation, with the first held by Francis Steward alone and the second held by all three siblings, suggests the family had operated under different inheritance routes for the two original sources. The grandfather's parcel may have been settled on Onesiphorus exclusively during his lifetime, and Onesiphorus then chose to leave it to his eldest son Francis under the conventional succession. The second parcel, perhaps acquired later by Onesiphorus and treated as more available for equal division, was distributed by will among all three children. The differential treatment reflects the practical realities of family estate management across multiple generations. The inclusion of Mary Steward and Martha Steward as joint freeholders alongside their brother in the second parcel represents an important institutional recognition of women's inheritance rights under testamentary disposition. The 1711 framework accommodated wills that distributed property to daughters as well as sons, with the resulting freehold confirmations vesting the inherited interest jointly in the named beneficiaries regardless of gender. The pattern parallels the inheritance of Lydea Harding to her brother Richard documented in the 1691 transactions, and indicates a continuing institutional capacity to handle non-primogeniture inheritance arrangements. The active 1713 regularisation of the subdivided Joseph Church estate, through both the Antipas Tovey to Mary Maxwell gift of June and the present 4 August Steward confirmation, suggests a coordinated effort to fix the precise boundaries of the original Church 20-acre lot among its various successor holders. The minister's death had left the parcel divided across multiple families (Tovey to Maxwell, the Steward inheritance through Onesiphorus, the Maxwell orphans, and probably others not separately documented), and the 1713 sitting brought the resulting fragments within unified documentary protection. The institutional achievement of mapping a single original allotment across its multiple successor holdings represents |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | a particularly precise application of the 1711 framework's coordinated documentation practice.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 146 | 141          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Maxwells Or[phans] The Lords Proprietors of this Island, The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto the Orphans of Samuel Maxwell (decease[d]) Nine Acres of Cabbagetree Land, Situate in Sandy Bay abutting towards the North upon the Land of Benjamin Sich, under the Main Ridge, towards the East upon the Land of Onesiphorus Stewards Children, towards the South upon the Lands of John Leverdys Children, and towards the West, upon the Lands of Charles Steward Freeholder, Which said Nine Acres of Land the before named, Samuel Maxwells Orphans, Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too, As may appear more largely upon examination in a consultation of the Fifteenth &amp; A. day of January One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and Notice being given by Beat of Drum for any person to make their Claim on a day certain therein, Limmited, But none appearing or any objection. To have and to hold, The said premises to him the said called Samuel Maxwells Orphans and every of them their Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition. That they the said Orphans their and every of their Heires and Assignes Do bear always true faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the said Honourable Comp[any] to these presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. A. in y[e] year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] CasonH Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Company grant to the orphans of Samuel Maxwell, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to the orphans of the late Samuel Maxwell 9 acres of cabbage tree land in Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded to the north by the land of Benjamin Sich, under the Main Ridge, to the east by the land of Onesiphorus Steward's children, to the south by the land of John Leverdy's children, and to the west by the land of Charles Steward, freeholder. The orphans' right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to the Maxwell orphans and to their heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grant confirms title directly to the orphan beneficiaries rather than through an adult trustee or guardian. The form of vesting in the orphans themselves and their heirs and assigns indicates a deliberate institutional decision to fix the inheritance in the children's names while preserving their interest against external claims. The arrangement contrasts with the trustee management observed in the Benjamin Greentree case, where Richard Swallow held a leasehold for and on behalf of the named beneficiary. Here, no intermediate trustee is named, and the orphans appear as the direct holders of the confirmed freehold. The grantor identifies the orphans as the children of the late Samuel Maxwell, fixing his death before the August 1713 confirmation. The same Samuel Maxwell had earlier appeared as a corporal in the garrison who bought a messuage house near Fort James from James Draper on 29 November 1699 for £18 0s 0d, with payment in live cattle and Spanish dollars at six shillings per dollar. His death by 1713, with surviving minor children whose interests required institutional protection, marks another instance of garrison-soldier mortality with consequent orphan estates persisting in the documentary record. The Maxwell orphans had been recorded as boundary holders in the Charles Steward freehold confirmation earlier in the same day, where they appeared on the eastern boundary of Steward's 17 acres under Sandy Bay Ridge. The present confirmation regularises their own freehold title to the parcel that adjoins Steward on the west, with the reciprocal boundary references between the two same-day confirmations fixing the precise line between the Maxwell orphan estate and the Charles Steward holding. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | The reference to Onesiphorus Steward's children on the eastern boundary connects directly to the same-day confirmation in favour of Francis, Mary and Martha Steward as the children of the late Onesiphorus Steward. The Steward children's 20-acre confirmed estate (combining the grandfather's 10 acres and the testamentary 10 acres from Onesiphorus's will) lies immediately east of the Maxwell orphans' 9 acres, with both freehold confirmations executed on 4 August 1713 fixing the shared boundary. The reciprocal boundary references between the Steward children's confirmation (recording Maxwell's orphans formerly part of Church's Land on the western boundary) and the present Maxwell orphans' confirmation (recording Onesiphorus Steward's children on the eastern boundary) reproduce the systematic cartographic mapping noted across the August 1713 sitting. The two adjoining children's estates were processed in coordinated session to fix the line between two inherited holdings without creating later boundary disputes. The connection to the earlier Antipas Tovey to Mary Maxwell gift of 18 June 1713, which transferred 4 acres formerly part of the late Joseph Church minister's 20-acre lot to Mary Maxwell, spinster, suggests that the present Maxwell orphans may include Mary Maxwell herself or be related family members benefiting from a coordinated estate settlement. The 9 acres confirmed here represent another portion of what may have been the wider Maxwell family inheritance, with the present 1713 confirmation completing the documentary regularisation of the Maxwell holdings alongside the June 1713 gift. The southern boundary against John Leverdy's children records yet another orphan inheritance. The same family had appeared as John Leeverg's children in the Francis Steward confirmation of the same day and as John Leaverig's children in the Slaughter lease. The three variant spellings (Leverdy, Leeverg, Leaverig) all refer to the same deceased holder whose children persisted as a recognised boundary unit across multiple August 1713 instruments. The Leverdy children themselves do not appear to have received a separate same-day confirmation in the present series, though their continuing identification as boundary holders indicates their established interest in the area. Benjamin Sich on the northern boundary reproduces the same Benjamin Sich named on the northern boundary of Charles Steward's freehold confirmation and Francis Steward's freehold confirmation. The persistent appearance of Sich across multiple same-day Sandy Bay confirmations confirms his substantial position as the northern boundary holder for the cluster of confirmed estates under Sandy Bay Ridge. Charles Steward on the western boundary as freeholder reproduces the mutual reciprocal documentation between the Steward and Maxwell holdings. Steward's 17-acre confirmed freehold lay directly west of the Maxwell orphans' 9 acres, with both boundaries fixed through the same-day confirmations. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the same chronological feature noted across the August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, completing the unbroken working session across the 4 August 1713 sitting. The absence of any named guardian, executor or trustee at the witnessing or signing stage indicates that the Maxwell orphans' grant operated through direct institutional recognition of the children's inherited interest. The form contrasts with the trustee arrangements documented in other August 1713 instruments and |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | suggests that some orphan estates were administered through the children's own legal capacity, perhaps where they had reached or approached majority. Speculations The direct vesting of the freehold in the Maxwell orphans themselves, without intermediate trustee management, suggests these children had progressed sufficiently in age to hold property in their own names by August 1713. The pattern contrasts with younger orphan groups whose interests were administered through adult trustees (as with the Greentree estate through Richard Swallow), and indicates a graduated institutional approach to orphan management calibrated to the children's age and capacity. The coordinated August 1713 confirmations addressing the inherited estates of the Maxwell, Steward, Coales, Bagley, Greentree and Leverdy families collectively map a substantial network of children's interests across Sandy Bay. The institutional achievement of fixing all these orphan boundaries through reciprocal documentation in a single sitting represents a particularly precise application of the 1711 framework, protecting the inherited interests of multiple deceased holders' children against future external claims and against disputes between the adjoining orphan estates. The probable connection between the present Maxwell orphans and the June 1713 Mary Maxwell gift, both involving Maxwell family members receiving inherited or gifted Sandy Bay parcels in 1713, suggests an active institutional effort to settle the Maxwell estate within a coordinated regularisation programme. The combined effect of the two transactions, executed within less than two months of each other, brought multiple Maxwell parcels within documented tenure during a single concentrated administrative period, perhaps responding to a particular institutional concern about the family's holdings reaching a settled documentary form. The persistent recurrence of orphan estates across the August 1713 sitting (Harding children, Bagley children, Maxwell orphans, Coales children, Greentree orphans, Beale's children, Steward children, Leverdy children, Richard Alexander's children) marks 1713 as a year of particularly visible generational transition in the documentary record. The 1711 framework's capacity to accommodate multiple inheritance arrangements (primogeniture, testamentary division, trustee management, direct orphan vesting) within a single coordinated regularisation effort demonstrates the institutional flexibility achieved through the documentary regime by its third year of operation.  |
| 147 | 142          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Rob[t] MarshThe Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble]United Comp[a] of Merch[an]ts of England Tradeing tothe East Indies.Do hereby confirm unto Robert Marsh, Freeholder,Ten Acres of Cabbage tree Land Scituate nigh y[e] Headof one branch of James Valley, buting &amp; boundingtowards y[e] North and South upon y[e] Lands of | Company grant to Robert Marsh, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Robert Marsh, freeholder, 10 acres of cabbage tree land near the head of one branch of James Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north and south by the land of Jonathan Doveton, freeholder, to the east by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Jonathan Doveton Freeholder, towards the East upon y[e] Lands of y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a] lately belonging to William Marsh, and towards the West upon the Lands of Grace Coulson Widow, which Ten Acres of Land, the said Robert Marsh hath a just right and Title too, As may appear more largely upon examination in a Consultation of the Fifteenth A. day of January One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen &amp; A. and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any person to make their claim, on a day certain therein Limmitted, but none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold the above said Premises to him y[e] said Robert Marsh his Heires &amp; Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said Robert Marsh his Heires and Assigns Do bear always true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the said Hon[ble] Company &amp; their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island, this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. A. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | the Company's land lately belonging to William Marsh, and to the west by the land of Grace Coulson, widow. Marsh's right and title were established by examination at a consultation of 15 January 1714. Public notice was given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any person to enter a claim, and no claim or objection was made. The land was granted to Robert Marsh and his heirs and assigns for ever, on condition that they bore true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and obeyed all the laws and constitutions of the island. The Company set its common seal at the Castle on 4 August 1713. The instrument was sealed and delivered in the presence of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same Robert Marsh who had earlier appeared as the unmarried son of William Marsh, aged 21 and upwards in August 1705, when he confirmed the prior sales of his father's Edward Gardener inheritance to Dufton and Dweight. His earlier documented dealings included the 9 August 1705 confirmation to Dufton of 20 acres for £20 0s 0d, the 29 August 1705 confirmation to Dweight of 10 acres for £8 16s 0d, and the contemporaneous substitute settlement from his father William of 10 acres with three head of cattle and 12 months' yams. The present 1713 confirmation establishes his title to a 10-acre parcel at the head of James Valley under the 1711 framework. The eastern boundary recital of the Company's land lately belonging to William Marsh fixes the death of his father William Marsh before 4 August 1713. William had appeared in the 1682 inquest holding former William Hunt's parcel by exchange, and his death by 1713 marks another generational transition within the documented Marsh family. The reference to lately belonging indicates that the parcel had reverted to the Company on William's death rather than passing directly to a successor by inheritance, leaving the present Robert Marsh's confirmed freehold adjoining Company ground that had until recently been in his father's hands. The contrast between Robert Marsh's present confirmed 10-acre freehold and the substitute 10 acres delivered by his father in August 1705 raises the question whether the present parcel is the same ground or a different acquisition. The 1705 substitute parcel had been described as lying between Richard Parram's former land and Jonathan Dufton's land, starting from the old wall in the gutt next to former John Hemmons's land. The present 1713 confirmation places its parcel near the head of one branch of James Valley with very different boundary holders. The two parcels are probably distinct, indicating that Robert Marsh had acquired or accumulated additional ground beyond the 1705 substitute settlement. The location near the head of one branch of James Valley introduces a new geographic reference into the present series, distinct from the Sandy Bay, Deep Valley, Lemon Valley, Fryer Valley, Powell's Valley, Sharks Valley, Fishers Valley and other locations documented earlier. James Valley itself appears in the records primarily as the urban centre of James Town and the Castle, with the present reference to a branch of the valley indicating a rural extension or tributary running from the upper part of the valley. The boundary description records Jonathan Doveton on both the northern and southern boundaries, indicating a substantial Doveton holding that wrapped around Marsh's parcel on two sides. The same Jonathan Doveton had received freehold confirmation of 50.25 acres in three parcels on 17 April 1711 (with boundaries recorded against the Bowman, Jeffreys, Beale orphans, William Marsh, Leonard Hunt, William Doveton orphans, Company waste and Leonard Coulson). The present 1713 boundary |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | references confirm his continued substantial position in the area near the head of James Valley. Grace Coulson, widow, on the western boundary connects to the same Grace Coulson confirmed in 30 acres on 23 June 1711 and a further 10 acres of gumwood land on the same day, together with a 5-acre lease. Her 1711 confirmations had placed her holdings in an area bounded by Two Gun Ridge to the east and by Robert Marsh, William Marsh and Jonathan Beale's children on the cabbage tree parcel. The present 1713 boundary recital of her position on Robert Marsh's western flank reproduces the same adjacency noted in her 1711 confirmation, with the two confirmations executed approximately two years apart capturing the same mutual boundary line. The consultation date of 15 January 1714 reproduces the chronological feature noted across the August 1713 confirmations, and is read in the old calendar as 15 January 1713 (equivalent to January 1714 in modern reckoning), placing it before the confirmation in institutional order. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, continuing the unbroken working session across the 4 August 1713 sitting. The absence of any accompanying leasehold instrument for Robert Marsh on the same day indicates that his tenure rested entirely on the confirmed freehold without leasehold extension. The omission distinguishes his position from many other 1713 holders whose freehold and leasehold were confirmed in same-day pairings, and suggests either that his working estate did not extend beyond the 10-acre core or that any other ground he held was documented separately. Speculations The acquisition of a 10-acre parcel in James Valley by Robert Marsh, distinct from the 1705 substitute settlement received from his father William in Sharks Valley, indicates that Robert Marsh had pursued his own land acquisition strategy in the years following his father's settlement and confirmation deeds. The 1713 freehold confirmation regularises that subsequent acquisition under the 1711 framework, formalising Marsh's independent landholding alongside the inherited interests his father had earlier consolidated for him. The eastern boundary description of Company land lately belonging to William Marsh suggests that William Marsh's death had only recently occurred and that his former leasehold or held ground had reverted to the Company without immediate succession to Robert. The institutional treatment of the parcel as Company land rather than as inherited Marsh ground indicates that William's holdings had not all been settled on Robert during his lifetime, and that some portions reverted to the Company on his death rather than passing to his son. The placement of Robert Marsh's confirmed freehold immediately east of Grace Coulson's confirmed estate, and with Jonathan Doveton's substantial holdings on two other sides, indicates that the upper James Valley area had become a focus of confirmed freehold tenure by 1713. The cluster of Coulson, Doveton and Marsh confirmed estates, with William Marsh's former Company ground in the same area, produced a substantial concentration of documented holdings in what had previously been described in the 1711 Doveton confirmation as combining waste tree land and Company waste alongside the named freeholders. The contrast between the 1705 Robert Marsh transactions (where he confirmed prior sales by his father to recover his majority interest in the Edward Gardener inheritance) and the present 1713 confirmation (where he holds his own confirmed freehold independent of the Gardener chain) marks the maturation of his landholding strategy across eight years. The 1705 transactions had been corrective, restoring the documentary basis of earlier transactions, while the 1713 confirmation establishes him |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | as a freeholder in his own right under the new institutional framework. The progression illustrates the broader documentary trajectory of younger holders moving from corrective regularisation of inherited interests toward forward-looking confirmation of independent acquisitions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 148          | 143          | Island St Helena Rob[t] Marsh Lease The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Robert Marsh Freeholder Nine Acres of Land Scituate at or nigh the Head of Chapple Vally, Butting and Bounding towards the North and East upon the Land of Jonathan Doveton, towards the South upon the Lands of John Coulson, and towards the West upon the said Robert Marshes own Land lately purchased of the said Jonathan &amp; Doveton as by the Register Book will more largely appear. To have and to hold the said Premises to him the said Robert Marsh his Executors Administrators and Assignes for the Tearne and time of Twenty One years Commenceing from the Twenty fifth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Upon Condition That he the Robert Marsh his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always do and bear true, Truth, and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors. And Shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island. And yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annual Rent and sum of Four shillings p[er] Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five shillings p[er] Antu[m], in good and Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and there Successors, And that y[e] said Rob[t] Marsh his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall and do at y[e] expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter the said Fences which are the Land marks, And which will Occasion the Alteration of the Plot hereunto Annexed nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without Consent of the Gov[ernor] and Council for the time being. In Witness whereof the said Hon[ble] United Company and Lords Proprietors to these presents have Set their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this First A. day of December One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. And he the said Robert Marsh to the other part hath Set his Hand and Seale. Robert Marsh Sealed and Delivered In the Presence of: John Alexander Samuel [P]r[i]me | Company lease to Robert Marsh, 1 December 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Robert Marsh, freeholder, 9 acres of land at or near the head of Chapel Valley. The parcel was bounded to the north and east by the land of Jonathan Doveton, to the south by the land of John Coulson, and to the west by Marsh's own land lately purchased from Jonathan Doveton, as recorded more fully in the register book. The lease ran to Robert Marsh and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1713. Marsh and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 1 December 1713, and Robert Marsh set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by John Alexander and Samuel Prime, with the surname of the second witness uncertain in the manuscript. Interpretations The lease supplements Robert Marsh's earlier 4 August 1713 freehold confirmation of 10 acres at the head of one branch of James Valley, but does so through a separate instrument executed almost four months later. The combined holding of 19 acres established through these two 1713 instruments distinguishes Marsh from many holders whose freehold and leasehold were confirmed on the same day in coordinated packaging. The temporal separation between the two Marsh confirmations indicates that his estate building was not processed in a single coordinated session but spread across multiple sittings within 1713. The location at or near the head of Chapel Valley introduces a different geographic area from the 4 August James Valley confirmation. The two valleys lie in proximity to one another, with Chapel Valley containing James Town and the Castle to the south of the central upland area. The present 9-acre leasehold thus sits in a different rural extension from the earlier James Valley freehold, |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | indicating that Marsh's working estate spanned two adjacent valley systems. The recital that the western boundary lay against Marsh's own land lately purchased from Jonathan Doveton, with the further reference to the register book for fuller particulars, fixes a recent private transaction between the two holders. The 1713 transfer from Doveton to Marsh extended Marsh's holdings near the head of Chapel Valley by acquiring ground that Doveton had previously held. The institutional recording of the private purchase in the register book, with reference made within the present lease, demonstrates the working interaction between private transactions and the institutional framework. The same Jonathan Doveton had been the subject of substantial freehold confirmations on 17 April 1711 (50.25 acres in three parcels) and 17 April 1711 leases (2 acres of cabbage tree land and 9 acres of gumwood land for 21 years). His earlier dealings included the August 1708 purchase of 10 acres from the Dufton executors, the August 1708 slave exchange with Hugh Bodley, and his role as executor of his late father William Doveton's will. The present 1713 reference to his sale of ground to Robert Marsh adds another transaction to his documented activity in the upper Chapel Valley area. The northern and eastern boundaries against Jonathan Doveton's land indicate that Doveton's substantial 50.25-acre 1711 confirmation produced a continuing presence in the area, with his retained ground forming two sides of Marsh's 9-acre leasehold. The configuration places Marsh's parcel as a wedge between Doveton's surrounding holdings on three sides (north, east, and via his own recently purchased ground on the west). John Coulson on the southern boundary may refer to John Leonard Coulson, son and heir of the late Leonard Coulson, who had received freehold confirmation of 10 acres of gumwood land on 17 April 1711 along with a 2-acre lease. The variant form John Coulson, without the middle name Leonard, may simply reflect scribal brevity rather than a different individual. The same family had appeared in the 23 June 1711 confirmation of Grace Coulson, in the boundary references to Benony Coulson, and in the recurring orphan references to Leonard Coulson's children. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1713 follows the standard institutional commencement of the most recent Lady Day before execution. The pattern matches the dating used in the Gurling lease and the Cason lease of August 1713, distinguishing these from the leases with 1712 commencement. The witness panel of John Alexander and Samuel Prime is reduced from the three-person panel used on 4 August 1713 (Cason, Francis and Alexander). The change in composition reflects the different sitting context, with the December execution occurring outside the coordinated August working session. John Alexander continues as the register-class witness, while Samuel Prime appears here as a new witness not previously documented in the present series. The reference to the register book within the body of the lease, in support of the western boundary identification, indicates that the formal register was actively used as a working reference document by 1713. The institutional capacity to incorporate prior register entries by reference, rather than recapitulating their detail within each new instrument, demonstrates the maturity of the documentary regime by the third year of the 1711 framework. The absence of the senior council quorum at the witnessing stage, with only the register and one additional witness, places the present lease within the reduced quorum pattern applied to ordinary leasehold instruments. The senior witnessing panel (governor, deputy governor, |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | second to fifth in council) was reserved for substantial freehold confirmations and major transactions, with routine leases attested by a smaller working group. Speculations The execution of the leasehold on 1 December 1713, four months after the freehold confirmation of 4 August 1713, suggests that Marsh's two 1713 acquisitions reached the documentary stage at different points within the year. The freehold confirmation rested on the 15 January 1713 consultation that supported the broader August 1713 sitting, while the present lease appears to follow a later private purchase from Doveton that required separate institutional regularisation. The temporal separation indicates that the 1711 framework operated as a continuing process throughout the year rather than concentrating documentary business into discrete sittings. The acquisition of the 9-acre leasehold immediately following the private purchase from Doveton, with the western boundary recital referencing both the recent purchase and the register book for fuller particulars, points to a deliberate sequencing in Marsh's estate building. He first acquired ground from Doveton through a private transaction, then immediately secured an adjoining leasehold from the Company to enlarge the working estate. The institutional process accommodated this two-stage acquisition by recording both elements through separate instruments while maintaining their geographic continuity. The substantial Doveton presence around the present leasehold (on north, east and through the recent purchase on the west) suggests that Marsh's 1713 land strategy was focused on building up holdings within or adjoining the broader Doveton estate area. The pattern indicates an active working relationship between the two families, with Doveton releasing parcels to Marsh while retaining the substantial bulk of his own 1711 confirmed holdings. The institutional documentation preserves the precise lines of subdivision without disturbing either party's underlying interest. The reduced witness panel of December 1713, comprising only the register and one additional witness, contrasts sharply with the extensive coordinated session of 4 August 1713 attended by Cason, Francis and Alexander across at least 17 instruments. The institutional flexibility in scaling the witnessing arrangement to the nature of the business, with major coordinated sessions for batch processing and reduced quorums for individual subsequent transactions, illustrates the practical operation of the 1711 framework as a working system capable of handling both concentrated and dispersed documentary requirements.  |
| 149 | 144          | Island St Helena The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Honourable United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies Island St Helena. Know all men by these Presents That I Elizabeth Haswell Widdow Widdow and Relict of Capt[n] George Haswell late of this Island Deputy Govern[or] deceased For and in consideration of the sume of Four Hundred Eighty Pounds in good and Currant money of the Said Island to me in hand paid at or before the Ensealing and Delivery hereof, by John | Elizabeth Haswell to John Alexander, 16 May 1719. Elizabeth Haswell, widow and relict of the late Captain George Haswell, formerly deputy governor of the island, sold to John Alexander of the island 10 acres of land in Sandy Bay, together with all her right, title, interest and claim in any further part or parcel adjoining the land. The consideration was £480 0s 0d in good and current island money, paid in hand before the sealing and delivery of the deed. The land had been inherited or held by three successive parties: her late father Thomas Goodwin, her                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------|-----------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Alexander of the said Island the receipt whereof I hereby acknowledge and my Self therewith to be fully Satisfied Contented and paid and for divers other Good Causes and Considerations me thereunto moving Have given, granted Bargained Sold and Delivered, and by these P[re]sents Do firmly and Absolutely Give Grant Bargaine Sell and Deliver unto the Said John Alexander his Heirs Executors Administrators and Assignes all and Singular that Piece or Parcell of Land Containing by Estimation Ten Acres of Land more together with all my Right Title Interest and Claim in and to all and every Part or Parcell of the Said Land Adjoyning thereunto Either Heired by my Deceased Father Thomas Goodwin my Deceased Husband Capt[n] George Haswell my self &amp; the rest of releases walls Fences Rights or Priviledges thereunto belonging or in any wise heretofore Appertaining of what nature kind or Quality Soever as also Be measur[e] House and out House withall the Provisions and Ho[us] [T]hat were or is now Standing approaching and being in Sandy Bay Which was formerly in the P[ro]session of George Surdens in Right of his Wife mercy Charges who Sold the Same to the Said Deceased Capt George Haswell, who[s]e for[e] the Said John Alexander and his Heirs for ever is hereby Intituled to the whole and Entire Estate aforesaid in all and every particular or p[ar]cell thereof and is To have hold Occupie Possess and Quietly Enjoy the Same with out any manner of trouble Mollestation Interruption or Eviction Law Suits or Contrava- sies in or about the P[re]misses by me the Said Elizabeth Haswell my Heirs Executors Administrators or Assignes or from by or under any other Persons or Persons whatsoever by my means consent or Procurement hereby Warranting to Save and Keep Harmless and Indemnified the Said John Alexander his Heirs Executors Administrators and Assignes from all Other Claimes and Demands on the Said Estate and to assure the Said premises to be free and Clear from all Incumbrances whatsoever. In Witness whereof I have hereunto Sett my Hand and Seale this Sixteenth day of May Anno Dom: One Thousand Seven Hundred and Nineteen. Signed Sealed and Eliz[ab]eth Haswell Delivered in the P[re]sence of M[r] Lacy Jn[o] Long Char[le]s Steward | late husband Captain George Haswell, and herself. The conveyance covered the entire estate including all walls, fences, rights and privileges previously appertaining to the land, together with the house, outhouse, all provisions and any other buildings then standing on the parcel. The land had formerly been in the possession of George Surdens in right of his wife Mercy Charles, with the surname imperfectly legible in the manuscript. Surdens had sold the same parcel to the late Captain George Haswell, with the chain of title reaching the present sale through the Haswell household. Haswell conveyed to John Alexander and his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns the entire estate, to hold, occupy, possess and quietly enjoy without molestation, interruption, eviction, suit or controversy from Haswell, her heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, or from any person claiming under her. She warranted to save and keep Alexander and his successors harmless and indemnified against all other claims and demands on the estate, and to ensure the premises were free and clear of all encumbrances. Elizabeth Haswell set her hand and seal on 16 May 1719. The deed was signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of Mr Lacy, John Long and Charles Steward. Interpretations The grantor's identification as widow and relict of the late Captain George Haswell, formerly deputy governor, fixes the institutional context of the sale. Captain Haswell had appeared in the present series through the Company lease of 7 May 1717, which leased him 6 acres of gumwood in Sandy Bay for 21 years at the standard rate. The 1717 lease had recorded him as deputy governor and as a holder of 10 acres of free land in Sandy Bay. His death by 16 May 1719 brings his widow forward as the disposer of the family estate. The remarkable feature of the deed is the identification of Elizabeth Haswell as daughter of Thomas Goodwin, with the parcel inherited from her father before passing through her husband. The connection establishes that Elizabeth was a daughter of the long-prominent Thomas Goodwin who had served as governor by December 1707, marking a previously undocumented branch of the Goodwin family tree. Thomas Goodwin's recorded son John Goodwin had been named in the 1705 Bevan settlement as the eldest son, but his other children had not been individually identified in the earlier records. The present 1719 deed establishes Elizabeth as another of his children who survived to adulthood and married into the Haswell household. The Thomas Goodwin connection adds substantial context to Haswell's appointment as deputy governor by 1717. The marriage between Goodwin's daughter and Haswell would have positioned Haswell within the island's senior establishment circle, with the Goodwin connection probably contributing to his elevation to the deputy governor's office. The institutional and family ties between the Goodwin and Haswell households extended the established Goodwin pattern of intermarriage with prominent island figures. The recital of the chain of title traces the parcel through three generations: from Thomas Goodwin to his daughter Elizabeth, and from her into the Haswell household through her marriage. The earlier passage of the parcel from George Surdens to Captain Haswell, with Surdens having held it in right of his wife Mercy Charles, adds a further generational layer to the title. The married woman's interest in right of her husband appears here as a parallel to the in right of his wife formulas noted in the 1682 inquest, where land entered a household through marriage. The reference to George Surdens (with the surname uncertain) having held the parcel in right of his wife Mercy Charles, with the surname Charles probably reflecting a variant of an earlier name, presents an unresolved |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | identification on the present reading. The combination of Surdens and Charles names does not connect cleanly with any holders previously documented in the present series, though the Paul Charles family of the 1705 Sandy Bay 99-year extension and the William Charles freehold confirmation of 20 July 1711 represent a possible related connection. The substantial price of £480 0s 0d for the 10 acres in Sandy Bay, together with the house, outhouse, provisions and other buildings, produces a per-acre rate of £48 0s 0d. The figure stands well above the general upland and Sandy Bay rates documented across the present series, reflecting the developed condition of the parcel with substantial buildings, provisions and improvements. The price approaches the highest figures recorded for individual estate transactions in the records, alongside the £500 0s 0d Hoskison composite purchase of 1706 and the £350 0s 0d Lufkin to Company sale. The buyer John Alexander is the same long-serving register and substantial landholder who had built up his own estate through multiple purchases including the Bidott messuage of 1701, the Grandy 10 acres of 1701, the Elinor Cotgrave 70 acres of 1712, and earlier dealings traced across the records. The acquisition of the substantial Haswell estate in 1719 adds another major parcel to his accumulated holdings, marking him as one of the most active estate-builders in the island establishment. The save-harmless covenant given by Elizabeth Haswell on her own behalf and through her successors carries the standard institutional indemnity. The breadth of the warranty against all other claims and demands and the assurance of freedom from all encumbrances addresses the institutional concern that the complex three-generation inheritance chain might support latent claims from earlier holders, surviving Goodwin or Haswell heirs, or other interested parties. The witness panel includes Mr Lacy, John Long and Charles Steward. Mr Lacy introduces a new individual into the present series, identified with the courtesy title Mr indicating respectable standing. John Long had appeared in earlier records through the cross-references to consultation book 15 folio 80 concerning the maintenance of orphan children, and through the Cleve to Greentree boundary reference of 1715. Charles Steward continues his role as witness alongside his earlier substantial documentation as a Sandy Bay holder. The institutional handling of the deed by a substantial widow disposing of her father's, her husband's, and her own combined estate places Elizabeth Haswell within the pattern of widows who held and disposed of substantial property in their own right. The documentary form gives her direct authority to sell the entire estate without intermediate trustee or guardian, indicating her full legal capacity as a widow holding independent property. Speculations The disposal of the entire combined Haswell estate within two years of George Haswell's elevation to deputy governor and only weeks or months before his apparent death suggests the family had reached a transitional moment requiring liquidation of the Sandy Bay holdings. Elizabeth Haswell's decision to sell rather than retain the property may have reflected her intention to leave the island, to consolidate her resources in another location, or to settle obligations arising from her husband's affairs as deputy governor. The choice of John Alexander as buyer, given his long-established role as register and his existing accumulation of substantial holdings, suggests the institutional and personal connections that made the transaction possible. Alexander's standing within the senior establishment, his access to substantial cash resources, and his existing relationships with both the Goodwin and Haswell households would have positioned him as a natural buyer for a transaction of this scale and |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------|--------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | complexity. The institutional record of his earlier purchases at substantial prices (the 1712 Elinor Cotgrave 70 acres for £90 0s 0d, the 1712 Lufkin tenement for £170 0s 0d in store credit) confirms his capacity to absorb the present £480 0s 0d transaction. The previously undocumented connection between Thomas Goodwin and Elizabeth Haswell as father and daughter opens a substantial new line in the Goodwin family record. The Goodwin family's established prominence (Thomas as governor, John as the eldest son, Robert as a holder of Fort James Valley property) is now extended to include Elizabeth as a daughter who married into the deputy governor's household. The pattern reproduces the broader Goodwin strategy of consolidating institutional and family ties through strategic marriages, with the present Haswell connection bringing both the deputy governor's office and the substantial Sandy Bay estate within the wider Goodwin family orbit during George Haswell's lifetime. The chain of title from George Surdens through Captain Haswell to Elizabeth and now to John Alexander, with each transfer accompanied by substantial development of the parcel through buildings and provisions, illustrates the cumulative investment in working Sandy Bay estates across multiple ownerships. The £48 0s 0d per acre achieved in 1719 reflects the combined value of the underlying ground and the layered improvements added by successive owners, with the present sale realising the full developed value of an estate built up over the working tenures of three or more holders.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 150 | 145          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Jn[o] KnipeThe Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Company of Merch[an]ts of England Tradeing to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett &amp; Sett unto John Knipe Freeholder Four Acres of Gumwood Land Lying Scituate at y[e] Bottom of Pleasant Valley, butting &amp; bounding, towards y[e] East-West- North &amp; South upon y[e] Honourable Companys Wast Land To have and to hold, the aforesaid Four Acres of Land, to him the John Knipe his Executors Administrators and Assignes, For the Terme and Time of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve Upon Condition. That he y[e] said John Knipe his Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall always do, and bear true Truth &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires &amp; Successors, and to the said Honourable United Company and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, and yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annuall Rent and Sum of Four shillings p[er] Acre, besides one Shilling duty being in all Five shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant money of the said Island, unto the Honourable Company, and their Successors. And That he the said John Knipe his Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall and Do at the expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years, Leave y[e] Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks, and which will occasion, the alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or interest in the same without the consent of the Governour and Councell for the time being. In witness whereof the said Honourable United Company, and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August. In the year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and the said John Knipe to the other part hath Sett his Hand and Seale. John Knipe | Company lease to John Knipe, 4 August 1713. The Lords Proprietors of the island, namely the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to John Knipe, freeholder, 4 acres of gumwood land at the bottom of Pleasant Valley. The parcel was bounded to the east, west, north and south by the Company's waste land. The lease ran to John Knipe and his executors, administrators and assigns for 21 years from 25 March 1712. Knipe and his successors were required to bear true faith and allegiance to Queen Anne, her heirs and successors, and to the Company and its successors, and to obey all the laws and constitutions of the island. The annual rent was 5s 0d per annum, made up of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, payable in good and current island money on Lady Day, 25 March. At the end of the 21-year term he was to leave the fences in as good repair as at the start. The fences served as his legal landmarks and as the basis for the plan annexed to the lease, and were not to be altered. He was not to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council in office at the time. The Company set its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713, and John Knipe set his hand and seal to the counterpart. The instrument was witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The grantee is the same John Knipe who had appeared in the 1687 Rhodes plantation lease as the southern boundary of the 10-acre parcel leased by Elizabeth Rhodes to John Cotgrave at the head of Sharks Valley. His name has not appeared elsewhere in the documented transactions of the present series since that 1687 reference, suggesting either a quiet presence as a continuing holder without further documented dealings or a possible reappearance of the same individual after more than two and a half decades. The 1713 lease establishes him as a freeholder in his own right by 1713, with his confirmed freehold tenure underlying the present leasehold extension. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                             | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------------|-----------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Sealed and Delivered in the Presence of: Tho[s] CasonH[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | The location at the bottom of Pleasant Valley introduces a different geographic area from the Sandy Bay, Deep Valley, Lemon Valley, Fryer Valley and Powell's Valley locations that dominated the 4 August 1713 sitting. Pleasant Valley had appeared in earlier records through the 1682 inquest, where Henry Coales was recorded as holding 10 acres there (10 from John Duffield in right of his wife, and 10 from John Hemmons in right of his wife). The present 1713 reference confirms that Pleasant Valley continued to support documented private tenure across the period. The bounded position of the parcel by Company waste land on all four sides places it as a small island of leasehold within unenclosed Company ground. The configuration matches the pattern noted in several earlier instruments, including the John Roberts personal lease of 1 August 1711, the second parcel of the Gurling lease, the second parcel of the Swallow Deep Valley lease, and the second parcel of the Margaret Sich lease. The recurrence of small isolated leasehold parcels within larger Company holdings indicates a consistent feature of the 1711 framework, with the Company prepared to lease modest enclaves to nearby holders rather than retain them as undocumented waste. The very modest 4-acre size of the leasehold marks one of the smallest single-parcel leases of the present series, alongside the Walter Belward 6-acre lease of 1711 (later assigned to Robert Bell) and the small enclave parcels included within the multi-parcel leases of Sich, Gurling, Swallow and Steward. The institutional willingness to grant a 21-year lease over just 4 acres reflects the framework's accommodation of small individual holdings within the broader documentary regime. The dating of the lease term from 25 March 1712 places the present lease within the same administrative subset as the Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree, Allis, Steward and Coles leases of the same day, all of which share the 1712 commencement date. The Knipe lease thus brings the count of same-day leases with 1712 commencement to seven, distinguishing them from the leases with 1713 commencement (Gurling, Cason and Charles). The consistent back-dating of seven leases by an additional year reflects a coordinated administrative decision affecting a significant subset of the August 1713 business. The combined annual rent on the 4-acre leasehold, at the standard institutional rate of 5s 0d per acre, produces £1 0s 0d per annum under the standard institutional construction. The modest rent fits the small parcel size and represents one of the lower individual leasehold revenue contributions in the framework. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander reproduces exactly the panel that attested all the other freehold confirmations and leases of the day, confirming the continuity of the working session throughout 4 August 1713. The Knipe lease may represent another instrument processed in the same coordinated session. The institutional vesting in Knipe and his executors, administrators and assigns for the 21-year term reproduces the standard lease formula without the variant constructions (such as vesting in named family heirs) noted in the Sich and Greentree leases of the same day. The simpler formula indicates that the Knipe holding did not require accommodation of complex inheritance arrangements at the moment of the present lease. The bounded position of the parcel against Company waste on all four sides, in contrast to the boundary configurations of most other leases recording adjoining holdings of named neighbours, suggests that Pleasant Valley remained a more sparsely documented area than Sandy Bay or Deep Valley in 1713. The absence of named boundary holders may reflect either the smaller scale of cultivated tenure in the valley or a different administrative |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | approach to Pleasant Valley parcels under the 1711 framework. Speculations The reappearance of the Knipe name in the documentary record more than 26 years after the 1687 Rhodes plantation lease reference, with no intermediate documented transactions, raises questions about the continuity of John Knipe's tenure. The most probable reading is that the same individual continued to hold ground at the head of Sharks Valley and elsewhere across the period 1687 to 1713, with his interests rising to formal documentation only when his 1712 to 1713 leasehold acquisition required institutional regularisation. The pattern would be consistent with quieter holders whose private occupation did not generate documented transactions but whose tenure persisted across the framework's reach. An alternative reading is that the present John Knipe represents a son or namesake of the earlier 1687 holder, with the original John Knipe having died in the intervening period and the family interest having descended through inheritance to a younger John Knipe. The documentary record provides no internal evidence to distinguish between the two readings, but the substantial time gap (26 years) and the absence of any later reference to the elder Knipe support the inheritance reading as more probable. The choice of a 4-acre leasehold at the bottom of Pleasant Valley, surrounded entirely by Company waste, indicates that Knipe was extending his working capacity into a small but discrete parcel of cultivable ground within an otherwise uncultivated area. The institutional willingness to grant such a small parcel for a 21-year term reflects the Company's broader policy of bringing isolated pockets of cultivable ground into formal tenure rather than leaving them unallocated. The arrangement allowed Knipe to develop the parcel under documented protection while generating modest annual rent for the Company. The matching 25 March 1712 commencement date across the seven coordinated same-day leases (Morris, Orlando Bagley, Greentree, Allis, Steward, Coles and the present Knipe) suggests a substantial group of holders whose 1711 framework regularisation was tied to a coordinated administrative determination from 1712. The consistent back-dating across these seven leases produces a documentary cohort with shared administrative origins, perhaps reflecting consultations or surveys undertaken in the winter of 1712 that supported the formal documentary regularisation in August 1713.  |
| 151 | 146          | Island St Hellena Jn[o] Bagley Deed from y[e] Comp[a] The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto John Bagley Freeholder Thirty Six Acres of Cabbagetree Land Buting and Bounding towards the North and East upon the Land of Gabriel Powell freehold[er], Towards the South upon the Lands of Charles Steward, and Three Acres of Land which y[e] said Bagley Hires of the Honourable Company, and towards the West upon the Land of Henry Francis and Francis Wrangham freeholders, which Thirty Six Acres of Land, he the said Jn[o] Bagley hath a Just right and | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to John Bagley. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to John Bagley, freeholder, 36 acres of cabbage tree land. The parcel was bounded north and east by Gabriel Powell freeholder's land, south by Charles Steward's land and by 3 acres hired by Bagley from the Company, and west by the land of Henry Francis and Francis Wrangham, both freeholders. Bagley's title to the 36 acres rested on a consultation of 15 January 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Bagley, his heirs and                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | Title too, As may appear more largely upon Examination in a Consultation of the Fifteenth &amp; A. day of January, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and Notice being given by beat of Drum, for any person to make their Claim on a certain day therein Lim[m]itted, But none appearing in any Objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to him the said John Bagley his Heires and Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said John Bagley his Heires and Assignes Do bear always true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereign Lady the Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof The said Honourable Company to these presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on the said Island, this Fourth &amp; A. &amp; A. day of August. A. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in the Presence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The deed regularised an existing occupation under the new documentary regime brought in by the 6 April 1711 consultation. Bagley already held the land in practice, and the confirmation converted working possession into recorded freehold within the framework of the new register book. Beat of drum public notice operated as the standard claim procedure. Silence on the appointed day extinguished any competing interest, with the burden placed on rival claimants to come forward rather than on the holder to prove his title against the world. The mechanism allowed the Company to clear questionable titles cheaply and quickly. The 3 acres of hired land lying within Bagley's southern boundary, alongside Charles Steward's freehold, illustrate the layered tenure operating around each substantial holder: freehold confirmed under the 1711 framework, leasehold from the Company, and adjoining freeholders' ground all interlocked within one boundary description. The allegiance condition bound heirs and assigns as well as the original grantee, making the freehold conditional on continuing loyalty across generations. The Company retained a reversionary lever against political or administrative breach, even where the grant otherwise gave perpetual ownership. The boundary description placed Bagley within the western Chapel Valley cluster of Henry Francis, Francis Wrangham, Gabriel Powell and Charles Steward, all of whom appear repeatedly across the 1711 to 1713 confirmations as part of the literate circle of substantial holders whose estates were regularised together. The cabbage tree classification fixed the land at the upper, wetter elevation where cabbage trees grew, distinguishing it from gumwood ground lower down. The classification carried administrative weight because rental and conservation obligations differed between the two categories. Witness Thomas Cason, lieutenant by 4 August 1713, attended at least 16 instruments processed on this day, indicating a single major sitting clearing a large block of confirmations in unbroken session. The reduced witness panel of Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander, without the full council quorum, suggests this was treated as routine rather than as a major ceremonial confirmation. The consultation date of 15 January 1713 falls in old calendar reckoning before 25 March, so the modern equivalent is January 1714. The seven-month gap between consultation and formal confirmation reflects the administrative timetable rather than any dispute, with the beat of drum interval and the assembling of the sitting accounting for the delay. Speculations The same-day witnessing by Henry Francis, whose own confirmed land formed Bagley's western boundary, served a quiet practical purpose. Boundary disputes between adjoining freeholders were the most common source of later litigation, and Francis's presence as a witness on Bagley's deed silently affirmed his acceptance of the boundary line as drawn. The arrangement let the council settle two interlocking titles by having each freeholder attest the other's deed within the same sitting, reducing the risk of future contest at minimal administrative cost. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 152 | 147          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Jn[o] Bagley The Lords Proprietors, of this Island the Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett Unto John Bagley Freeholder, Three Acres of Cabbagetree Land, Butting and bounding towards the North and East upon the said John Bagleys own Land, towards the South upon the Lands of Charles Steward, and upon the West upon the Land of Thomas Riders Children. To have and to hold The aforesaid Three Acres of Cabbage Tree Land to him the said John Bagley his Executors Administrators and Assignes for the Terme and Time of Twenty one years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve. Upon Condition. That he the said John Bagley his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always do and bear true, faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable United Company and their Successors and shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, And yearly pay at the Annuntiation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annual Rent of Four Shillings per Acre besides one shilling duty being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good and Lawfull money of the said Island, To the said Honourable Company and their Successors, And that he the said John Bagley his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years Leave the Fences abou[t] the said Land in as good repaire as they are now, and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks, and which will occasion the Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the Consent of the Governour and Council for the time being. In witness, whereof the said Honourable United Company &amp; Lords Proprietors to these Presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley, this Fourth &amp; A. day of August A. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And y[e] said John Bagley to the other part hath sett his Hand and Seale. John Bagley Sealed and Delivered In y[e] presence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Company lease to John Bagley. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to John Bagley, freeholder, 3 acres of cabbage tree land. The parcel was bounded north and east by Bagley's own land, south by Charles Steward's land, and west by Thomas Rider's children's land. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Bagley, his executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound Bagley and his successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Bagley was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. He was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. Bagley signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The lease paired with the same-day freehold confirmation to give Bagley a composite working estate of 39 acres of cabbage tree land, with the 3 leased acres tucked into the corner formed by his own freehold to the north and east. The same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging recurs across the major 4 August 1713 sitting and represents a standard institutional pattern: confirm the core holding as freehold, then extend the working area through adjoining leasehold on Company ground. The fences served a dual function as physical boundary and legal landmark. The lease made the lessee responsible for keeping them up not as a matter of good husbandry but because their alteration would invalidate the annexed plan. The clause converted fence maintenance into a documentary obligation, with the plan operating as the authoritative record of the leased ground. The disposal restriction marked a substantial departure from the earlier freely transferable 99-year leases of the 1690s and early 1700s. Under the 1711 framework, the lessee held a personal interest that could not move to a new occupier without council approval. The Company regained active control over who occupied its ground, blocking the open market in leasehold interests that had previously operated through private assignment. The rent structure of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty became the standard rate across the 1711 to 1713 leases. The duty component, charged at a flat rate rather than per acre, functioned as a fixed administrative levy distinct from the rental return on the land itself, perhaps covering the cost of the register, the surveys and the institutional apparatus around the new tenure. Lady Day as the rent day aligned the island's tenure calendar with the metropolitan English quarter day system. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | The choice integrated the island's administrative rhythm with the wider Company financial year and made it easier to consolidate accounts between St Helena and London. The lease's western boundary references Thomas Rider's children rather than Thomas Rider himself, recording the recent death of James Reder (variant Rider) the elder and the family's tenure as orphan holders. The same orphan-holding pattern recurs across the 4 August 1713 sitting and reflects the high adult mortality visible throughout the records. The reduced witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander, the same group as on Bagley's freehold confirmation of the same day, indicates routine lease procedure rather than ceremonial sealing. The full council quorum was reserved for substantial freehold confirmations, with leases dispatched by a smaller working panel. Speculations The 3-acre parcel was perhaps deliberately small because it represented a particular working unit within Bagley's larger estate rather than an independent holding. Its position wedged into the north-east corner of his freehold, with two of its four sides formed by his own land, suggests it was a piece of Company ground that had always been worked together with the freehold as a single agricultural unit. The 1711 framework regularised the existing working arrangement by issuing a formal lease covering ground already in practical occupation, rather than allocating fresh land. The same-day freehold confirmation and lease accordingly recorded one working estate in two legal categories, matching the administrative form to the existing ground reality.  |
| 153 | 148          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Josh[ua] Johnson The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm Unto Joshua Johnson, Freeholder Fourteen Acres of Land Scituate under the Kings Peak next to Sandy Bay, butting and bounding towards the North upon Twenty Eight Acres that the said Joshua Johnson Hires of the Honourable Company, towards the East South and West upon the said Honourable Companys Wast Land, Which said Fourteen Acres of Land, He the aforesaid Joshua Johnson Hath, a Just Right and Title too, as may appear more fully Upon examination in a Consultation of the Third &amp; A. day of February One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen And Notice being given by Beat of Drum for any person to make their Claime on a certain day therein Limmitted, but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to him the said Joshua Johnson, his Heires and Assignes for ever, Upon Condition. That he the said Joshua Johnson his Heires and Assignes Do and shall always bear true Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honour[able] Company and their Successors, | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Joshua Johnson. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Joshua Johnson, freeholder, 14 acres of land under the King's Peak next to Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded north by 28 acres that Johnson hired from the Company, and east, south and west by the Company's waste land. Johnson's title rested on a consultation of 3 February 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Johnson, his heirs and assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The parcel sat as a freehold core ringed on three sides by Company waste and on the fourth by Johnson's own 28 acres of hired Company ground. The configuration gave Johnson a combined working estate of 42 acres at the head of Sandy Bay under the King's Peak, with the                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|--------------------|-----------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | And shall Duly obey all y[e] Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these Presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on the said Island, this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. in the year of our Lord. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] CasonH Francis Jn[o] Alexander | freehold acting as the secure base and the leasehold extending the productive area into ground that remained under Company supervision. The absence of any named adjoining freeholder is unusual within the 4 August 1713 sitting and marks Johnson's holding as a frontier position. Most confirmations on the same day record at least two neighbouring freeholders, reflecting the dense interlocking pattern of consolidated estates around Chapel Valley, Fryer Valley and the main ridge. Johnson's isolation under the King's Peak indicates a holding on the outer edge of regularised settlement, with Company waste still surrounding him at the time of confirmation. The boundary description places Johnson under the King's Peak, the highest topographical marker on the island. The peak's name carried both royal and military weight, fixing the parcel within the institutional landscape rather than purely by reference to neighbouring holders. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the reduced quorum used across the 4 August 1713 sitting for confirmations and leases of routine character. Cason in particular attended at least 16 instruments processed on this day, indicating an unbroken administrative session clearing a large block of titles. The hired 28 acres are not separately documented in the present deed, which means they continued under existing terms outside the 1711 to 1713 framework or were dealt with under a separate instrument. The reference to them within the freehold confirmation served the practical purpose of fixing the northern boundary, not of regularising the leasehold itself. The consultation date of 3 February 1714 in modern reckoning, which falls in old calendar 1713, demonstrates the standard administrative interval of six months between the consultation determining the title and the formal sealing of the deed. The interval allowed for the beat of drum notice, the production of the plan and the assembling of the witness panel. Speculations The freehold confirmation of only 14 acres against the 28 acres held by lease suggests Johnson had a particular reason for converting just half his working estate into perpetual ownership. He perhaps lacked the capital or institutional standing to apply for confirmation of the full block, or the leased portion was Company ground that the council was unwilling to release into freehold while it remained on the outer margin of settlement. Either way, the asymmetry reveals the council exercising selective control over which parts of an existing occupation became permanent and which remained subject to the rental and disposal restrictions of the 1711 framework. The mechanism let the Company secure long-term residents in the more remote parts of the island while retaining institutional supervision over the bulk of the ground they actually worked. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 154          | 149          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Josh[ua] Johnson The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies, Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto Joshua Johnson, Freeholder, Twenty Eight Acres of Land, Scituate Lying &amp; being under the High Peak next to Sandy Bay, Butting towards the North and East upon the Land of James Riverose, and towards the South and West upon the said Joshua Johnsons own, Fourteen Acres of Land. To have and to hold the said Twenty Eight Acres of Land to him the said Joshua Johnson, his Executors Administrat[ors] and Assignes for the Terme and Time of Twenty one Years commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve, Upon Condition That he the said Joshua Johnson his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always do and bear true faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company, and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island, And yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 23 day of March) The Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre, besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Hon[ble] Company and their Successors. And that he the said Joshua Johnson his Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall and Do at the expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one Years Leave y[e] Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter y[e] said Fences which are the Land marks, and which will Occasion the alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the Confines consent of the Governour &amp; Coun[c]ell for the time being. In witness whereof the said Honourable United Company and Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth day of August. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And the said Joshua Johnson to the other p[ar]t hath Sett his Hand and Seale. Joshua Johnson Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Joshua Johnson. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Joshua Johnson, freeholder, 28 acres of land under the High Peak next to Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded north and east by James Riverose's land, and south and west by Johnson's own 14 acres of freehold. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Johnson, his executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound Johnson and his successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Johnson was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. He was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. Johnson signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[?] Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging pattern that recurs across the 4 August 1713 sitting. Johnson's 14 acres of confirmed freehold and 28 acres of leasehold formed a single working estate of 42 acres under the High Peak, with the leased ground extending the freehold core into adjoining Company territory. The earlier freehold deed referenced the King's Peak while the lease named the High Peak, both terms describing the same dominant topographical feature above Sandy Bay. The leased parcel was twice the size of the freehold core, reversing the more usual weighting of confirmed freehold over leasehold seen elsewhere in the 1711 to 1713 framework. The configuration shows the Company permitting substantial productive use of its waste land under a fixed-term regime while limiting the perpetual grant to a smaller secure base. The structure kept the majority of Johnson's working ground under institutional supervision through the disposal restriction and the rent obligation. The northern and eastern boundary with James Riverose provides the only adjoining freeholder named across either of Johnson's two same-day instruments. Riverose may be a variant rendering of James Rider (Reder), whose family appears repeatedly across the 4 August 1713 sitting, perhaps reflecting a scribal divergence on a single day rather than a separate individual. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | The rent date in the body of the lease is given as 23 March, which conflicts with the standard Lady Day of 25 March specified elsewhere in the same instrument. The discrepancy is a scribal slip in a clause that the council clearly intended to align with the metropolitan quarter day rhythm, since Lady Day fixed the rent calendar across every other lease processed in the same sitting. The disposal restriction continued to operate as the principal institutional control under the 1711 framework. Johnson held a personal interest that could not move to a new occupier without council approval, blocking the open market in leasehold interests that had previously operated through private assignment. The Company retained active supervisory control over who worked the ground. The fence maintenance obligation operated as a documentary requirement rather than a purely practical one. The fences served as the landmarks tying the lessee's occupation to the annexed plan, and their alteration would invalidate the cartographic record. The lessee accordingly bore responsibility for preserving the boundary as drawn, with the plan acting as the authoritative reference. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches every other instrument processed at the 4 August 1713 sitting and confirms the routine character of the lease procedure. The session cleared a large block of confirmations and leases in a single working day, with the reduced quorum sufficient for ordinary leasehold instruments. Speculations The asymmetric ratio of 28 leased acres to 14 freehold suggests Johnson was perhaps in the early phase of consolidating his estate. A long-established holder typically had a freehold core matching or exceeding the leasehold extension, since the 1711 framework operated to regularise existing occupation rather than to allocate fresh ground. Johnson's weighting toward leasehold instead points to a working estate built up principally through Company tenancy, with only a smaller portion having ripened into perpetual title by 1713. The pattern would fit a holder who had recently moved into the King's Peak ground and whose claim to the larger leased portion still rested on rental tenure rather than the longer historical possession that elsewhere supported substantial freehold confirmation.  |
| 155 | 150          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Eliz[abeth] Johnson The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Company of Merch[ant]s of England Tradeing to the East Indies, Do hereby Confirm Unto Elizabeth Johnson Widow & Freeholder, Fifty Acres of Land, Scituate in Broad Bottom, butting and bounding towards the North East and South upon the Honourable Companys Wast Land, and upon the West upon Five Acres of Land She the said, Elizabeth Johnson Hires of the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] And Hath a Just Right and Title thereto as may more plainly and fully appear, Upon Examination in a Consultation of the Third & A. A. day of February One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by Beat of Drum for any person to make their Claims on a day certain therein Limitted, But none appearing | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Elizabeth Johnson. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Elizabeth Johnson, widow and freeholder, 50 acres of land in Broad Bottom. The parcel was bounded north, east and south by the Company's waste land, and west by 5 acres that Elizabeth Johnson hired from the Company. Her title rested on a consultation of 3 February 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Elizabeth Johnson and the heirs of her deceased husband Joshua Johnson, and their respective heirs and assigns, were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------|-----------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | or any objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to her the said Elizabeth Johnson, and the Heires of her deceased Husband Joshua Johnson, his hers or their Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition That she the said Elizabeth Johnson, and the Heires of her before named decea[se]d Husband, and every of hers his or their Heires and Assignes, shall and Do always bear true, faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne Her Heires and Successors and to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all the Laws and constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these Presents Have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth A. A. A. day of August. In the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...], Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The vesting clause is unusual within the 1711 to 1713 framework. The freehold was confirmed not in Elizabeth alone but in her jointly with the heirs of her deceased husband Joshua Johnson, with the inheritance running through both routes. The structure protected the widow's life interest while preserving the underlying claim of the children or other heirs of the first marriage. The Company secured a perpetual freeholder without displacing the family settlement that the late husband's death had set in motion. The deceased Joshua Johnson named here is distinct from the Joshua Johnson confirmed and leased the same day under the King's Peak. The presence of two Joshua Johnsons in concurrent records, one living and active in Sandy Bay under the High Peak, the other deceased and survived by Elizabeth at Broad Bottom, points to either a father-son succession or two unrelated holders of the same name working different parts of the island. Elizabeth Johnson, widow of Joshua Johnson, may be the same Mrs Elizabeth Johnson who bought 20 acres in Lemon Valley from John Greentree on 27 April 1698 for £20 0s 0d in store credit, with the parcel adjoining her existing Great Bottom estate. Broad Bottom and Great Bottom probably describe the same area under variant spellings, in which case the 1713 confirmation regularised an estate she had been building up across at least 15 years. Witnesses to the 1698 purchase included John Goodwin, Richard Harding, F. Gargan and F. Faltenald, placing her within the wider literate circle of free planters. The parcel of 50 acres is among the larger individual confirmations processed on 4 August 1713 and indicates a substantial established holding rather than a frontier allocation. Its position ringed on three sides by Company waste shows the estate sat on the outer margin of regularised settlement at Broad Bottom, with no adjoining freeholders named. The 5 acres of hired land on the western boundary represented a leasehold extension that operated outside the present deed. No same-day lease was issued for the 5 acres, suggesting they continued under earlier arrangements or were dealt with separately. The reference within the freehold confirmation served only to fix the western boundary, not to regularise the leasehold itself. The widow's status as freeholder in her own right, named first in the vesting clause and ahead of the heirs of her late husband, recognised her independent capacity to hold land. The pattern matches other widows whose tenure the 1711 framework regularised, including Grace Coulson, Margaret Sich, Margaret Bagley and Elinor Cotgrave. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches every other instrument processed at the 4 August 1713 sitting, confirming the routine character of the procedure within an unbroken administrative day. Speculations The double vesting in Elizabeth and the heirs of her deceased husband Joshua perhaps reflected a particular family settlement reached at or shortly after Joshua's death. The clause anticipated that the estate would pass to children of the marriage rather than to Elizabeth's own line by any subsequent remarriage, while still giving her the working possession during her lifetime. The arrangement protected the children's reversionary interest against a future stepfather, by binding the title to the husband's heirs rather than to Elizabeth absolutely. The Company's willingness to record the freehold in this form indicates the council recognised and respected family settlements made privately, regularising them within the new tenure framework without forcing a single-named freeholder |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | where the underlying agreement required something more layered.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 156          | 151          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Eliz[abeth] Johnson The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies Do hereby Demise Lett Sett unto Elizabeth Johnson Widow and Freeholder, Five Acres of Land Scituate Lying and being in Broad Bottom, below the High Peak, Butting and Bounding towards the North-East and West upon the Honourable Companys Wast Land, and Towards the South upon her own Fifty Acres of Land. To have and to hold The said Five Acres of Land to her the said Elizabeth Johnson, and the Heires of her deceased Husband, Joshua Johnson their Execut[ors] Administrators and Assignes, For the Terme and Time of Twenty one Years commenc[e]ling from the Twenty Fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve. Upon Condition That they and every of them their, Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always Do and bear true Truth and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors. And to the said Honourable Company and their Successors. And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said. And yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annual Rent and sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre besides one shilling duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good and Currant of the said Island, unto the said Honour[able] Company, and their Successors. And that she the said Elizabeth Johnson, her Heires &amp; Executors and Administrators, shall and do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one Years leave the Fences about the said Land in as good Repaire as they are now, And not, to alter the said Fences which are the Land mark[s], and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without &amp; Consent of Governour and Councill for the time being In witness whereof, the said Honour[able] United Company, and Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. &amp; A. day of August. A. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And the said Elizabeth Johnson to the other p[ar]t hath sett her Hand and Seale. Elizabeth Johnson Sealed and Delivered In the p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Elizabeth Johnson. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Elizabeth Johnson, widow and freeholder, 5 acres of land in Broad Bottom below the High Peak. The parcel was bounded north, east and west by the Company's waste land, and south by her own 50 acres of freehold. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Elizabeth and the heirs of her deceased husband Joshua Johnson, their executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound them to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Elizabeth was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. She was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or her interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. Elizabeth Johnson signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason and H[...] Francis. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for Elizabeth Johnson's Broad Bottom estate, giving her a combined working holding of 55 acres below the High Peak. The leased 5 acres tucked into the north-west corner of her freehold, with three sides bordered by Company waste and the fourth by her own 50 acres, formed a small productive extension to the secure freehold core. The vesting clause continued the unusual double-route arrangement seen in the same-day freehold confirmation. The lease ran to Elizabeth and the heirs of her deceased husband Joshua Johnson rather than to Elizabeth alone, preserving the children's reversionary interest across the leasehold as well as the freehold. The Company recognised the family settlement in both instruments, producing a consistent legal structure across the entire 55-acre estate. The disclosure restriction operated on Elizabeth alone in the latter part of the lease, with the obligation to leave the fences in repair and not to dispose of the lease bound on her, her heirs, executors and administrators, rather than on the joint vesting party. The shift from the double-route vesting in the granting clause to the single-route obligation in the operative clauses indicates the council distinguished between the underlying inheritance structure and the day-to-day administrative responsibility, with Elizabeth carrying the immediate working duties. The witness panel of Thomas Cason and H[...] Francis, without John Alexander, represents a reduction even from the standard three-name quorum used across the rest of the 4 August 1713 sitting. The reduced panel marks this as the most routine instrument processed in the session, the leasehold extension to an already-confirmed freeholder requiring less formal weight than the freehold confirmations themselves. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | The location below the High Peak places Elizabeth's estate in the same broad area as the Joshua Johnson confirmed and leased earlier the same day under the King's Peak (or High Peak) above Sandy Bay. The shared topographical reference perhaps indicates the two Johnson holdings sat on different sides of the same ridge, supporting either a kinship connection between the living Joshua Johnson and the deceased husband of Elizabeth or a coincidence of name within an adjacent landscape. The Lady Day rent date aligns with metropolitan practice and matches every other lease processed in the same sitting. The integration of the island's tenure calendar with the English quarter day system continued to operate as a structural feature of the 1711 framework. The Broad Bottom estate, with no named adjoining freeholders across either of Elizabeth's two same-day instruments, sat on the outer margin of regularised settlement. The absence of neighbouring holders distinguishes Broad Bottom from the densely interlocking estates of Chapel Valley and Fryer Valley confirmed in the same session, and points to a more isolated working position on the southern or western edge of the island. Speculations The reduced witness panel of only Cason and Francis, without Alexander as register, perhaps reflects practical exhaustion at the close of an unbroken administrative day. The 4 August 1713 sitting processed at least 17 documented instruments in single session, and the absence of the register from the final lease suggests Alexander may have already withdrawn while Cason and Francis completed the closing formalities. The procedural irregularity, set against the otherwise consistent witnessing across the rest of the sitting, points to the lease being among the last items dispatched and being treated as a routine extension that could be sealed without the full witnessing complement that the earlier confirmations had received.  |
| 157 | 152          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Wranghams Orphans The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United y[e] Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies Do hereby Confirm Unto the Orphans of Samuel Wrangham (deceased) Ten Acres of Land Scituate in Peak Gut, butting and bounding towards the North to the high Peak, towards the East upon the Honourable Companys Wast Land, towards the South upon Nine Acres of Land hired by Francis Wrangham, and towards the West upon the Land of Gov[ernor] Keelings Heires Which said Ten Acres of Land they the said Samuel Wranghams Orphans hath a Just Right and Title too. As may more fully appear upon Examination in a Consultation of the Third A. day of February One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by beat of Drum for any Person to make their claim on a day certain therein Limitted but none appearing or any Objection. To have and to hold The said premises to them they and every of them, the before named Samuel Wranghams Orphans, their Heires &amp; Assignes for ever Upon Condition: That they the said Samuel Wranghams Orphans their &amp; every of their, Heires and Assignes Do and shall Always bear true, Truth and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors. And to the said Honour[able] Company and | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Wrangham's orphans. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to the orphans of the deceased Samuel Wrangham 10 acres of land in Peak Gut. The parcel was bounded north by the High Peak, east by the Company's waste land, south by 9 acres hired by Francis Wrangham, and west by the land of Governor Keeling's heirs. The orphans' title rested on a consultation of 3 February 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. The orphans, their heirs and assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...] Francis and John Alexander. A subsequent endorsement on 29 January 1718 recorded an assignment. Lucas Mason, acting in right of his wife formerly the widow Elizabeth Wrangham, assigned the deed and the 10 acres, with all appurtenances, to his brother-in-law Jo[h]n Wrangham of the island, to dispose of as he and his heirs pleased. Mason quit-claimed any right or title held by him or his heirs in the parcel,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | their Successors, And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, In Witness whereof the said Honourable Company to the p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August A. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] AlexanderIsland St Helena. Know all men by these p[re]sents that I Lucas Mason in right of my wife formerly the Wid[ow] Elizabeth Wrangham Do hereby Assigne Sett &amp; make over unto my Brother in Law Jo[h]n? Wrangham of the said Island the within deed and all &amp; Singular the within Mentioned Ten Acres of with all other the Appurtenances thereunto belonging of any Nature whatsoever, to do and to Dispose of at his and his Heirs will &amp; pleasure And do for ever quitt mine and my Heirs right and Title in and to all and every the within named premises or any part thereof, having received full Satisfaction for the same, In Witness whereof I have hereunto Sett my hand &amp; Seal this 29[th] day of Jan[uar]y 1718. Lucas Mason Sign[d] Sea[le]d &amp; Delivered In the p[re]sence of Matthew Bazett John Goodwin Jn[o] Alexander | having received full satisfaction. Witnessed by Matthew Bazett, John Goodwin and John Alexander. Interpretations The freehold was confirmed directly in the orphans of Samuel Wrangham collectively, without naming individuals and without intermediate trustee. The direct vesting in children's names follows the same pattern seen in the 4 August 1713 confirmation of the Maxwell orphans and indicates the Wrangham children had progressed sufficiently in age to hold property in their own right. The joint and several form preserved flexibility for later partition while protecting the holding against external claims during their minority or early adulthood. The boundary description records three distinct categories of adjoining tenure within a single parcel. The northern boundary against the High Peak is purely topographical, the eastern against Company waste records unallocated ground, the southern against Francis Wrangham's hired 9 acres records active Company leasehold to a related family member, and the western against Governor Keeling's heirs records inherited freehold from a former governor. The diversity reflects the institutional complexity of land tenure on the island by 1713. Francis Wrangham's hired 9 acres on the southern boundary places him as the active working occupier of Company ground immediately adjoining the orphans' inherited freehold. The configuration suggests Francis was managing the family's combined holdings in Peak Gut on behalf of the wider Wrangham line, with the orphans' freehold and his own leasehold operating as a single working estate. The arrangement is consistent with the earlier records of Francis Wrangham as a substantial freeholder elsewhere on the island and as a recurring boundary holder across the 1711 to 1713 sitting. Governor Keeling's heirs continued to hold land in Peak Gut more than two decades after the governor's death, demonstrating the persistence of inherited estates across changes of personnel within the Company administration. The Keeling family's continuing presence in the boundary descriptions of the 1711 to 1713 confirmations marks the parcel's identity in working memory by reference to its former senior occupant. The 29 January 1718 assignment records a tangled family settlement. Lucas Mason held the deed in right of his wife, who was formerly the widow Elizabeth Wrangham. Elizabeth had married into the Wrangham family by an earlier marriage, possibly to Samuel Wrangham himself (in which case she was the mother of the orphans), and after his death married Lucas Mason. The assignment to her brother-in-law Jo[h]n Wrangham routed the parcel back into the Wrangham line, preventing the holding from passing out of the family through the second marriage. The recital of full satisfaction received indicates the assignment was for value rather than as a pure gift, with Mason paid out for the family's interest. The structure converted a complicated cross-marriage claim into a clean transfer back to the Wrangham line, with the family paying off the stepfather to clear the title. The 1718 witness panel of Matthew Bazett, John Goodwin and John Alexander represents the literate circle of the post-1714 administration. Bazett had risen to fourth in council by 1713, John Alexander continued as register or witness across decades, and John Goodwin appears as an active freeholder by 1715 with his sale of 4 acres to James Greentree. The panel marks the assignment as a substantial family settlement worthy of senior witnessing rather than a routine endorsement. Speculations The 29 January 1718 assignment was perhaps timed to coincide with John Wrangham's coming of age or with a particular family settlement that the orphans had reached among themselves. The original 1713 confirmation in the |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | orphans collectively had created a working interest divided across an unspecified number of children, and the routing of the entire parcel to Jo[hn] Wrangham through Lucas Mason suggests the family had agreed by 1718 that John would consolidate the holding in his single name. The mechanism converted a fragmented joint inheritance into a unified estate without requiring formal partition between siblings, with Mason's quit-claim representing the buying-out of competing interests by John or by the family on his behalf. The arrangement preserved the Wrangham name on the land while resolving the practical difficulty of multiple young claimants holding indivisible ground.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 158          | 153          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Wrangham[s] Orphans The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East India Do hereby Demise Lett and Sett unto the Orphans of Samuel Wrangham Deceased Two Acres of Land Scituate Lying and being in Peak Gutt buting towards the North-East and South upon the Honourable Companys Land and towards the West, upon the said Orphans own Ten Acres of Land. To have and to hold the aforesaid Two Acres of Land. to them the said Samuel Wranghams Orphans their and every of their, Executors Administrators and Assignes, For the Terme and Time of Twenty one years commenc[e]ing from the Twenty fifth day of March One A. Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve. Upon Condition That they the said Orphans their Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall always Do and bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors. And to the said Honourable Company and their Successors. And shall duly Obey all the Laws &amp; Constitutions of the said. And yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Honourable Comp[a] and their Successors. And that they the said Orphans their Executors Administrators and Assignes shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years, Leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter the said Fences which are the land marks and which will Occasion the Alteration of the Plot hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the consent of the Governour and Councell for the time being In witness whereof the said Honourable United Company &amp; Lords Proprietors, to these p[re]sents have Sett there Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley, this Fourth day of August. One Thousand Seven hundred Thirteen, And they the said Orphans to the other p[ar]t have sett their Hands and Seales. Elizabeth Wrangham Sealed and Delivered in y[e] P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander Island St Hellena. Know all men by these P[re]sents that I Lucas Mason in right of my wife formerly by the name of Elizabeth Wrangham, Do hereby Assigne and make | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Wrangham's orphans. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to the orphans of the deceased Samuel Wrangham 2 acres of land in Peak Gut. The parcel was bounded north, east and south by the Company's land, and west by the orphans' own 10 acres of freehold. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with the orphans, their executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound the orphans and their successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, they were to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. The orphans were not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or their interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. The orphans signed and sealed the counterpart through Elizabeth Wrangham. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...] Francis and John Alexander. A subsequent endorsement on 29 January 1718 recorded an assignment. Lucas Mason, acting in right of his wife formerly known by the name of Elizabeth Wrangham, assigned to his brother-in-law Francis Wrangham and his heirs all his right, title or interest in the 2 acres for the full remaining term of the lease, having received full satisfaction. Witnessed by Matthew Bazett, John Goodwin and John Alexander. Interpretations The lease paired with the same-day freehold confirmation to give the Wrangham orphans a combined working estate of 12 acres in Peak Gut, with the 2 leased acres lying immediately east of their 10-acre freehold. The same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging extends to orphan holders as well as to adult freeholders, demonstrating that the 1711 framework treated children's estates within the same institutional procedure as those of their fathers. The execution of the counterpart through Elizabeth Wrangham reveals her as the working representative of the orphan group. Elizabeth was perhaps the eldest of the orphans, signing on behalf of her siblings, rather than the |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | over un- to my Brother in Law Francis Wrangham and his Heirs, all my right Title or Interest in and to the within Mentioned Two Acres of Land for an[d] During the full time and Term of this Lease, having rec[eive]d full Satisfaction for the Same Witness my hand &amp; Seale this 29 day of Jan[uar]y A[nn]o Dom[in]i 1718.Sign[d] Sealed &amp; Delivered Lucas Mason in p[re]sence of Matthew Bazett Joh[n] Goodwin Jn[o] Alexander | widow of Samuel Wrangham. The signature places her as an active party in the family's affairs even before her later marriage to Lucas Mason. Her position as signatory in 1713 and later wife of Mason by 1718 indicates she was an adult or near-adult at the time of the original lease. The 29 January 1718 endorsement reveals the parties to the 1713 instrument more clearly than the original lease did. The Elizabeth Wrangham who signed in 1713 was the same Elizabeth who later married Lucas Mason, and the assignment routed her interest to her brother-in-law Francis Wrangham. The relationships were therefore: Samuel Wrangham (deceased, the original holder), Elizabeth Wrangham (his daughter and one of the orphans), Lucas Mason (her later husband), and Francis Wrangham (Elizabeth's brother and accordingly Mason's brother-in-law). The simultaneous routing of the freehold to Jo[hn] Wrangham and the leasehold to Francis Wrangham on 29 January 1718 indicates a deliberate family division of the combined estate. The two parcels, which had operated as a single working unit between 1713 and 1718, were separated through the assignment with the freehold core going to John and the leasehold extension going to Francis. The structure preserved the Wrangham name on both portions while distributing the holding between two brothers. The relationship of Francis Wrangham to the orphans clarifies a recurring pattern in the 1713 confirmations. The freehold deed described the southern boundary as 9 acres hired by Francis Wrangham, who appears here as the elder brother of the orphans rather than as their guardian or trustee. The configuration shows a single sibling line dispersed across freehold inheritance from their father Samuel, leasehold of adjoining Company ground in Francis's own name, and the related Wrangham line of the earlier records, perhaps including the Francis Wrangham who married into the Edward Edmunds family through Henry Francis. The 1713 witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches every other instrument processed in the major sitting and confirms the routine character of the lease procedure for orphan holders. The Company processed children's estates under the same institutional apparatus as adult freeholders, with no special accommodation beyond the joint and several vesting form. The 1718 witness panel of Matthew Bazett, John Goodwin and John Alexander matches the panel attesting the same-day freehold assignment to Jo[hn] Wrangham, indicating that both transactions were dispatched together in a single sitting on 29 January 1718. The coordinated assignment of freehold and leasehold confirms the deliberate family settlement reorganising the Wrangham estate as a unified administrative event. Speculations The 29 January 1718 division of freehold to John Wrangham and leasehold to Francis Wrangham was perhaps designed to match the differing legal character of the two interests. The freehold represented secure perpetual ownership and required a single named holder capable of carrying the family name forward across generations, which fitted John as one named brother. The leasehold, with its 21-year term and disposal restriction, represented a working asset more readily separated from the family's core inheritance. Francis, who already held adjoining Company ground in his own name as a lessee, was the natural recipient of the additional 2 leased acres because they extended a tenancy he was already managing. The division converted an awkward joint orphan holding into two clean separate tenures aligned to the underlying tenure type, with each brother taking the portion better suited to his existing position on the ground. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|---------------------|--------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 159 | 154          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Ja[me]s Greentree The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies Do hereby Confirm Unto James Greentree Freeholder, Twenty Acres of Land formerly Gabriell Powells Scituate in Sandy Bay Butting &amp; Bounding towards y[e] North &amp; East upon Twenty five Acres of Land y[e] said Greentree Hires of y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]. Towards y[e] South upon y[e] said Hon[ble] Companys Wast Land, and toward y[e] West upon y[e] Land of Joshua Johnson Freeholder, ALSO Twenty Acres of Land more, Scituate in y[e] said Sandy Bay, Ten Acres whereof purchased of John Goodwin dec[ease]d, and y[e] other Ten Acres of Edward Mashborne, butting toward y[e] North to y[e] Main Ridge, towards y[e] East upon y[e] Land of John Cole Freeholder, and towards y[e] South &amp; West upon y[e] Land of Robert Adles Freeholder Likewise Twenty Acres of Land more, p[ur]chased of y[e] aforesaid Edward Mashborne &amp; formerly y[e] Before[n]amed named John Goodwins dec[ease]d, buteing towards y[e] North-East &amp; West upon y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] Wast Land, and towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of Elizabeth Johnson, and y[e] Heires of her deceased Husband, Joshua Johnson, being Three p[ar]cells of Land &amp; in y[e] whole containes Sixty Acres Which he y[e] said James Greentree hath a Just right and Title too, as may more largely appear upon Examination in a Consultation of the Third &amp; A. A. A. day of March, A. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by beat of Drum for any p[er]son to make their Claim on a day certaine therein Limitted, But none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold The said p[re]misses to him y[e] said James Greentree his Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition. That the said James Greentree his Heires and Assignes, Do and shall always Bear true, faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]. and their Successors And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of y[e] said Island. In Witness whereof the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle on y[e] said Island this Fourth A. A. A. day of August A. in y[e] Year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to James Greentree. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to James Greentree, freeholder, three parcels of land in Sandy Bay totalling 60 acres. The first parcel of 20 acres, formerly Gabriel Powell's, was bounded north and east by 25 acres that Greentree hired from the Company, south by the Company's waste land, and west by Joshua Johnson's freehold. The second parcel of 20 acres, half purchased from the deceased John Goodwin and half from Edward Mashborne, was bounded north by the Main Ridge, east by John Cole's freehold, and south and west by Robert Adles's freehold. The third parcel of 20 acres, purchased from Edward Mashborne and formerly the deceased John Goodwin's, was bounded north, east and west by the Company's waste land, and south by Elizabeth Johnson and the heirs of her deceased husband Joshua Johnson. Greentree's title rested on a consultation of 3 March 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Greentree, his heirs and assigns were to hold the parcels for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[?] Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The 60-acre confirmation marks James Greentree as one of the most substantial freeholders to receive a same-day grant in the major 4 August 1713 sitting. The three parcels, all in Sandy Bay, formed a coordinated regional accumulation rather than a single contiguous block, with one parcel adjoining Joshua Johnson under the King's Peak, another against the Main Ridge between John Cole and Robert Adles, and the third adjoining Elizabeth Johnson's Broad Bottom estate. The configuration shows Greentree had built up a strategic presence across the southern Sandy Bay region. The chain of title for the second and third parcels routes through John Goodwin (deceased) and Edward Mashborne (variant of Walkborne, deputy governor by 1708). The route shows that 20 acres formerly belonging to John Goodwin had passed first to Mashborne and then onward to Greentree, while the other 10 acres of the same former Goodwin estate had reached Greentree directly. The chain demonstrates a senior council member acting as an intermediate holder, perhaps in an executor or fiduciary capacity for the late John Goodwin's estate. The first parcel's identification as formerly Gabriel Powell's connects Greentree to the substantial Powell holdings in Sandy Bay. Powell had been an active land trader from at least 1704 with his £100 0s 0d sale of the Peak Gut parcel to Robert Gurling and the £350 0s 0d Chapel Valley purchase from Hoskison in 1706. The 20-acre Sandy Bay parcel may be connected to or derived from the same Powell estate that he had earlier developed in the area. The boundary description placing Greentree against Joshua Johnson, John Cole, Robert Adles and Elizabeth |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Johnson connects the present confirmation directly to four other instruments processed in the same 4 August 1713 sitting. The reciprocal boundary mapping demonstrates how the Company used a coordinated session to fix multiple interlocking titles simultaneously, with each freeholder's boundary attested by reference to neighbours whose own deeds were sealing in the same room. James Greentree's earlier dealings included the 11 March 1703 purchase from Gabriel Powell of 20 acres in Sandy Bay with the slave Oliver and a half-share in a still for £86 0s 0d. The present 60-acre confirmation may include that 1703 purchase as one of its constituent parcels, with the references to former Powell and former Goodwin holdings recording the underlying purchase chains that built up Greentree's working estate over the intervening decade. The consultation date of 3 March 1714 in modern reckoning, which falls in old calendar 1713, represents a later consultation than the 3 February 1714 referenced in the Joshua Johnson and Elizabeth Johnson confirmations. The two consultations cleared adjacent estates within a month of each other, with the formal confirmations dispatched together at the 4 August 1713 sitting. The hired 25 acres bordering Greentree's first parcel on its northern and eastern sides represent active Company leasehold operating outside the present deed. The reference within the freehold confirmation served only to fix the boundary, not to regularise the leasehold itself. The configuration gave Greentree a combined working presence of at least 85 acres across the Sandy Bay region when freehold and leasehold are taken together. Speculations The routing of the second 20 acres half through direct purchase from John Goodwin and half through Edward Mashborne perhaps reflects the practical mechanics of settling Goodwin's estate after his death. John Goodwin had died by 13 August 1707, and the parcel may have been divided between immediate heirs and a sale to Mashborne as a senior council member acting in a fiduciary or administrative role. Greentree's later acquisition of both halves from their respective holders consolidated a parcel that had been temporarily split by the executorial process. The pattern shows estates passing through several hands during the settlement period before reaching a final purchaser, with the freehold confirmation of 1713 recording the chain of intermediate holders to establish the validity of Greentree's title against any later claim by Goodwin's heirs or by parties claiming under Mashborne.  |
| 160 | 155          | Island St Hellen Comp[a] Lease to Ja[me]s Greentree The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies DO hereby Demise Lett & Sett Unto James Greentree Freeholder Twenty five Acres of Land, Scituate & being in Sandy Bay Butting towards y[e] North & East upon y[e] Land of Robert Addiss, towards y[e] South upon y[e] said James Greentrees own Land, and towards y[e] West upon y[e] Land of Mary Hoskison. To have and to hold The said Twenty five Acres of Land to him y[e] said James Greentree his | Island of St Helena. Company lease to James Greentree. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to James Greentree, freeholder, 25 acres of land in Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded north and east by Robert Addis's land, south by Greentree's own land, and west by Mary Hoskison's land. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Greentree, his executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------|-----------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Executors Administrators and Assignes, For y[e] Terme and Time of Twenty one years Commencing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition That he y[e] said James Greentree his Executors Administrators and Assignes, Shall always Do and bear true Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and Constitutions of y[e] said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) the Annuall Rent &amp; Sum of Four shillings per Acre besides one shilling duty being in all Five shillings per Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island unto the said Honourable Company and there Successors. And That he y[e] said James Greentree his Executors Administrators and Assignes, shall &amp; Do at y[e] Expiration of y[e] said Terme of Twenty one Years Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repaire as they are now, and yet to alter y[e] said Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of y[e] Plott hereunto Annexed nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in y[e] same, without y[e] Consent of y[e] Governour &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof y[e] said Honourable United Company and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth day of August. &amp; in the Year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And the said James Greentree, to y[e] other p[ar]t hath Sett his Hand and Seale. Sealed and Delivered James Greentree in the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis | The lease bound Greentree and his successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Greentree was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. He was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. James Greentree signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason and H[...] Francis. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for James Greentree's Sandy Bay estate, giving him a combined working holding of 85 acres across the region. The 25 leased acres adjoined the first of his three freehold parcels on its northern and eastern sides, matching the boundary description in the freehold confirmation that recorded the same 25 acres as hired Company ground. The reduced witness panel of Thomas Cason and Henry Francis, without John Alexander as register, follows the same procedural pattern seen in the Elizabeth Johnson lease processed in the same session. The absence of the register from the closing instruments of the day points to Alexander having withdrawn while Cason and Francis completed the routine sealing of leasehold extensions to freeholders whose principal grants had already received the full witnessing complement. The western boundary against Mary Hoskison's land marks the only documented appearance of Mary Hoskison as a holder in her own right within the 1711 to 1713 framework. Earlier records had Mary as the lifetime beneficiary of the 6 July 1708 mortgage by George Hoskison to Richard Gurling, where her natural life served as the measuring period for the annuity arrangement. Her appearance here as a named landholder demonstrates her independent tenure of Sandy Bay ground by 1712. Robert Addis on the northern and eastern boundaries probably represents a variant spelling of Robert Adles or Adley, the same freeholder whose land formed the southern and western boundary of Greentree's second freehold parcel in the same-day confirmation. The variant spellings across the two instruments processed in immediate sequence demonstrate the scribal flexibility of the period, with the same individual recorded under slightly different forms within a single document set. The disposal restriction continued to operate as the principal institutional control under the 1711 framework. Greentree held a personal interest in the leasehold that could not move to a new occupier without council approval, blocking the open market in leasehold interests that had previously operated through private assignment. The fence maintenance obligation operated as a documentary requirement rather than a purely practical one. The fences served as the landmarks tying the lessee's occupation to the annexed plan, and their alteration would invalidate the cartographic record. The lessee accordingly bore responsibility for preserving the boundary as drawn, with the plan acting as the authoritative reference. The configuration of the leased parcel between Greentree's own freehold to the south, Robert Addis to the north and east, and Mary Hoskison to the west, places the 25 acres at the heart of a densely interlocking cluster of Sandy Bay holders. The pattern contrasts with the more isolated estates of Joshua Johnson and Elizabeth Johnson processed earlier in the same sitting and points to Greentree's working estate occupying a central position within the regularised Sandy Bay landscape. Speculations |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | The presence of Mary Hoskison as a named boundary holder of Sandy Bay ground suggests the 6 July 1708 mortgage arrangement between George Hoskison and Richard Gurling had run its practical course by 1712. The original mortgage had headed as a mortgage but functioned as a lease for Mary's life, with Gurling paying an annual £11 10s 0d to Hoskison for the use of 45 acres. Mary's emergence as the named holder of land on Greentree's western boundary in the 1713 lease perhaps indicates that the underlying interest had become vested in her name in some practical sense, either through a further family settlement after 1708 or through the institutional regularisation of the original arrangement during the 1711 to 1713 framework. The pattern shows that the working occupation of substantial ground could become recorded in the name of the measuring life of an earlier mortgage instrument, with documentary practice catching up to the practical reality of who held and managed the land.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 161          | 156          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Frances Goodwin The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Tradeing to y[e] East Indies Do hereby Confirm Unto Frances Goodwin Wid[ow] Eighty nine Acres of Land Being formerly y[e] Lands of her dec[ease]d Husband, Tho[s] Goodwin) Buting and Bounding towards the North upon y[e] Land of Richard Gurling, formerly James East hopes (dec[ease]d) towards y[e] East upon y[e] Lands of Gov[ernor] Keelings (dec[ease]d) his Heires, towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of John Goodwin her Son, and towards y[e] West upon Eleven Acres of Land she Hires of y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a] known by y[e] name of Saxtons Which said Eighty nine Acres of Land She the said Frances Goodwin, Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too, As may more Largely appear Upon Examination in a Consultation of the Seventeenth &amp; A. day of March One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and Notice being given by beat of Drum, for any p[er]son to make their Claime on a certain day therein Limmited, But none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold The said P[re]mises to her y[e] said Frances Goodwin her Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition That she y[e] said Frances Goodwin her Heires and Assignes, in any other p[er]sons shall always do and bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] &amp; their Successors, And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and Constitutions of y[e] Said Island, In Witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] Company to these presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on the said Island this Fourth A. day of August. In the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Frances Goodwin. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Frances Goodwin, widow, 89 acres of land formerly belonging to her deceased husband Thomas Goodwin. The parcel was bounded north by Richard Gurling's land, formerly the deceased James Easthope's, east by the lands of the deceased Governor Keeling's heirs, south by the land of John Goodwin her son, and west by 11 acres that she hired from the Company known by the name of Saxtons. Her title rested on a consultation of 17 March 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Frances Goodwin, her heirs and assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason and H[...] Francis. Interpretations The confirmation marks a critical documentary moment in the Goodwin family settlement. Thomas Goodwin, who had risen from witness in 1683 to governor by December 1707, was deceased by 4 August 1713 according to this deed. The earlier records had shown Thomas Goodwin as deputy governor again by May 1709 and as governor at earlier points, with his exact death date previously fixed only as before 25 May 1715. The present confirmation moves the established date of his death forward by nearly two years, placing it before March 1714 when the consultation supporting the confirmation took place. The 89-acre estate represented the bulk of Thomas Goodwin's accumulated landholdings across his career. The boundary description connects the parcel to several landmarks within the consolidated Goodwin estate built up over two decades, including the former James Easthope holding now held by Richard Gurling on the northern boundary, the Keeling family heirs to the east, and John Goodwin the son on the south. The |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | configuration shows the Goodwin estate at its mature consolidated form, with father, mother and son occupying interlocking adjoining ground. John Goodwin, named as son of Frances and Thomas Goodwin on the southern boundary, is the same John Goodwin who had appeared in earlier records as eldest son of Thomas Goodwin and as recipient of the contingent remainder in the 1705 Bevean settlement. His appearance here as a freeholder in his own right by August 1713 confirms his survival to adulthood and his independent tenure of adjoining family ground. The vesting of the 89 acres in Frances alone, with her heirs and assigns, rather than jointly with the heirs of her deceased husband as in the Elizabeth Johnson confirmation processed in the same sitting, marks her absolute freehold rather than a layered family settlement. The structure gave Frances complete control over the disposition of the property, which would have practical consequences for her later second marriage to George Carne between August 1713 and May 1715. The freehold she held absolutely passed under her control rather than being tied to her late husband's heirs. The 11 acres of hired Company land on the western boundary, known by the name of Saxtons, identify a working byname for a leasehold parcel adjoining the freehold. The naming pattern matches other Sandy Bay and surrounding bynames such as Welley's Land (Cason 1711), Church's Land (Steward children 1713), Diana's Geak (Benjamin Greentree 1713), and Sexton's Ground (William Alexander 1717). The Saxtons leasehold may relate to the Sexton's Ground of the William Alexander lease through scribal variation, in which case the Goodwin estate sat adjacent to the future Alexander holding. The reduced witness panel of Thomas Cason and Henry Francis, without John Alexander as register, follows the procedural pattern of the later instruments in the 4 August 1713 sitting. The absence of Alexander from a confirmation of this scale, given to the widow of the late governor, is notable and contrasts with the full witnessing complement that would have been expected for such a substantial title. The reduced panel suggests the day's procedural withdrawal of the register had begun before this confirmation was sealed. The consultation date of 17 March 1714 in modern reckoning, which falls in old calendar 1713, indicates a later consultation than either the Johnson confirmations (3 February 1714) or the James Greentree confirmation (3 March 1714). The 17 March consultation may have been specifically convened to examine the Goodwin estate as a special case, given Thomas Goodwin's senior position and the recent character of his death. Speculations The freehold vested absolutely in Frances Goodwin, rather than jointly with the heirs of her late husband, was perhaps a deliberate choice reflecting the particular character of the Goodwin estate at the moment of Thomas Goodwin's death. Thomas had been a senior council member and former governor, with substantial cash reserves and a complex set of accumulated holdings built up over more than two decades. The family settlement may already have made separate provision for John Goodwin and any other children through earlier transfers, including the 1705 Bevean contingent remainder and other instruments now lost to the present record, leaving the main residential estate as Frances's clear inheritance. The structure also positioned her to remarry without bringing the estate's title into question, since her absolute freehold could be carried into a second marriage and dealt with by her new husband as her property rather than as a layered family settlement requiring the consent of multiple parties. The arrangement made the later 25 May 1715 sale of Captain Goodwin's House by George and Frances Carne to Henry Francis legally |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | straightforward, since the freehold passed cleanly through Frances's absolute title.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 162 | 157          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Frances Goodwin The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies Do hereby Demise Lett &amp; Sett Unto Frances Goodwin Widow Eleven Acres of Land formerly Peter Saxtons, Scituate and being in a Branch of Lemmon Valley, Butting towards the North-East and South, upon her own Land, and towards y[e] West upon y[e] Land now in y[e] possession of Arthur Bradley, To have and to hold The said Eleven Acres of Land unto her the said Frances Goodwin her Executors Adminis[trators] and Assignes for the Terme and Time of Twenty one years commenc[e]ing from the Twenty fifth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve. Upon Condition That she y[e] said Frances Goodwin her Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always do and bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, And shall Duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said And yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one shilling duty being in all Five shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, Unto the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors. And &amp; That she the said Frances Goodwin her Executors Administrators and Assignes shall &amp; Do at y[e] Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one Years, Leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter the said Fences which are the Land mark[s] and which will Occasion the alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without Consent of the Governour and Coun[c]ell for the time being In Witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Company and Lords Proprietors to these P[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, and the said Frances Goodwin to the other P[ar]t hath sett her Hand and Seale. George Carne[s]Sealed and Delivered in the P[re]sence of: [In behalf?][Husband of] [Goodwin?] Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Frances Goodwin. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Frances Goodwin, widow, 11 acres of land formerly Peter Saxton's in a branch of Lemon Valley. The parcel was bounded north, east and south by her own land, and west by land then in the possession of Arthur Bradley. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Frances, her executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound Frances and her successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Frances was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. She was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or her interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. The counterpart was sealed by George Carne, signing for or on behalf of Frances Goodwin in the capacity of [...] (the descriptor on the signing line is partly illegible but indicates a representative role connected to the Goodwin estate). Witnessed by Thomas Cason and H[...] Francis. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for Frances Goodwin's Lemon Valley estate, giving her a combined working holding of 100 acres with the 11 leased acres tucked into the western corner formed by her freehold on three sides. The same parcel had been referred to in the same-day freehold confirmation as the 11 acres of hired land known by the name of Saxtons on her western boundary, and the lease now formally records the underlying tenure. The identification of the parcel as formerly Peter Saxton's clarifies the working byname Saxtons used in the freehold confirmation. Peter Saxton appears as an original holder whose name persisted in the cartographic and institutional memory of the parcel even after his departure or death, with the leasehold and adjoining freehold both referring to him by way of identification. The naming pattern matches the standard practice of preserving the chain of earlier holders within the working description of the ground. The signature of George Carne on the counterpart, in place of or on behalf of Frances Goodwin, marks the earliest documentary indication of his relationship to the Goodwin estate. The signing capacity is partly illegible but the presence of his name in the place where Frances would otherwise have signed her own counterpart indicates he was already acting as her representative by 4 August 1713. The arrangement points to the Goodwin-Carne marriage having taken place by this date, or at the very least to a |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | formal pre-marital settlement in which George had assumed a representative role for her estate. The previously established date range of the Goodwin-Carne marriage as between August 1713 and May 1715 may accordingly need to be moved forward to before 4 August 1713. The reduced witness panel of Thomas Cason and Henry Francis, without John Alexander as register, matches the same pattern seen in the Elizabeth Johnson lease and the James Greentree lease processed in the closing sequence of the day. The procedural withdrawal of the register from the closing instruments continued through the Goodwin pair, with the substantial freehold confirmation and the leasehold extension both lacking the full witnessing complement. The western boundary against Arthur Bradley's land places Bradley as the active occupier of adjoining ground in Lemon Valley. Bradley had earlier appeared in the 18 October 1705 sale by Arthur and Sarah Bradley of a 10-acre plantation in Fryer Valley to Walter Belvard for 100 Spanish dollars and four head of cattle. His continued presence as a Lemon Valley boundary holder by 1712 demonstrates the persistence of his working occupation on the island after the 1705 sale of his Fryer Valley parcel. The leasehold rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty matches every other lease processed in the 1711 to 1713 framework. The standard rate persisted across all rural Company leases regardless of the rank or wealth of the lessee, with the widow of the late governor paying the same per-acre rate as soldiers, free planters and other holders. The Company's pricing structure operated as a flat-rate institutional system rather than as a means-tested arrangement. The disposal restriction continued to operate as the principal institutional control. Frances held a personal interest in the leasehold that could not move to a new occupier without council approval, although her position as widow of a former governor and as soon-to-be-wife of George Carne may have eased the practical operation of that control in her case. Speculations The signing of the counterpart by George Carne rather than by Frances Goodwin herself, on the very day she was confirmed in 89 acres of freehold absolutely, was perhaps deliberately designed to begin establishing his standing in relation to her estate while the formal marriage had not yet been concluded. The freehold confirmation in Frances alone gave her absolute title to the principal estate, while the leasehold counterpart sealed by George created an early documentary record of his involvement. The arrangement may have served the practical purpose of providing legal continuity through any transitional period, with George ready to step into management of the leasehold while Frances retained sovereign control of the freehold. The structure would have allowed the Goodwin estate to remain operational without interruption during the months leading up to or immediately following the Goodwin-Carne marriage, with the freehold protected against any premature commitment by being vested in Frances alone, and the leasehold actively managed by George from the outset. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 163 | 158          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Keelings The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United A[me]r Comp[a]ny of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies, Do hereby Confirm unto the Heires of Richard Keeling late (Gov[erno]r deceased) Thirty Acres of Land Scituate Lying and being in Branches of Fryer Valley, Buting &amp; bounding towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of George Carne, Towards y[e] West upon y[e] Land of Walter Morriess, Towards y[e] East upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a] great Plantation, &amp; Towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of Frances Goodwin. ALSO Ten Acres of Land Scituate in Peak Gutt, Butting towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of Francis Wranghams Orphans towards y[e] East &amp; South upon y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[alys] Wast Land &amp; towards y[e] West upon y[e] Land of Robert Gurling, And Also Three Acres more of Land formerly Thomas Goodwins deceased Butting towards y[e] North-East-South &amp; West upon y[e] Lands of y[e] aforesaid Frances Goodwin, which said before mentioned Three p[ar]cells of Land contains in y[e] whole Forty Three Acres, and Which they y[e] said Heires of Richard Keeling hath a Just Right &amp; Title too as may appear more Largely upon Examination of y[e] day of One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any p[er]son to make their Claim on a certain day therein Limitted, But none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold The said p[re]misses to them y[e] said Heires of y[e] said Rich[d] Keeling, their &amp; every of their, Heires &amp; Assignes for ever. Upon Condition That they the said Richard Keelings Heires, they &amp; every of their Heires and Assignes, Do bear always true Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, In witness whereof the said Honourable Company to these P[re]sents have sett their Common Seale, at their Castle on the said Island this day of One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] P[re]sence of: | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to the Keelings. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to the heirs of the late Governor Richard Keeling, deceased, three parcels of land totalling 43 acres. The first parcel of 30 acres in the branches of Fryer Valley was bounded north by George Carne's land, west by Walter Morris's land, east by the Company's great plantation, and south by Frances Goodwin's land. The second parcel of 10 acres in Peak Gut was bounded north by the land of Francis Wrangham's orphans, east and south by the Company's waste land, and west by Robert Gurling's land. The third parcel of 3 acres, formerly the deceased Thomas Goodwin's, was bounded north, east, south and west by the lands of Frances Goodwin. The Keeling heirs' title rested on a consultation of [...] 1714 (the precise date is left blank in the deed), with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. The heirs of Richard Keeling, their respective heirs and assigns were to hold the parcels for ever, on condition of allegiance to the Queen and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on [...] 1713. The date of execution and the witnesses are not recorded in the present document. Interpretations The deed represents the formal institutional recognition of Governor Richard Keeling's full first name for the first time in the records. Earlier references had described the parcel only as Governor Keeling's land or as belonging to the late Governor Keeling's heirs, with no Christian name attached. The 1713 confirmation now fixes his identity as Richard Keeling, governor (deceased), aligning him with the Richard Keeling who had appeared as a witness to the 27 October 1687 Rhodes-Cotgrave 99-year lease at the head of Sharks Valley. The connection identifies the witness of 1687 as the same individual who later rose to the governorship and whose estate persisted through children and grandchildren into the 1713 framework. The vesting in the heirs collectively, without naming individuals and without intermediate trustee, follows the same pattern as the Wrangham orphans confirmation processed in the same sitting and the Maxwell orphans confirmation. The joint and several form preserved flexibility for later partition while protecting the holding against external claims during a period when the heirs may have been at varying ages or in different locations. The 30-acre Fryer Valley parcel sits at the heart of a densely interlocking cluster of holdings whose mutual boundaries were settled in the same 4 August 1713 sitting. George Carne to the north, Walter Morris to the west, the Company's great plantation to the east and Frances Goodwin to the south all received same-day confirmations |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | of their respective adjoining holdings. The configuration demonstrates the council's use of a coordinated session to fix interlocking titles by reciprocal boundary mapping, with each holder's deed attesting to the bounds of his neighbours. The 3-acre parcel formerly Thomas Goodwin's, ringed on all four sides by Frances Goodwin's land, is institutionally unusual. The configuration places a Keeling-held enclave within an otherwise unified Goodwin estate, suggesting that Thomas Goodwin during his lifetime had sold or transferred a small portion of his consolidated holding to the Keeling heirs, perhaps as a settlement of some prior obligation or as part of a family arrangement connecting the two senior governmental lines. The continuation of the Keeling interest after Thomas Goodwin's death preserved the earlier transfer despite the surrounding ground passing into Frances's absolute freehold. The reference to Francis Wrangham's orphans on the northern boundary of the 10-acre Peak Gut parcel marks a divergence from the Wrangham orphans confirmation processed in the same sitting, which identified the orphans as those of Samuel Wrangham. The two formulations may refer to the same group of children with father's name varying across two contemporaneous documents, or they may reflect a parallel orphan group from a related Wrangham line. The institutional records of the day appear to have treated the orphans with some scribal flexibility in identifying the deceased father. Robert Gurling on the western boundary of the Peak Gut parcel was the same gentleman who had bought 20 acres at Peak Gut from Gabriel Powell on 11 May 1704 for £100 0s 0d on bond. The continuation of his presence in Peak Gut through 1713 demonstrates the persistence of his original 1704 holding across a decade and confirms his settled position in the area. The blank consultation date and blank execution date within the body of the deed indicate that the present record is an incomplete engrossment, with the formal sealing details left unfilled at the time of copying into the register. The pattern matches the incomplete engrossment of the same-period Margaret Sich confirmation and lease, where dates were similarly left blank. The shared institutional practice suggests these deeds were drafted in advance and the final dates of formal sealing were to be entered later, with some instruments never receiving their completed date stamps. The absence of any signatures, sealing details or witness names from the present deed reflects the incomplete state of the document rather than a defect in the confirmation itself. The deed is likely to have received its formal execution at some point during the 4 August 1713 sitting or in a subsequent session, with the present copy reflecting only the draft text prepared in advance of the sealing ceremony. Speculations The blank dates and absent witness panel suggest the Keeling heirs' confirmation was perhaps prepared in advance of the major 4 August 1713 sitting but never received its final formal execution at that session. The heirs may have been absent from the island or otherwise unavailable to receive the deed in person, with the document accordingly drafted and held pending their later attendance. The institutional practice of preparing confirmations in advance, leaving the dates for completion at the moment of sealing, allowed the council to manage a large block of titles through a single coordinated sitting while still accommodating practical absences. The Keeling heirs' deed may have been finalised at a later sitting whose record is not preserved in the present extract, or may have remained in its incomplete state pending the heirs' return to the island. The configuration of the three parcels, with one enclave inside Frances Goodwin's estate and the other two adjoining substantial holders confirmed on the same |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | day, points to a careful planning of the Keeling consolidation that the institutional process was unable to complete in a single session.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 164          | 159          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Gov[ernor] Keelings Dep[uty] The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies Do hereby Demise Lett and Set unto y[e] Heires of Richard Keeling, Late Gov[ernor] dec[ease]d Two Acres of Land, Scituate Lying and being in Peak Gutt, Buting and Bounding towards the North to the High Peak, Towards the East upon the Land of Wranghams Orphans, and towards the South and West, upon y[e] said Heires own Lands. To have and to hold to them, the said Heires the said Two Acres of Land, their Executors Administrators and Assignes for the Terme and Time of Twenty one years Commenc[e]ing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve, Upon Condition That they the said Heires, their and either of their Executors Administrators and Assignes shall always Do and bear true, Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary (being the 25 day of March) the Annuall Rent and a Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shilling duty, being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, unto the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and that they the said, Heires, their and every of them, Executors Administrators and Assignes Shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one Years, Leave the Fences about the said Land, in as good repaire as they are now and not to alter the said Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will Occasion the Alteration of the Plot hereunto Annexed, nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the Consent of the Governour and Councell for the time being In witness, whereof the said Honourable United Company and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August. A. in the Year of our Lord one Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. And they the said Heires to the other p[ar]t have set their Hands and Seales. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: | Island of St Helena. Company lease to the heirs of Governor Keeling. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to the heirs of the late Governor Richard Keeling, deceased, 2 acres of land in Peak Gut. The parcel was bounded north by the High Peak, east by the land of the Wrangham orphans, and south and west by the heirs' own land. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with the heirs, their executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound the heirs and their successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, the heirs were to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. They were not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or their interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. The heirs sealed the counterpart. The witness panel is not recorded in the present document. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for the Keeling heirs' Peak Gut estate, giving them a combined working holding of 12 acres in the area with the 2 leased acres tucked into the north-east corner of their 10-acre freehold. The same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging extended to inherited estates managed by heirs collectively in the same manner as to adult freeholders, demonstrating the consistency of the 1711 framework across all categories of holder. The eastern boundary against the land of the Wrangham orphans provides reciprocal confirmation of the boundary recorded in the orphans' own 4 August 1713 freehold deed, which had identified Governor Keeling's heirs as the western boundary of their 10-acre Peak Gut parcel. The two confirmations attest each other's bounds through the coordinated session, with each set of orphan or heir holders providing institutional confirmation of the adjoining holding. The reference to Governor Keeling's heirs as a continuing collective body more than two decades after his death demonstrates the persistence of inherited estates as recognisable tenure units within the institutional framework. The heirs operated as a corporate group capable of receiving freehold confirmations and leasehold |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | extensions in their collective capacity, with the legal personality of the inherited estate continuing across generations. The northern boundary against the High Peak follows the standard topographical reference seen elsewhere in the Peak Gut confirmations of the same sitting. The Wrangham orphans' freehold and the Joshua Johnson confirmation under the King's Peak (or High Peak) both used the same dominant feature as a fixed reference. The naming of the peak as both King's Peak and High Peak across different instruments in the same session reflects scribal flexibility within a single coordinated event. The absence of any witness panel in the present record matches the incomplete state of the Keeling freehold confirmation processed in the same sitting. Both Keeling instruments appear to have been drafted in advance but were never received their final formal execution with witnesses present. The pattern is consistent with the heirs being absent from the island or otherwise unable to attend the sitting in person, leaving the documents in their unexecuted state pending later completion. The 2-acre leasehold rent of 5s 0d per annum follows the standard 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty established across the 1711 framework. The flat rate operated regardless of the social standing of the lessee, with the heirs of a former governor paying the same rate as the Wrangham orphans, the Maxwell orphans, soldiers, free planters and other holders. The institutional uniformity of the rental structure reflects the Company's preference for administrative simplicity over differentiated pricing. The disposal restriction continued to operate as the principal institutional control. The Keeling heirs held a personal interest in the leasehold that could not move to a new occupier without council approval, with the requirement applying as much to inherited estates as to estates acquired by purchase or grant. Speculations The incomplete execution of both Keeling instruments processed at the same 4 August 1713 sitting perhaps reflects a deliberate institutional decision to draft the documents in advance and hold them pending the heirs' availability. The heirs of Governor Richard Keeling may have included children resident off the island or in England, given the governor's metropolitan connections, and the council may have prepared the confirmations in expectation of their later return or of a formal communication that would allow execution by proxy. The institutional practice of leaving the documents partially blank, including the witness section, made later completion straightforward without requiring the deeds to be redrafted from scratch. The Keeling heirs' incomplete instruments accordingly represent the council's anticipation of a future executory event rather than a procedural defect or oversight in the original sitting. The mechanism shows how the 1711 framework could accommodate the practical difficulty of regularising estates whose principal beneficiaries were not present on the island at the moment of formal regularisation. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 165 | 160          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Desfountain[s] Children The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies, Do hereby Confirm Unto y[e] Sever[a]ll Children, Viz[t]: John &amp; Joseph, Martha &amp; Mary, Son &amp; Daughters of James Des- fountain (deceased) Thirty Acres of Land. Scituate towards the Head of Fishers Valley Butting &amp; Bounding towards the North and West upon y[e] Land of M[r] Robert Wills Freeholder towards y[e] South upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]ys West Land, &amp; towards y[e] East, upon Fifteen Acres of Land, the[y] the said Children, Hires of y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]. ALSO Ten Acres of Land more, Scituate at y[e] Head of Youngs Valley, Buting towards y[e] North-West &amp; South upon y[e] aforesaid Fifteen Acres of Land, and towards y[e] East upon y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]ys West Land, being two p[ar]cells, and in y[e] whole containes Forty Acres, which all &amp; every y[e] before named Children hath a Just Right &amp; Title too as may more fully largely appear upon Examination in a Consultation of y[e] Seventeenth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and Notice being given by Beat of Drum, for any of P[er]sons to make their Claim on a Certain day therein Limitted, But none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold The said p[re]misses to him, her them or any of their Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition. That y[e] said John Joseph Martha &amp; Mary Des- fountain their or any of their Heires &amp; Assignes in any other p[er]son whatsoever, Shall and Do alway bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, her Heires &amp; Successors and to the said Honourable Company and their Successors, and shall duly obey all y[e] Laws and Constitutions of y[e] said Island. In witness whereof the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. A. in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to the Desfountain children. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to the children of the deceased James Desfountain - John, Joseph, Martha and Mary, son and daughters - two parcels of land totalling 40 acres. The first parcel of 30 acres at the head of Fishers Valley was bounded north and west by Mr Robert Wills freeholder's land, south by the Company's waste land, and east by 15 acres that the children hired from the Company. The second parcel of 10 acres at the head of Youngs Valley was bounded north, west and south by the 15 acres of hired land, and east by the Company's waste land. The children's title rested on a consultation of 17 March 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. The children, their respective heirs and assigns were to hold the parcels for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...] Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The confirmation regularised the inherited estate of the late James Desfountain through direct vesting in his four named children. The full naming of John, Joseph, Martha and Mary, with their gender identified as son and daughters, distinguishes the Desfountain confirmation from the unnamed collective vestings used for the Wrangham orphans, the Maxwell orphans and the Keeling heirs. The variation suggests the Desfountain children were perhaps older or that the family had requested individual identification to clarify the underlying interests of each child. James Desfountain may be the same Samuel Des Fountaine, soldier, who had bought 10 acres at the head of Youngs Valley from Sergeant Thomas Dixon on 24 November 1701 for £10 0s 0d. The shared surname and continental European origin within the garrison, combined with the location of the second confirmed parcel at the head of Youngs Valley, points to a connection between the two holdings. The Christian name variation between Samuel in 1701 and James in 1713 may reflect either a different family member or a scribal variation across the records, with the underlying estate persisting through changes of personnel. The configuration of the two parcels around a central 15-acre block of hired Company land is unusual within the 4 August 1713 sitting. The 30-acre Fishers Valley parcel sat west of the 15 hired acres, while the 10-acre Youngs Valley parcel sat to the south of the same hired block, with the hired ground forming the connecting hinge between the two freehold portions. The arrangement gave the children a combined working presence of 55 acres across the two valleys when freehold and leasehold are taken |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | together, with the leasehold providing the institutional bridge between the dispersed freehold cores. Mr Robert Wills appears on the northern and western boundaries of the first parcel as a freeholder with the courtesy title Mr. The designation marks him as a holder of respectable standing within the Fishers Valley cluster. Wills represents a new individual in the records, with no earlier appearance in the established cohort, indicating either a recent arrival or a previously undocumented holder being brought into the formal register through the 1711 framework. The northern and western shared boundary against Robert Wills's land creates an L-shaped boundary configuration that the Desfountain freehold wrapped around. The shape suggests Wills's holding sat in the upper north-west corner of the area, with the Desfountain ground filling the southern and eastern portion of the immediate landscape. The reciprocal boundary mapping with Wills would have required his attendance at or attestation to the same sitting, though no Wills confirmation appears in the present sequence. The consultation date of 17 March 1714 in modern reckoning, which falls in old calendar 1713, matches the consultation date of the Frances Goodwin confirmation processed in the same sitting. The shared consultation date indicates the two estates were examined together at a single council meeting two months before the August sealing, with the Goodwin estate (former governor's widow) and the Desfountain estate (deceased soldier's children) treated within the same administrative session despite their differing social standing. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the full witnessing complement used for the major freehold confirmations earlier in the day. The Desfountain children's deed received the same procedural weight as the more substantial holdings of George Hoskison's neighbours and the Goodwin family, demonstrating the Company's consistent treatment of orphan and child holders within the institutional framework. The naming order of the children, with the boys John and Joseph listed before the girls Martha and Mary, follows the conventional priority of sons over daughters in inheritance descriptions of the period. The order may also reflect the actual age sequence of the four children, with John as eldest, but this cannot be confirmed from the present text alone. Speculations The Company's choice to vest the 40 acres directly in the four named children, rather than through an intermediate trustee or executor, was perhaps determined by the absence of any surviving adult male family member capable of taking the holding in trust. The late James Desfountain may not have had a brother or other adult kinsman on the island who could serve as trustee, with the children accordingly named individually in the freehold. The arrangement gave each child a recognisable share in the inheritance from the outset, allowing the working ground to be managed through some informal collective arrangement among the siblings or through a guardian who was not given formal title. The mechanism preserved the children's interests against external claim while leaving the practical management of the estate to be settled within the family or under such informal supervision as the council was content to accept. The deed's silence on any guardian or working occupier of the ground points to an institutional confidence that the family would resolve the practical questions of cultivation without the Company needing to specify them in the formal record. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 166 | 161          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Lease to Desfountains Children The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies Do hereby Demise Lett &amp; Sett Unto John &amp; Joseph, Sons, Martha &amp; Mary, Daughters of James Desfountain (deceased) Fifteen Acres of Land Scituate at y[e] Head of Youngs Valley Buting towards y[e] North &amp; West upon their own Ten Acres of Land formerly Thomas D[esfountain] towards y[e] East &amp; East upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[alys] Waste Land, ALSO Sixteen Acres of Land more, Scituate at Sandy Bay under y[e] Main Ridge, Buting towards y[e] North &amp; East upon y[e] same, Towards y[e] West upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[alys] Waste Land, and towards y[e] South upon One Acre of Land Hired by Humphrey Ed[w]ards, both which said parcels of Land contains in y[e] whole Twenty Eight Acres. To have and to hold The said two p[ar]cells of Lands to them y[e] said John &amp; Joseph Martha &amp; Mary Desfountain their, or either of their, Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes, for y[e] Terme &amp; Time, of Twenty one Years, Commenc[e]ing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition That they y[e] said John &amp; Joseph Martha &amp; Mary, Their or, either of their, Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes shall always Do &amp; bear true, Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires &amp; Successors, and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] &amp; their Successors, And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; constitutions of y[e] said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) the Annual Rent &amp; Sum of Four shillings p[er] Acre besides one shillings duty being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant money of y[e] said Island, unto y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] &amp; their Successors, And that they y[e] said John &amp; Joseph Martha &amp; Mary Desfountain, their or either of their Executors Administrators or Assignes Shall &amp; do at y[e] expiration of y[e] said Terme of Twenty one Years Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land, in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter y[e] said Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of y[e] Plott hereunto Annexed nor nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in y[e] same without y[e] Consent of y[e] Gov[ernor] &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being In Witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a] &amp; Lord[s] P[ro]prietors to these p[re]sents have Sett there their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth &amp; A. A. day of August. A. y[e] year of our Lord One Thousand &amp; Thirteen, And they y[e] said John &amp; Joseph, Martha &amp; Mary, Desfountain[s] to y[e] other p[ar]t have Sett their Hands &amp; Seales. Matthew Bazett Executors James Gregory Sealed and Delivered in the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Company lease to the Desfountain children. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to John and Joseph, sons, and Martha and Mary, daughters, of the deceased James Desfountain two parcels of land totalling 28 acres. The first parcel of 15 acres at the head of Youngs Valley was bounded north and west by the children's own 10 acres of land formerly Thomas D[esfountain]'s, and east and east [in the original; perhaps east and south] by the Company's waste land. The second parcel of 16 acres at Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge was bounded north and east by the same Main Ridge, west by the Company's waste land, and south by 1 acre of land hired by Humphrey Edwards. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with the children, their or either of their executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcels during that period. The lease bound the children and their successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, they were to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. They were not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or their interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. The counterpart was sealed by Matthew Bazett and James Gregory as executors of the late James Desfountain on behalf of the children. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...] Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for the Desfountain children's estate, giving the family a combined working holding of 68 acres across Fishers Valley, Youngs Valley and Sandy Bay under the Main Ridge. The 15 leased acres at the head of Youngs Valley adjoined the 10-acre freehold portion confirmed in the same-day deed, with the leasehold extension wrapping around the existing freehold core to the east and south. The reference to the existing 10 acres at the head of Youngs Valley as formerly Thomas D[esfountain]'s connects the present estate to the wider Desfountain family line. Thomas Desfountain represents an earlier holder of the same Youngs Valley ground, perhaps a brother or father of the late James Desfountain, with the holding having passed within the family before reaching James and then his children. The Christian name pattern of Thomas, James and the children John and Joseph suggests a multi-generational family presence in the area going back to the original allocations. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The sealing of the counterpart by Matthew Bazett and James Gregory as executors reveals the institutional management of the children's estate. Bazett, fifth in council by 1711 and a recurring witness across many transactions, had served as executor of the late James Reder, and his appointment as executor of James Desfountain extends his fiduciary role across multiple estates. James Gregory represents a new individual in the records, perhaps a close friend or business associate of the late Desfountain, paired with Bazett to provide dual executorial supervision of the children's interests. The executor arrangement clarifies the apparent absence of any guardian named in the same-day freehold confirmation. The freehold vested directly in the four children, while the leasehold counterpart was sealed by Bazett and Gregory as executors, indicating that the estate was being administered through a dual structure: the children held the perpetual freehold in their own right, while the executors managed the working leasehold during their minority. The arrangement gave the Company a responsible adult party to deal with for the rental obligations and disposal restrictions while preserving the children's underlying ownership of the freehold core. The 16-acre Sandy Bay parcel under the Main Ridge sat in a different region from the Youngs Valley estate, indicating that the late James Desfountain had built up a dispersed working holding across two distant parts of the island. The Sandy Bay parcel adjoined Humphrey Edwards's 1 acre of hired Company land on its southern side, marking the only documented appearance of Humphrey Edwards in the present records and placing him as a small-scale Company tenant in the Sandy Bay area. The boundary description for the Youngs Valley leasehold contains a scribal repetition of east as a direction in the original, listing the eastern and presumably southern boundaries both as east. The error reflects the practical reality of an unbroken administrative day producing minor inconsistencies in the engrossment, with the council clerk repeating the same compass direction where two different bearings would have been correct. The substantive meaning is unaffected, with the parcel bounded by Company waste on the two sides not adjoining the existing freehold. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the full witnessing complement used earlier in the day for the major freehold confirmations. The Desfountain children's lease received the same procedural weight as the leases for adult freeholders, demonstrating the Company's consistent treatment of orphan estates within the institutional framework. The disposal restriction continued to operate as the principal institutional control. The children held a personal interest in the leasehold that could not move to a new occupier without council approval, with the disposal control extending also to the executors during the period of their administration. Speculations The choice to vest the freehold directly in the children while routing the leasehold through executors was perhaps a deliberate institutional design balancing two competing concerns. The freehold required a perpetual holder, and vesting it in the children gave the family the security of recorded ownership across generations. The leasehold, by contrast, carried active obligations of rent, fence maintenance and adherence to the disposal restriction, which required responsible adult parties to discharge. Matthew Bazett and James Gregory accordingly held the leasehold in trust for the children, providing the Company with named adult parties for the working management of the ground while preserving the children's underlying ownership of both freehold and leasehold portions. The arrangement converted what might otherwise have been |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | an unworkable child-tenancy into a structured fiduciary arrangement, with the executors taking responsibility for the practical management until the children reached the age and capacity to assume it themselves. The dual structure also gave the Company a clearer line of recovery if rental obligations went unmet, since the executors would have been personally accountable in a way that minor children could not be.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 167 | 162          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Deed to Fra[ncis] Wrangham The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies Do hereby Confirm Unto Frances Wrangham Freeholder, Ten Acres of Land formerly Richard Stacys (deceased) towards y[e] Head of Chapple Valley, Buting &amp; bounding towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of Henry Francis Freeholder, towards y[e] East &amp; West upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]ys Wast Land, &amp; towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of Benjamin &amp; Sich, ALSO Ten Acres of Land more formerly Jno Hawkin[s] (dec[ease]d) buting towards y[e] North East &amp; West upon y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]ys Wast Land, and towards the South upon their Cattle Pasture Land. ALSO Seventeen Acres of Land under y[e] Main Ridge Butting towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land belonging to John Bagwell and Vesers Richards y[e] East upon Sandy Bayside Towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of y[e] s[ai]d Cole, &amp; towards y[e] West upon y[e] s[ai]d Hon[ble] Comp[a]ys Pasture. ALSO Ten Acres of Land Abutting towards y[e] North upon y[e] said y[e] s[ai]d Frances, Towards y[e] East upon y[e] Land of aforesaid Jno Bagwell Towards y[e] South &amp; West upon y[e] before named Jn[o] Brown and Heire And ALSO Eight Acres of Land, Buting towards y[e] North of y[e] s[ai]d &amp; Benj[ami]n Sich, Towards y[e] East upon the Land of James Riders, towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of Gabriel Powel, and towards y[e] West upon the Land of y[e] aforesaid Tho[mas] Harris Being five p[ar]cells of Land, &amp; in y[e] whole containes, Fifty Five Acres, Which he y[e] said Frances Wranghams Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too as may appear more largely upon examination in a Consultation of y[e] Third &amp; A. A. day of February One Thousand Seven and Thirteen, and Notice being given by beat of Drum for any p[er]son to make their claime on a certain day therein Limitted, but none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold y[e] said premises to him y[e] said Frances Wrangham his Heires &amp; Assignes for ever, Upon Condition That he y[e] said Frances Wrangham his Heires and Assigns, Do and Shall bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, her Heires &amp; Successors and to y[e] said Honourable Comp[a] &amp; their Successors, And shall duly obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of y[e] said Island, In witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] to this p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale Seale at their Castle on y[e] said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. A. in y[e] year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Francis Wrangham. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Francis Wrangham, freeholder, five parcels of land totalling 55 acres. The first parcel of 10 acres, formerly the deceased Richard Stacy's, lay towards the head of Chapel Valley. It was bounded north by Henry Francis freeholder's land, east and west by the Company's waste land, and south by Benjamin Sich's land. The second parcel of 10 acres, formerly the deceased John Hawkins's, was bounded north, east and west by the Company's waste land, and south by the Company's cattle pasture land. The third parcel of 17 acres lay under the Main Ridge. It was bounded north by the land of John Bagwell and Vesers Richards, east by Sandy Bay side, south by Cole's land, and west by the Company's pasture. The fourth parcel of 10 acres was bounded north by Wrangham's own land just described, east by John Bagwell's land, and south and west by John Brown and his heir's land. The fifth parcel of 8 acres was bounded north by Benjamin Sich's land, east by James Rider's land, south by Gabriel Powell's land, and west by Thomas Harris's land. Wrangham's title rested on a consultation of 3 February 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Francis Wrangham, his heirs and assigns were to hold the parcels for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...] Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The 55-acre confirmation across five dispersed parcels marks Francis Wrangham as one of the most geographically distributed substantial freeholders to receive a same-day grant in the major 4 August 1713 sitting. The five parcels stretch from the head of Chapel Valley through the Sandy Bay region under the Main Ridge, with no contiguous block but rather a network of holdings reflecting accumulated acquisitions over time. The deed name Francis Wrangham extends to the head of the document and to the body, indicating the masculine form Francis (with no terminal s as in the female name Frances) and confirming his identity as the active male holder elsewhere documented as the husband of the widow of an earlier Francis Wrangham who later married Henry Francis. The recurrence of the name Francis across two Wrangham generations creates documentary confusion but the present 1713 deed treats him as a single living male freeholder. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The first parcel's identification as formerly Richard Stacy's introduces a new earlier holder into the records. Richard Stacy, deceased, had held the Chapel Valley parcel before its reversion to or reallocation by the Company. The continuation of his name as the working byname for the ground reflects standard institutional practice of preserving the chain of earlier holders within boundary descriptions. The second parcel's identification as formerly John Hawkins's similarly preserves the chain of title to another earlier holder, now deceased. Hawkins represents a new individual in the documented cohort, with the holding having reverted through his death and been reissued to Wrangham within the 1711 framework. The boundary references record several additional individuals whose presence in the institutional landscape has not been previously documented. John Bagwell appears as a holder of land north of the third parcel and east of the fourth, indicating a substantial Sandy Bay tenure. Vesers Richards may be a corrupted rendering of Vesey or a separate individual named Richards; the underlying reading remains uncertain. John Brown and his heir represent another holder cluster, with the heir reference indicating that John Brown himself was either deceased or that the parcel was being held in family settlement. Thomas Harris emerges as a freeholder adjoining the fifth parcel to the west. The third parcel's eastern boundary against Sandy Bay side fixes the parcel's geographic position at the very edge of the cultivated Sandy Bay region, with the Atlantic shoreline forming the limit of the holding rather than another holder's ground. The configuration places this portion of Wrangham's estate at a frontier or coastal position rather than within a densely interlocking cluster. The fifth parcel sits within a particularly dense cluster of holders, with Benjamin Sich to the north, James Rider to the east, Gabriel Powell to the south and Thomas Harris to the west. All four named neighbours had appeared elsewhere in the 1713 sitting or in earlier records, with Sich as part of the Sich/Sech family, Rider as the same as James Reder (variant spelling), and Powell as a substantial freeholder. The fifth parcel thus sits at a documentary nexus point connecting multiple regularised estates. The same-day witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander indicates the confirmation was processed within the earlier portion of the sitting, before the procedural withdrawal of Alexander seen in the later closing instruments. The full witnessing complement marks the deed as a substantial title meriting the senior procedural weight. Henry Francis's signature as witness here is notable because his own land formed the northern boundary of Francis Wrangham's first parcel. The presence of the adjoining freeholder as a witness silently affirmed his acceptance of the boundary line, paralleling the same arrangement seen earlier in the day with John Bagley's confirmation. The mutual witnessing pattern reduced the risk of future boundary disputes by binding adjoining holders into the documentary record of each other's titles. The reference to the Company's cattle pasture as the southern boundary of the second parcel marks the Company's livestock operations as a recognised institutional landscape feature, with its boundary acting as a fixed reference in private holdings. The cattle pasture appears alongside the great plantation as one of the Company's principal direct working properties, with private freehold sitting against rather than within it. Speculations The five-parcel structure of the confirmation perhaps reflects a deliberate accumulation strategy by Francis Wrangham over the years preceding the 1711 framework. Rather than holding a single consolidated estate, he had built up his working position through the acquisition of multiple distinct parcels from the estates of various |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | deceased earlier holders, including Richard Stacy, John Hawkins and others whose ground had reverted to the Company on their deaths. The 1711 framework accordingly regularised his entire accumulated holding through a single confirmation, with the five parcels representing the cumulative result of his earlier private dealings now brought together in one institutional record. The pattern shows the Company using the new tenure framework not to allocate fresh ground but to formally recognise the working estates that substantial planters had quietly built up through purchases from succession or reversion. The mechanism converted a complex private accumulation, with parcels acquired over time at different prices and through different routes, into a clean single freehold title that could be administered going forward through the new institutional apparatus.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 168 | 163          | Island St Helena Comp[a] Lease to Francis Wrangham The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Company of Merch[an]ts of England Trading to y[e] East Indies, Do hereby Demise Let and Set unto Francis Wrangham Freeholder, Three Acres of Gumwood Land, Scituate &amp; being in Peak Gutt, butting &amp; bounding towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of Sam[ue]l Wranghams Orphans Towards y[e] East &amp; South upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]: Waste Land, and towards y[e] West upon y[e] Land of y[e] Heires of Gov[ernor] Keeling, ALSO Two Acres more of Cabbagetreeland, butting toward[s] y[e] North &amp; West of y[e] said Frances Wranghams ow[n] Land, towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of John Coles, and towards y[e] West on y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]: Pasture Land. To have and to hold the aforesaid two p[ar]cels of Land containing in y[e] whole Eleven Acres of Land to him y[e] said Francis Wrangham his Executors Administrators and Assignes, for y[e] Tearne &amp; Time of Twenty one Years, Commencing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition That he y[e] said Francis Wrangham his Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes, shall always Do and bear true faith, &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires &amp; Successors, And to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of y[e] said Island, And Yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) The Annual Rent, &amp; Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five shillings per Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant money of y[e] said Island unto y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors. And that he y[e] said Frances Wrangham his Executors Administrators and Assignes shall &amp; Do at y[e] Expiration of y[e] said Tearne of Twenty one years, Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repaire as they are now, and not to alter y[e] Fences which are y[e] Land marks, &amp; which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of y[e] Plot hereunto Annexed, Nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in y[e] same without consent of y[e] Gov[ernor] &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being, In witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a]: &amp; Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Francis Wrangham. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Francis Wrangham, freeholder, two parcels of land totalling 11 acres. The first parcel of 3 acres of gumwood land in Peak Gut was bounded north by Samuel Wrangham's orphans' land, east and south by the Company's waste land, and west by the heirs of Governor Keeling's land. The second parcel of 2 acres of cabbage tree land was bounded north and west by Wrangham's own land, south by John Cole's land, and west by the Company's pasture land. The boundary description gives west twice, once on the Wrangham side and again on the Company pasture side, perhaps reflecting a scribal slip in the original where two different bearings should have been recorded. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Wrangham, his executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcels during that period. The lease bound Wrangham and his successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Wrangham was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. He was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. Francis Wrangham signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, H[...] Francis and John Alexander. The combined parcels totalled 5 acres, not the 11 stated in the deed. The arithmetic of the document is internally inconsistent: the recital records 3 plus 2 acres but states the whole as 11 acres. The discrepancy is a textual feature of the original deed and is preserved here without resolution. Interpretations The lease paired with the 4 August 1713 freehold confirmation to give Francis Wrangham a combined working estate across multiple regions of the island, with |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--------------------|-----------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | A. day of August. A. in y[e] year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, And y[e] said Francis Wrangham, to y[e] other p[ar]t hath sett his Hand and Seale. Fran[cis] Wrangham Sealed and Delivered in the p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason[?] H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | the 5 or 11 leased acres (depending on the resolution of the internal discrepancy) supplementing his 55 acres of confirmed freehold. The lease completes the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging seen across the major sitting, demonstrating the consistent institutional pattern. The first leased parcel's location in Peak Gut places it directly adjacent to Samuel Wrangham's orphans' freehold on the north and to Governor Keeling's heirs on the west. The configuration confirms the dense interlocking of Wrangham family interests in Peak Gut, with Francis as the active adult holder of leasehold ground immediately adjoining the inherited freehold of the orphans of his deceased brother or kinsman Samuel Wrangham. The arrangement places Francis as the working manager of a combined family presence in Peak Gut, with his own lease wrapping around the orphans' inheritance. The 29 January 1718 assignment of the orphans' 2-acre leasehold to Francis Wrangham, recorded in the earlier instrument, confirms his role as the family's working consolidator. Francis was already operating adjoining leasehold in 1713 and accepted the further 2-acre Wrangham orphans' lease in 1718, building up a single block of leasehold under his direct management. The orphans' freehold passed separately to Jo[h]n Wrangham, leaving the leasehold concentration to Francis. The gumwood classification of the first parcel reflects the lower-elevation vegetation type, distinguishing it from the cabbage tree classification of the second parcel. The two categories carried different administrative significance under the 1711 framework, with gumwood ground typically used for fuel and timber and cabbage tree ground for more permanent cultivation. The dual classification across a single lease shows Wrangham's working estate spanning both vegetation zones. The second parcel's reference to John Cole's land on the south records a continuing presence of the Cole family in the area, building on John Coles's earlier substantial 1713 confirmation. The exact identity of this John Cole as the same individual as John Coles in the same-day confirmation cannot be confirmed from the present text, but the proximity of the two records in the same sitting suggests they refer to the same freeholder. The same-day witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the full witnessing complement used across the principal instruments of the day. The presence of Henry Francis as a witness here, given that his own land formed the northern boundary of the freehold parcel confirmed in the same sitting, illustrates the mutual witnessing pattern by which adjoining freeholders attested each other's documentary records. The pattern continued to operate across the lease procedure as well as the freehold confirmations. The internal arithmetic discrepancy of 3 plus 2 totalling 11 acres rather than 5 acres reflects either a scribal copying error in the engrossment or an underlying drafting confusion at the moment of preparation. The deed records two parcels with specified boundaries and acreages, but the total stated does not match the sum of the parts. The discrepancy is preserved in the present text without resolution because the original document carries the inconsistency. The substantive identification of the leased ground depends on the boundary descriptions rather than the stated total, with the working extent perhaps closer to the 5 acres calculated from the parts than to the 11 acres stated as the whole. Speculations The 11-acre figure stated as the total may perhaps reflect a different arithmetic understanding of the parcels than the simple addition of the two named acreages. The 3-acre gumwood parcel and the 2-acre cabbage tree parcel may have been measured by the parts of the original survey or plan, while the 11-acre stated total may have included additional ground covered by the same lease that was not separately described in the body. Alternatively, the figures |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | may have been transcribed across the engrossment from a different draft, with the underlying drafting having undergone revision between the surveyed acreage and the institutional sealing. The most likely resolution is that the deed contains a simple scribal slip, with either the parcel acreages or the total figure incorrect. The internal inconsistency would have been institutionally inconsequential in practice, since the operative legal description of the leased ground depended on the boundary descriptions and the annexed plan rather than on the stated total acreage. The discrepancy nonetheless reveals the practical limits of accurate engrossment under the pressure of a major coordinated administrative sitting clearing many instruments in a single day.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 169 | 164          | Island St Hellena Comp[a] Deed to Dan[ie]l Gr[iff]eth] Heirs The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United English East India Comp[a] of Merch[an]ts of England Tradeing to y[e] East Indies, Do hereby Confirm Unto y[e] Heires of Daniel Griffeth (dec[ease]d) Ten Acres of Land formerly Jonathan &amp; Beales, and since in y[e] Possession of Gabriel Powell, Scituate at a place known by y[e] Name of y[e] Pigsbaine Beds, buting and bounding towards y[e] North-East &amp; West, upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]: West Land, and towards the South upon y[e] Land of y[e] said Jonatham Beals Lands, Which said Ten Acres of Land, the Heires of y[e] said Dan[ie]l Griffeth, Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too, As may more largely appear, upon, Exami- nation in a Consultation of y[e] day of One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by beat of Drum, for any Person to make their on a day certain therein Limitted, But none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to y[e] said Heires of y[e] said Dan[ie]l Griffith, him her, or them in any of their Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition. That y[e] said Heires him her or them or any of their Heires and Assignes, shall always Do, and bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, Her Heires &amp; Successors, and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]: &amp; their Successors, And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and Constitutions of y[e] said Island, In witness y[e] same whereof the said Hon[ble] Company to these p[re]sents have sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this day of In y[e] year of our Lord One Thousand &amp; A. Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] p[re]sence of: | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to the heirs of Daniel Griffeth. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United English East India Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to the heirs of the deceased Daniel Griffeth 10 acres of land formerly Jonathan Beale's and since in the possession of Gabriel Powell. The parcel sat at a place known as the Pigsbaine Beds. It was bounded north, east and west by the Company's waste land, and south by Jonathan Beale's lands. The heirs' title rested on a consultation of [...] 1714 (the precise date is left blank in the deed), with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. The heirs of Daniel Griffeth, their respective heirs and assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on [...] 1713. The date of execution and the witnesses are not recorded in the present document. Interpretations The deed represents the first documentary confirmation that Daniel Griffeth, the long-tenured clerk of the council, was deceased by 1713. Earlier records had shown Griffeth as fourth in council and as executor of William Dufton (1708) and William Doveton (1707 to 1708), with his active presence as clerk persisting through the early years of the 1711 framework. His appearance here as the deceased holder whose heirs received the freehold confirmation indicates his death occurred between the early operation of the 1711 system and the consultation of 1714 that supported this confirmation. The chain of title routes through Jonathan Beale (deceased) to Gabriel Powell (intermediate possessor) and to Daniel Griffeth (whose heirs now hold the freehold). The intermediate possession by Powell, who had earlier been a substantial land trader with dealings including the May 1704 Peak Gut transactions and the September 1706 purchase of 50 acres from Hoskison, places him as a temporary holder of the Pigsbaine Beds parcel between its earlier Beale ownership and its eventual settlement on the Griffeth heirs. The configuration suggests Powell had acquired the parcel from the Beale estate at some point and transferred it onward to Griffeth before the latter's death. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | The Pigsbaine Beds is a distinctive working byname for the location, perhaps referring to a particular ground where pigs were prevented from grazing or where pig-resistant plants grew. The naming pattern matches other distinctive bynames preserved in the institutional record: Two Gun Ridge, Diana's Geak, Welley's Land, Church's Land, Sexton's Ground, Writing Stone Ridge and the Purslane Bed. The bynames provided a working geographical vocabulary independent of the more formal valley-based designations and reflected the practical knowledge of the working community. The southern boundary against Jonathan Beale's lands records the persistence of Beale family holdings in the area despite the central 10-acre parcel having passed through Powell to Griffeth. The configuration shows the central parcel as an enclave or carved-out portion of a larger Beale estate, with the surrounding ground continuing in Beale family possession. The Jonathan Beale named here may be the same individual whose orphans held the Purslane Bed identified in earlier records, with the family persisting as substantial holders across multiple regions. The vesting in the heirs of Daniel Griffeth collectively, without naming individuals, follows the pattern used for the Wrangham orphans, the Maxwell orphans, the Desfountain children (where named individually) and the Keeling heirs. The variation between named and unnamed vestings reflects the institutional flexibility in how children's or heirs' interests were recorded, with the choice perhaps depending on the heirs' ages, the family's preference, or the availability of clear documentation of individual interests at the time of the confirmation. The blank consultation date and blank execution date within the body of the deed indicate that the present record is an incomplete engrossment, matching the pattern seen in the Keeling heirs' confirmation and the Margaret Sich confirmation in earlier sittings. The shared institutional practice of preparing confirmations in advance with later completion suggests the Griffeth heirs' deed remained unexecuted at the time of recording in the register. The absence of any signatures, sealing details or witness names reflects the incomplete state of the document rather than a defect in the confirmation itself. The deed was perhaps drafted in advance of an expected sealing that never took place, or the formal execution occurred at a session whose detailed record is not preserved in the present extract. Speculations The blank dates and absent witness panel point to the Griffeth heirs' confirmation perhaps having been prepared in advance but never received its final formal sealing. The heirs may have been minor children unable to attend the ceremonial execution, or the family may have been in some state of administrative transition following Daniel Griffeth's recent death. Griffeth's long service as clerk and executor would have made his estate particularly complex, with his fiduciary roles for the Dufton and Doveton families requiring institutional unwinding before his own estate could be cleanly settled. The council may have drafted the freehold confirmation in advance as part of an overall package of estate regularisation but left the dates and witnesses blank pending the resolution of the wider settlement. The Griffeth heirs' incomplete instrument accordingly represents either a procedural delay in the larger estate administration or a deliberate institutional choice to prepare the documentary record without immediate execution while the heirs' position was being clarified. |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 170          | 165          | Island St Helena The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merch[an]ts of England Tradeing to y[e] East Indies, Do hereby Demise Lett &amp; Sett unto y[e] Heires of her[?] Daniel Griffeth (dec[ease]d) Twenty Acres of Land, Scituate in a Branch of James Vally, buting and bounding towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of James Rider, towards y[e] East upon y[e] Land of Jonath[an] Doveton freeholder, towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of Jonathan Beals Orphans, and towards the West upon y[e] Land of Benjamin Sich, ALSO One Acre &amp; one Quarter of an Acre of Land Comp[a] Lease Scituate at y[e] Bottom of Peak hill near y[e] Mountain Beds, buting toward y[e] North-East-West &amp; to Daniel South, upon y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a] West Land, being two p[ar]cells of Land, and in y[e] whole Griffeth heirs contains Twenty one Acres &amp; one quarter of an Acre. To have and to hold The said Twenty one Acres and a quarter to aforesaid Unto him her or them, Heires of y[e] before named Dan[ie]l Griffeth, dec[ease]d or any of him her, them in their Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes for y[e] Terme &amp; Time of Twenty one Years Commenceing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Twelve. Upon Condition. That y[e] Heires of y[e] said Dan[ie]l Griffeth they or any of them their Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes Shall always do &amp; bear true, Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, her Heires &amp; Successors. And to y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a]: &amp; their Successors. And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of the said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary (being y[e] 25 day of March) the Annual Rent &amp; Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five shillings per Annu[m] in good &amp; Currant Money of y[e] said Island, Unto y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a]: &amp; their Successors, And that y[e] Heires or Heires of y[e] said Dan[ie]l Griffeth, their or any of their Heires Executors Administrators &amp; Assignes, shall &amp; Do, at y[e] Expiration of y[e] said Terme &amp; Time of Twenty one years, Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair, as they are now, and not to alter y[e] said Fences which are y[e] Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of y[e] Plott hereunto Annexed, Nor to dispose of this Lease, or Interest in y[e] same without consent of y[e] Gov[ernor] &amp; Coun[c]ell for y[e] time being. In Witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a]: and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. A. A. day of August. One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, and y[e] said dec[ease]d | Island of St Helena. Company lease to the heirs of Daniel Griffeth. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to the heirs of the deceased Daniel Griffeth two parcels of land totalling 21¼ acres. The first parcel of 20 acres lay in a branch of James Valley. It was bounded north by James Rider's land, east by Jonathan Doveton freeholder's land, south by Jonathan Beale's orphans' land, and west by Benjamin Sich's land. The second parcel of 1¼ acres lay at the bottom of Peak Hill near the Mountain Beds. It was bounded north, east, west and south by the Company's waste land. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with the heirs, their executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcels during that period. The lease bound the heirs and their successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, the heirs were to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. They were not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or their interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. The Griffeth heirs sealed the counterpart. The witness panel is not recorded in the present document. Interpretations The lease paired with the same-day Griffeth freehold confirmation to give the heirs a combined working estate of 31¼ acres across two regions of the island. The 10-acre Pigsbaine Beds freehold and the 20-acre James Valley leasehold formed the principal components, with the small 1¼-acre Peak Hill parcel adding a third dispersed element. The configuration matches the pattern of dispersed accumulations seen elsewhere in the 1713 sitting, with the Griffeth estate building up holdings across multiple distinct locations. The 20-acre James Valley parcel sits at the heart of a densely interlocking cluster of holders confirmed in the same sitting. James Rider on the north, Jonathan Doveton on the east and Benjamin Sich on the west all received same-day instruments or were named in adjoining records, while Jonathan Beale's orphans on the south represented an additional orphan estate within the institutional landscape. The reciprocal boundary mapping demonstrates the council's coordinated approach to fixing multiple interlocking titles within a single working session. |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|--------------------|-----------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Dan[ie]l Griffith Heires to y[e] other p[ar]t hath Sett his Hand and Seale.Sealed and Delivered In the P[re]sence of: | The second parcel's location at the bottom of Peak Hill near the Mountain Beds introduces the Mountain Beds as a new working byname. The naming pattern matches the Pigsbaine Beds of the same-day freehold confirmation, suggesting the bed terminology was used for ground in particular high-elevation locations on the island. The Mountain Beds may relate to the elevated cultivation grounds below the main ridge, with the byname reflecting the practical geographical vocabulary of the working community. The fractional acreage of 1¼ acres for the second parcel demonstrates the precise surveying that supported the 1711 framework. Earlier records had shown similar fractional measurements in the Doveton confirmation (20.25 acres), the Steward lease (1¼ and 2¼ acre parcels) and elsewhere. The Company invested in accurate measurement of even very small parcels to ensure the institutional record matched the working ground precisely. The vesting clause records an unusually flexible formulation: him, her or them, indicating the council had not committed in advance to a particular gender or number of heirs. The phrasing suggests the actual number and identity of the Griffith heirs had not been settled at the time of drafting, or that the council was preserving flexibility for later resolution. The formulation parallels the joint and several vesting used elsewhere but extends it to include the possibility of a single male, single female or multiple heirs. The absence of any witness panel in the present record matches the incomplete state of the Griffith freehold confirmation processed in the same sitting. Both Griffith instruments appear to have been drafted in advance but were never received their final formal execution with witnesses present. The pattern is consistent with the heirs being in some transitional administrative state, perhaps still being identified or still being represented through a guardian whose appointment had not yet been formally made. The same-day pairing of the freehold confirmation and the leasehold extension reflects the standard institutional design of the 1711 framework, even in cases where the heirs themselves were not present to receive the documents. The Company processed the estate's regularisation according to the established pattern, leaving the practical completion of execution for a later moment. The Daniel Griffith named here as deceased had served as the long-tenured clerk of the council, as fourth in council by 1713, and as executor of William Dufton and William Doveton. His death between his active service in the early 1711 framework and the consultation supporting the present 1713 instrument removed a key administrative figure from the council and creates a particular institutional irony: the very clerk who had supervised many of the earlier deeds in the register had become himself the subject of one of its later entries. Speculations The Griffith heirs' incomplete documentary state perhaps reflects the institutional complications arising from the death of a senior council member whose own fiduciary roles required careful unwinding before his estate could be cleanly settled. Griffith had served as executor for both William Dufton and William Doveton, with continuing obligations for the management of those estates including the placement of children as apprentices and the maintenance of children's portions. His death would have required the appointment of substitute executors for those existing fiduciary roles before his own estate could proceed to formal confirmation. The blank dates and absent witnesses in both Griffith instruments may accordingly reflect a deliberate council decision to draft the documents in advance, while pausing the formal execution pending the resolution of the wider administrative tangle created by Griffith's death. The institutional choice to record the unexecuted documents |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|---------------------|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | in the register nonetheless preserved the substantive content of the confirmation and lease for later completion, with the council perhaps intending to return to the Griffeth estate once the prior fiduciary obligations had been transferred to a substitute. The mechanism shows the 1711 framework operating with sufficient flexibility to accommodate the complications of a clerk's own death within the system he had himself helped to administer.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 171 | 166          | Island St Helena. Comp[a] Deed to John Good[w]in The Lords Proprietors of this Island The Hon[ble] United Comp[a] Company of Merch[an]ts of England Tradeing to y[e] East Indies, Do hereby Confirm Unto John Goodwin freeholder, Son of Tho[s] Goodwin (dec[ease]d), Fifty two Acres of Land, Buiting &amp; Bounding upon the Hon[ble] Comp[a] great Pastures, in occupied y[e] West upon y[e] Lands of Mary Hoskison Widow, Which said Fifty two Acres of Land he y[e] said John Goodwin Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too, As may more Largely appear upon Examination in a Consultation of the Third &amp; A. day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by beat of Drum for any p[er]son to make their Claim on a day certain therein Limitted, But none appearing or any objection made. To have and to hold, the said P[re]misses to him y[e] said John Goodwin, his Heires &amp; Assignes for ever Upon Condition That he the said John Goodwin his Heires &amp; Assignes, Shall &amp; Do always bear true, Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires &amp; Successors, and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of y[e] said Island, In witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on Said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. In y[e] year of our Lord. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in y[e] p[re]sence of: Tho[s] [Cason?] H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to John Goodwin. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to John Goodwin, freeholder, son of the deceased Thomas Goodwin, 52 acres of land. The parcel was bounded by the Company's great pastures, and on the west by the lands of Mary Hoskison widow. The remaining bounds are not recorded in the present text. Goodwin's title rested on a consultation of 3 March 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. John Goodwin, his heirs and assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The 52-acre confirmation marks John Goodwin's institutional recognition as the son of the late Thomas Goodwin, the former governor. The deed sits within the same coordinated 4 August 1713 sitting that processed his mother Frances Goodwin's 89-acre estate, and confirms the family arrangement by which Thomas Goodwin's holdings were divided between his widow and his son. The two confirmations together demonstrate a deliberate split of the consolidated Goodwin estate, with Frances taking the principal residential ground and John receiving a distinct adjoining holding. The boundary description identifying the Company's great pastures as one bound places the parcel in close proximity to the Company's principal livestock operations. The great pastures appear repeatedly across the records as a fixed institutional landscape feature, marking the limit between private freehold and the Company's direct working ground. John Goodwin's holding accordingly sat at the edge of Company territory. The western boundary against Mary Hoskison widow's land places her again as a named freeholder in her own right, following her appearance as the western boundary of James Greentree's leasehold in the same sitting. The two references confirm that Mary Hoskison held substantial ground in her own name by 1712, with the earlier 6 July 1708 mortgage arrangement between George Hoskison and Richard Gurling having evolved into recognised independent tenure for Mary by the time of the 1713 confirmations. The description of John Goodwin as son of Thomas Goodwin, without the more specific designation son and |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | heir, distinguishes the present confirmation from other primogeniture instruments in the same sitting. The Charles confirmation had identified William Charles as son and heir of the late Paul Charles, and the Greentree lease had identified Benjamin Greentree as son and heir of the late John Greentree. The omission of the heir designation in John Goodwin's case may reflect that Frances Goodwin's separate absolute freehold of 89 acres had already discharged the principal inheritance, leaving John's confirmation as a son's allocation rather than as an heir's primogeniture. The same-day pairing of the Frances Goodwin and John Goodwin confirmations represents a coordinated administrative settlement of the late governor's estate. The council processed both deeds within the major sitting, with the widow's deed and the son's deed sealed together to fix the entire Goodwin family settlement in a single working day. The structural pattern mirrors other family confirmations processed in the same sitting where multiple members of a single family received simultaneous regularisation of their respective interests. The consultation date of 3 March 1714 in modern reckoning, which falls in old calendar 1713, places the examination of John Goodwin's title between the 17 March consultation supporting his mother's confirmation and the 3 February consultations supporting the Johnson holdings. The narrow window between the three consultation dates demonstrates that the council was actively examining the Goodwin and Johnson estates within a concentrated period of weeks during early 1714. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the full witnessing complement used across the principal instruments of the 4 August 1713 sitting. The full panel marks the deed as a substantial title meriting senior procedural weight, in contrast to the reduced panels seen in the closing sequence of leasehold instruments. Speculations The absence of any eastern or southern boundary description in the present text perhaps reflects a defect in the engrossment rather than the actual configuration of the parcel. The deed records only two of the four expected boundaries, with the great pastures on one side and Mary Hoskison on the west, leaving the eastern and southern bounds unspecified. The omission may be a scribal slip in the copying of the deed into the register, with the original instrument carrying the full boundary description but the register entry abbreviating or omitting the remaining bounds. The institutional record nonetheless treated the title as valid through the recital that John Goodwin had a just right and title, with the underlying physical extent presumably fixed by the annexed plan rather than by the textual description alone. The choice to vest a separate 52-acre holding in John Goodwin, distinct from his mother's 89 acres, was perhaps a deliberate institutional design to give the son an independent freehold base from which to operate. The arrangement gave him security against any future remarriage by his mother, since his title would remain unaffected by changes in her domestic circumstances. The structure also recognised John's adulthood and capacity to manage land in his own name by 1713, separating him from the position of contingent remainderman that the 1705 Bevean settlement had established. The 1713 confirmation accordingly converted his earlier expectancy into a present working freehold, marking his coming of age as a substantial freeholder in his own right within the family settlement. The configuration of John Goodwin's 52 acres adjacent to the Company's great pastures may perhaps reflect a particular family connection to the Company's livestock operations. Thomas Goodwin had served as storekeeper and gunner's mate before rising to governor, and the family may have maintained working relationships |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | with the Company's pastoral operations across his career. The placement of John's confirmed estate at the edge of the great pastures would have allowed him to continue any such working arrangements with the Company's livestock administration, perhaps including informal grazing rights, agistment, or supply contracts that operated outside the formal documentary record.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 172 | 167          | Island St Helena. The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of England Trading to y[e] East Indies, Do hereby Demise Lett &amp; Sett unto John Goodwin Freeholder Five Acres of Land, Buiting towards y[e] North, East &amp; South upon his own 52 Acres of Land, and towards the West, upon y[e] Hon[ble] Companys Wast Land, To have and to hold The said Five Acres of Land, to him the said John Goodwin his Executors Administrato[rs] To y[e] and Assignes, for the Terme and Time of Twenty one Year[s] Commenc[e]ing from the Twenty Comp[a] Lease fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Upon Condition to John That he the said John Goodwin his Executors Administrators and Assigns Shall always Goodwin Do and bear true Faith and Allegiance To our Sovereign Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to the said Hon[ble] United Company and their Successors. And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, being the 25 Day of March) the Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Ann[u]m in good and Currant money of the said Island, Unto the said Hon[ble] Company and their Successors, And that he the said John Goodwin his Executors Administrators and Assignes Shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one Years, Leave the Fences about y[e] said Land in as good repair as they are now, and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks, and which will Occasion the Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without Consent of y[e] Gov[ernor] and Councill for the time being In witness whereof the said Hon[ble] United Comp[a] and Lords Proprietors to these P[re]sents Have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Vally this Fourth A. day of August. In the year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And the said Jn[o] Goodwin to the other part hath Sett his Hand and Seale. Jn[o] Goodwin Sealed and Delivered In y[e] P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Company lease to John Goodwin. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to John Goodwin, freeholder, 5 acres of land. The parcel was bounded north, east and south by Goodwin's own 52 acres, and west by the Company's waste land. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1713, with Goodwin, his executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound Goodwin and his successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Goodwin was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. He was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. John Goodwin signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for John Goodwin's estate, giving him a combined working holding of 57 acres with the 5 leased acres tucked into the western corner of his 52-acre freehold. The configuration places the leased parcel as a small extension into adjoining Company waste, with three sides bordered by Goodwin's own freehold and the fourth open to the Company's unallocated ground. The lease commencement date of 25 March 1713 marks a critical departure from the standard pattern seen across the rest of the 4 August 1713 sitting. Every other lease processed in the same session commenced from 25 March 1712, giving a back-dating of approximately 17 months from execution to commencement. John Goodwin's lease commences from 25 March 1713, only four months before execution, a much shorter institutional interval. The difference suggests either that the John Goodwin parcel had been a fresh allocation rather than a regularisation of existing occupation, or that the council had taken a particular institutional decision to date the lease from the most recent Lady Day rather than from the standard 1712 framework date. The 52 acres of freehold confirmed in the same-day deed appear here as own 52 acres, attesting to Goodwin's possession of the freehold ground that the same sitting |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | had just regularised. The cross-reference between the freehold confirmation and the lease shows the institutional integration of the two instruments, with each deed referencing the other to fix the working extent of the combined estate. The western boundary against Company waste places the small leased parcel at the frontier between regularised settlement and unallocated ground. The configuration suggests John Goodwin had been pushing his working occupation slightly beyond the bounds of his confirmed freehold into the Company's adjacent waste, with the 1713 lease formally recognising the small encroachment under the controlled terms of the new tenure framework. The disposal restriction operated as the principal institutional control, with John Goodwin holding a personal interest in the leasehold that could not move to a new occupier without council approval. The restriction protected the Company's supervisory role over the marginal ground while permitting Goodwin to work it as an extension of his consolidated estate. The full witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the senior procedural weight given to John Goodwin's freehold confirmation in the same sitting. The use of the full panel rather than the reduced quorum seen in some closing leasehold instruments reflects the recent and substantial character of the John Goodwin family settlement, with both the freehold and the leasehold receiving full witnessing complements. The standard rental of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum, applied as much to the son of a former governor as to soldiers, free planters and orphans. The Company's flat-rate institutional pricing operated uniformly across all categories of holder, with John Goodwin paying the same per-acre rate as the Wrangham orphans and the Desfontain children whose leases had been processed earlier in the same day. The fence maintenance obligation operated as a documentary requirement, with the fences serving as the legal landmarks tying the lessee's occupation to the annexed plan. John Goodwin bore responsibility for preserving the boundary as drawn, with any alteration of the fences requiring the production of a revised plan. Speculations The 25 March 1713 commencement date, departing from the standard 25 March 1712 date used across the rest of the sitting, perhaps reflects the particular institutional treatment of the Goodwin family settlement following Thomas Goodwin's recent death. The death of the former governor, occurring at some point between his last documented activity and the March 1714 consultation supporting the present confirmations, may have prompted the council to handle the family estate's regularisation on a different timeline from the broader 1711 framework. The 1713 lease commencement places the small parcel as a fresh allocation made specifically in connection with John Goodwin's coming into his inheritance, rather than as a regularisation of pre-existing occupation that would have been back-dated to align with the standard framework. The very small 5-acre size of the leased parcel, set against the 52 acres of freehold, suggests it represented a particular working unit rather than an independent agricultural holding. The configuration with three sides formed by Goodwin's own freehold points to a wedge of Company waste that had been included in the working occupation but had not formed part of the original chain of title supporting the freehold confirmation. The lease accordingly served to regularise a small piece of ground that John Goodwin had been working alongside the family estate without having any formal title to it, with the 1713 framework providing the institutional mechanism to bring the working unit under documentary cover. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|---------------------|--------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | The lease may perhaps also have served a defensive purpose against any future claim by adjoining holders or by the Company itself. By taking out a formal lease over the small 5-acre extension, John Goodwin secured a recognised legal interest in the ground that protected him against any later challenge to his occupation. The 21-year term would carry him through the entire likely productive period of the parcel under his personal management, while the disposal restriction kept the underlying Company ownership intact in case the family later sought to extend their interest. The mechanism converted an informal occupation into a documented tenancy, giving John Goodwin clear institutional standing on the marginal ground at the modest cost of the standard rental.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 173 | 168          | Island St Helena The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Trading to the East Indies. Do hereby Confirm unto Robert Addiss Freeholder Fifteen Acres of Land Scituate in Sandy Bay, butting Comp[a] Deed and bounding towards the North and East upon Eight Acres of Land y[e] said Addiss to Rob[t] Hires of the Honourable Company, and towards the South and West upon the Land of James Addis Greentree Freeholder Which said Fifteen Acres of Land, He y[e] said Robert Addiss Hath a Just Right and Title too, As may more Largely appear Upon Examination in a Consultation of the Third &amp; A. A. day of March. One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by Beat of Drum, for any person, to make their Claim on a certain day therein Limitted But none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold The said premises to him the said Robert Addiss his Heires and Assignes for ever. Upon Condition That the said Robert Addiss his Heires and Assignes shall and Do always bear true, Faith &amp; Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors and to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors. And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island. In witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a] to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in the p[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Robert Addis. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Robert Addis, freeholder, 15 acres of land in Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded north and east by 8 acres that Addis hired from the Company, and south and west by James Greentree freeholder's land. Addis's title rested on a consultation of 3 March 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing so. Robert Addis, his heirs and assigns were to hold the parcel for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The 15-acre Sandy Bay confirmation regularised Robert Addis's holding within the dense cluster of interlocking estates that the 4 August 1713 sitting brought into formal recognition. Addis appears under variant spellings across the records, with the same individual rendered as Adley, Adlis and Adley in earlier instruments. The present deed records the form Addiss in the body and Addis in the running marginal heading, both with double s, perhaps reflecting a scribal preference at this point in the engrossment. The southern and western boundary against James Greentree's freehold confirms the reciprocal mapping between Addis and Greentree. Greentree had received same-day confirmation of three parcels in Sandy Bay totalling 60 acres, with one of those parcels recording Robert Adles as the southern and western boundary holder. The two confirmations attest each other's bounds through the coordinated session, with each freeholder's deed providing institutional confirmation of the adjoining holding. The northern and eastern boundary against the 8 acres Addis hired from the Company indicates a leasehold extension operating outside the present deed. No same-day lease for those 8 acres appears in the present sequence, but the reference within the freehold confirmation served to fix the boundary and to establish Addis's combined |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|--------------|--------------|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              |                   | working presence of 23 acres in Sandy Bay when freehold and leasehold are taken together. The configuration with Greentree's freehold to the south and west and Addis's own hired Company ground to the north and east places Addis at a particular nexus point within the regularised Sandy Bay landscape. The 15-acre freehold sat as a secure core wedged between the larger Greentree estate and the Company-managed leasehold ground that Addis worked under separate tenure. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the full witnessing complement used across the principal instruments of the day. The full panel marks the deed as a substantial title within the same procedural weight as other freehold confirmations of similar size, including those of John Bagley and the Goodwin family. The consultation date of 3 March 1714 in modern reckoning, which falls in old calendar 1713, matches the consultation date supporting the James Greentree confirmation processed in the same sitting. The two estates were examined together by the council, confirming the deliberate institutional grouping of adjoining holders within single consultation sessions. The continued variation in spelling of Robert Addis's name across the documentary record demonstrates the practical flexibility of the period's scribal practice. The same individual could appear as Addis, Addiss, Adles, Adlis or Adley within different instruments processed by the same clerks, without the variations creating any apparent difficulty for the institutional process. The cabbage tree or gumwood classification of the leased ground is not specified in the present text, leaving the institutional categorisation of Addis's combined Sandy Bay estate unrecorded. The omission contrasts with most other Sandy Bay confirmations and leases in the same sitting where the vegetation classification was carefully recorded, perhaps reflecting a scribal abbreviation in the present engrossment. Speculations The very specific positioning of the freehold immediately adjacent to the hired 8 acres on the north and east suggests Robert Addis had acquired the freehold rights to ground he had previously worked under Company lease. The 1711 framework operated principally to regularise existing occupation, and the configuration of the present deed points to Addis having converted a portion of his working estate from leasehold to freehold during the consultation process. The 8 acres remaining under lease may represent ground that the council was unwilling to release into freehold, perhaps because of strategic Company concerns about the eastern portion of his working estate, or perhaps because Addis himself had chosen to convert only the more secure central portion while leaving the marginal extension under the more flexible leasehold tenure. The reciprocal witnessing arrangement between Robert Addis and James Greentree across their respective same-day confirmations served a practical institutional function in fixing the boundary between two substantial Sandy Bay holdings. Although Addis does not appear as a witness on Greentree's deed in the present record, the mutual boundary references across the two confirmations would have been sufficient to bind each holder to the agreed line. The pattern reduces the risk of future boundary disputes through documentary attestation rather than through physical marking alone, with each freeholder's deed serving as institutional confirmation of the adjoining holding. The single Company lease of 8 acres adjoining the freehold may perhaps have served a longer-term strategic purpose for Robert Addis. The 21-year term of the standard 1711 lease would carry Addis through to 1733 with secured access to the additional ground at the modest |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|---------------------|--------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 shillings per annum rate, while the disposal restriction kept the underlying Company ownership intact for future renegotiation. The arrangement gave Addis the working flexibility of a small extension without committing him to the larger capital outlay or institutional obligations of a freehold confirmation over the full combined estate. The pattern would suit a holder building up his working position step by step within the framework of the new tenure system, with each portion taken up under the form best suited to its character.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 174 | 169          | Island St Helena The Lords Proprietors of this Island, the Honourable United Comp[a] of Merch[an]ts of England Trading to y[e] East Indies, Do hereby Demise Lett &amp; Sett unto Robert Addiss Freeholder, Eight Acres of Land Scituate in Sandy Bay, butting and a bounding towards y[e] North upon y[e] Hon[ble] Comp[a]: Pasture Land (Stiled in y[e] Possession of Lieut[ena]nt Comp[a] Lease Thomas Cason, towards the East upon y[e] Land of Jam[es] Greentree Freeholder, towards y[e] West to Robert upon y[e] Land of Mary Hoskison, and towards y[e] South upon y[e] said Rob[t] Addiss own Land Addiss To have and to hold The said Eight Acres of Land to him y[e] said Robert Addiss his Executors Administrators and Assignes, for y[e] Terme &amp; Time of Twenty One Years Commencing from y[e] Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Twelve, Upon Condition That he y[e] said Robert Addiss his Executors Administrators and Assignes Shall and Do, always bear true, Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, her Heires and Successors and to y[e] said Hon[ble] Comp[a]. and their Successors. And shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws and Constitutions of y[e] said Island, And yearly pay at y[e] Annunciation of y[e] Blessed Virgin Mary, being y[e] 25 day of March, the Annual Rent and Sum of Four Shillings per Acre besides one Shilling duty, being in all Five Shillings per Annu[m] in good and Currant money of y[e] said Island, Unto y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a] and their Successors, And that he y[e] said Robert Addiss his Executors Administrators &amp; Assigns, Shall and Do at y[e] Expiration of y[e] said Terme of Twenty one years, Leave y[e] Fences about y[e] said Land, in as good repair as they are now, And not to alter, y[e] said Fences which are the Land marks, and which will Occasion y[e] Alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, Nor to dispose of this Lease or Interest in y[e] same, without y[e] Consent of y[e] Gov[ernor] and Coun[c]ell for the time being. In Witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Company to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Robert Addis. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Robert Addis, freeholder, 8 acres of land in Sandy Bay. The parcel was bounded north by the Company's pasture land currently in the possession of Lieutenant Thomas Cason, east by James Greentree freeholder's land, west by Mary Hoskison's land, and south by Robert Addis's own land. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1712, with Addis, his executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcel during that period. The lease bound Addis and his successors to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, Addis was to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. He was not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or his interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Robert Addis signed and sealed the counterpart. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for Robert Addis's Sandy Bay estate, giving him a combined working holding of 23 acres with the 8 leased acres extending the 15-acre freehold confirmed in the same-day deed. The southern boundary against his own land cross-references directly to the freehold confirmation, with each instrument attesting the other's bounds. The northern boundary against the Company's pasture land currently in the possession of Lieutenant Thomas Cason introduces a particular institutional complication. Cason had received the 27 July 1711 Welley's Land lease of 40 acres in Sandy Bay as ensign, and |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------------|-----------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 | Castle on y[e] said Island this Fourth A. A. day of August in y[e] year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred &amp; Thirteen, And y[e] said Robert Addiss to y[e] other p[ar]t hath sett his Hand &amp; Seale. Rob[er]t Addis Sealed and Delivered in the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] CasonH Francis Jn[o] Alexander | the 4 August 1713 lease of a further 5 acres as lieutenant. The present reference describes adjoining ground as Company pasture in his possession, which suggests Cason held some portion of Sandy Bay ground under arrangements other than the formal leases recorded elsewhere. The configuration may reflect either an informal grazing arrangement, an unrecorded lease, or the possibility that Cason was managing Company pasture in some official capacity as a senior officer. The witness panel includes Thomas Cason as the first signatory, with his name immediately followed by Henry Francis and John Alexander. Cason therefore appears in two capacities within the same single instrument: as the named occupier of the adjoining Company pasture forming the northern boundary, and as the principal witness to the seal. The dual role illustrates the closely knit character of the literate circle that managed the 1711 framework, with the same individuals attending many of the day's instruments while simultaneously holding adjoining ground. The eastern boundary against James Greentree freeholder's land and the western boundary against Mary Hoskison's land place the leased parcel within the same densely interlocking cluster of holders confirmed throughout the day. Greentree had received his 60-acre freehold confirmation and 25-acre leasehold earlier in the sitting, and Mary Hoskison had appeared repeatedly as a named boundary holder across multiple instruments. The configuration places Addis's 8 leased acres at a central nexus point bordered on each side by a different category of tenure: Company pasture under Cason's working occupation, Greentree's freehold, Mary Hoskison's tenure, and Addis's own freehold. The lease commencement date of 25 March 1712 matches the standard back-dating used across the rest of the 1713 sitting, contrasting with the unusual 25 March 1713 commencement seen in the John Goodwin lease. The standard 17-month interval between commencement and execution applied to most regularisations of existing occupation, with the John Goodwin variation marking that lease as an exception perhaps connected to the Goodwin family settlement following Thomas Goodwin's death. The disposal restriction continued to operate as the principal institutional control. Addis held a personal interest in the leasehold that could not move to a new occupier without council approval, blocking the open market in leasehold interests that had previously operated through private assignment. The cabbage tree or gumwood classification of the leased ground is not specified in the present text, matching the omission in the same-day freehold confirmation. The absence of vegetation categorisation from both Addis instruments contrasts with the careful classification recorded in most other Sandy Bay leases of the day and may reflect a scribal abbreviation in the engrossment of the Addis pair. Speculations The reference to Company pasture currently in the possession of Lieutenant Thomas Cason perhaps reveals an institutional arrangement by which senior officers held working occupation of Company ground without formal leasehold documentation. Cason's two recorded leases of 1711 and 1713 covered 45 acres of Sandy Bay ground, but the present description of additional pasture in his possession suggests his actual working estate extended beyond what the formal leases captured. The arrangement may have been a courtesy extended to officers responsible for Company livestock operations, allowing them practical management of pasture ground in their official capacity while keeping the formal title in the Company's name. The pattern would suit an institutional design where the active officers managing the Company's pastoral assets could draw on adjoining ground without the need for full leasehold conversion. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|---------------------|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | The position of Mary Hoskison as the western boundary of the Addis leased parcel and as a recurring boundary holder across multiple 1713 instruments may perhaps reflect a particular institutional treatment of her interests following the 6 July 1708 mortgage arrangement. The original mortgage had headed as a mortgage but functioned as a lease for Mary's life, with George Hoskison conveying the working interest to Richard Gurling for an annual payment over the measuring period of Mary's lifetime. The repeated naming of Mary Hoskison as a boundary holder across multiple Sandy Bay instruments by 1712 and 1713 suggests that the underlying working occupation had become identified with her name in the institutional record, regardless of the more complicated underlying legal arrangement among Hoskison, Gurling and Mary. The pattern shows the documentary regime catching up to the practical reality of who held and managed the working ground, with the formal records reflecting Mary's recognised position even where the formal title arrangements were more layered. The same-day pairing of the freehold confirmation and the leasehold extension demonstrates Addis's positioning within the literate circle of substantial Sandy Bay holders. The full witnessing complement on both instruments, the reciprocal boundary references with Greentree, and the carefully integrated configuration with Mary Hoskison and Cason's pasture all suggest Addis was a recognised member of the working network rather than a peripheral or marginal holder. The institutional treatment of his estate accordingly matches the procedural weight given to Greentree and the Goodwin family, marking him as a substantial freeholder within the regularised Sandy Bay landscape.  |
| 175 | 170          | Island St Helena The Lords Proprietors of this Island the Hon[ble] United Comp[a] of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies Do hereby Confirm unto Margaret Sich Wid[ow] &amp; Freeholder, &amp; y[e] Heires of John Sich her Husband (dec[ease]d), Forty Acres of Gumwood Land Comp[a] Scituate &amp; Lying towards y[e] North upon y[e] Lands of Fran[cis] Wrangham, towards y[e] East upon y[e] Land of Deed to James Rider, towards y[e] South upon y[e] Lands of Henry Francis &amp; Fran[cis] Wrangham, towards y[e] West upon y[e] Marg[t] Hon[ble] Comp[alys] Wast Land, ALSO one other Parcel of Cabbagetreeland containing Twenty Acres formerly Sich belonging to John Alexander, Scituate &amp; Lying towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of James Rider, towards the East on y[e] Land of Jonathan Beals Orphans towards y[e] South on y[e] Land of John Long &amp; towards the West on y[e] Land of y[e] aforesaid James Rider, And also One other p[ar]cel more of Cabbagetreeland containing Ten Acres, Scituate &amp; lying towards y[e] North upon y[e] Land of James Rider, towards the East upon y[e] Land of y[e] said Beals Orphans towards y[e] South upon y[e] Land of Jn[o] Robinson &amp; Char[le]s Steward and towards y[e] West | Island of St Helena. Deed from the Company to Margaret Sich. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, confirmed to Margaret Sich, widow and freeholder, and to the heirs of her deceased husband John Sich, three parcels of land totalling 70 acres. The first parcel of 40 acres of gumwood land lay bounded north by the lands of Francis Wrangham, east by James Rider's land, south by the lands of Henry Francis and Francis Wrangham, and west by the Company's waste land. The second parcel of 20 acres of cabbage tree land, formerly belonging to John Alexander, was bounded north by James Rider's land, east by Jonathan Beale's orphans' land, south by John Long's land, and west by James Rider's land. The third parcel of 10 acres of cabbage tree land was bounded north by James Rider's land, east by Jonathan Beale's orphans' land, south by the lands of John Robinson and Charles Steward, and west by James Rider's land. Margaret Sich's title rested on a consultation of 3 February 1714, with public notice given by beat of drum on a fixed day for any rival to come forward, none doing                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

| BL Image No. | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|--------------|--------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |              | on y[e] Land of y[e] said James Rider, The said Three p[ar]cels of Gumwood &amp; Cabbagetree Land contain[s] in y[e] whole Seventy Acres, Which she y[e] said Margaret Sich &amp; y[e] Heires of y[e] said John Sich deceased, Hath a Just Right &amp; Title too as may appear more largely upon Examination in a Consult- ation of y[e] Third &amp; A. A. day of February, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And Notice being given by beat of Drum, for any p[er]son to make their Claim on a certain day therein Limitted, But none appearing or any Objection made. To have and to hold The said p[re]misses to her y[e] said Margaret Sich and y[e] Heires of y[e] said John Sich Decea[se]d, Their, and every of their Heires &amp; Assignes for ever. Upon Condition. That she the said Margaret Sich, and y[e] Heires of y[e] aforesaid John Sich, Decea[se]d, their and every of their, Heires and Assignes, Do bear always true, Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne her Heires and Successors, and to y[e] said Honourable Comp[a] and their Successors, and shall duly Obey all y[e] Laws &amp; Constitutions of y[e] said Island, In witness whereof y[e] said Hon[ble] United Comp[a] and Lords Proprietors to these p[re]sents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle on y[e] said Island this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. in y[e] Year of our Lord, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Thirteen. Sealed and Delivered in the P[re]sence of: Tho[s] Cason H[?] Francis Jn[o] Alexander | so. Margaret Sich and the heirs of John Sich, deceased, their respective heirs and assigns were to hold the parcels for ever, on condition of allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and obedience to the laws of the island. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle on the island on 4 August 1713. Witnessed by Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander. Interpretations The 70-acre confirmation establishes Margaret Sich as one of the most substantial individual landholders in the 4 August 1713 sitting, with her combined estate when added to the same-period leasehold reaching 78 acres. Earlier records had treated the Sich confirmation as incomplete with blank dates and an apparent gap in the engrossment, but the present text provides a complete record with full consultation date, sealing date and witness panel. The complete engrossment indicates the deed received its formal execution within the major sitting rather than being held in draft form pending later completion. The double vesting in Margaret Sich and the heirs of John Sich deceased preserves the second-marriage children's settlement that Margaret had carefully constructed through the 4 February 1705 buy-out of her son Richard Swallow's reversionary interest for £140 0s 0d. The structure protected the descent of the estate to her children by John Sich rather than to her son by her first marriage, while still giving her absolute working possession during her lifetime. The Company recognised the underlying family settlement and embedded it within the institutional regularisation of the freehold. The first parcel of 40 acres of gumwood land sits within a particularly tight cluster of family-connected boundaries. Francis Wrangham appears on both the northern and southern bounds, indicating that the parcel was effectively wedged between two portions of his estate. Henry Francis appears as the southern co-boundary with Wrangham, reflecting the family connection between Francis and the Wrangham line through Francis's marriage to the widow of an earlier Francis Wrangham. The configuration shows the Sich, Wrangham and Francis estates closely interlocked at the head of Chapel Valley. The second parcel of 20 acres of cabbage tree land, formerly belonging to John Alexander, records an earlier disposal by the long-tenured register of his own ground to the Sich estate. Alexander had built up substantial accumulations across the records, including the 1701 Bidott and Grandy purchases, the 1712 Elinor Cotgrave purchase of 70 acres in Youngs Valley, and the 1712 Lufkin tenement purchase for £170 0s 0d in store credit. The disposal of 20 acres from his holdings to the Sich estate indicates an active management of his portfolio, with parcels moving between his personal estate and the wider community of substantial holders. The recurring boundary references to James Rider across all three Sich parcels demonstrate the dominant position of the Rider/Reder estate in the same area. Rider appears on three sides of two different parcels, indicating that his ground formed a substantial block around which the Sich holdings were distributed. The configuration places Margaret Sich's freeholds as smaller distinct units within a larger landscape dominated by Rider's estate. The reference to Jonathan Beale's orphans on the eastern boundary of the second and third parcels marks the continuing presence of the Beale family in the area through the orphan generation. Beale's orphans had earlier appeared as boundary holders in the Doveton confirmation of 1711 and in other instruments, with the orphans operating as a recognisable collective tenure unit across the regularised landscape. John Long appears on the southern boundary of the second parcel, building on his earlier appearances as boundary holder in the Cleve-Greentree James Valley sale of June 1715, the Reder confirmation of June 1711, and in |

| BLImageNo. | DocumentNo. | OCR Transcription | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                    |                 |                   | the consultation book cross-references for orphan maintenance arrangements. The repeated appearances confirm Long as a settled holder across multiple regions of the island by 1713. John Robinson and Charles Steward on the southern boundary of the third parcel connect to their respective same-day or near-period confirmations. Robinson had received the 1 August 1711 lease of 20 acres of gumwood, and Steward had received the 4 August 1713 confirmation of 17 acres and a 27-acre leasehold across four parcels in Sandy Bay. The mutual boundary reference reflects the dense interlocking of substantial holdings across the southern portion of the regularised landscape. The witness panel of Thomas Cason, Henry Francis and John Alexander matches the full witnessing complement used across the principal instruments of the day. The presence of Henry Francis as a witness, given that his own land formed the southern boundary of the first parcel, illustrates the mutual witnessing pattern by which adjoining freeholders attested each other's documentary records. Speculations The repeated configuration of James Rider on multiple boundaries of the Sich parcels perhaps reflects a particular working arrangement between the Rider and Sich estates that the formal documentary record only partly captures. The geometry by which Rider appears on three sides of one parcel and three sides of another suggests the two estates were not simply adjacent but functionally interwoven, with Rider's ground forming a containing matrix around the smaller Sich freeholds. The arrangement may have arisen through a sequence of partial sales or family settlements that left the Sich portions as defined enclaves within a larger originally unified estate, perhaps before James Rider's death and the subsequent transition of his holdings to his son and heir. The formal boundary descriptions accordingly record the geometric result of an underlying family or trading history that the deed itself does not narrate. The choice to record the 20-acre cabbage tree parcel specifically as formerly belonging to John Alexander, while making no comparable identification of earlier holders for the 40-acre gumwood parcel or the 10-acre cabbage tree parcel, perhaps reflects a deliberate documentary strategy. The Alexander identification fixed the chain of title against any future claim by his heirs or assigns, given his long-standing role as register and his accumulated personal portfolio. The reference accordingly served both to honour the documentary chain of provenance and to provide protection against later disputes that might have arisen from Alexander's continuing institutional presence. The other two parcels may have come into Sich hands through routes that did not require comparable defensive identification, perhaps from earlier reversions to the Company or from settlements not anchored to a particular named prior holder. The double vesting in Margaret Sich and the heirs of John Sich, with the unusual width of the formula extending to their and every of their heirs and assigns, perhaps reflects the particular complexity of the family settlement that Margaret had constructed through her two marriages and two sets of children. The formula gave the council institutional confidence that the title was protected against any number of competing claims from different family branches, with the broad vesting language accommodating multiple possible lines of inheritance. The structure suggests Margaret had been thinking carefully about the protection of her children by John Sich against any potential disputes with her son by her earlier Swallow marriage, with the documentary form embedding the protection at the moment of confirmation. |

| BL Image No.        | Document No. | OCR Transcription                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Modern Summary with Analysis                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                     |              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 176 | 171          | Island St Helena The Lords Proprietors of this Island, the Hon[ble] United Company of Merchants of England Tradeing to the East Indies, Do hereby Demise Lett and Set unto Margaret Sich, Widow, and Free holder, and the Heires of John Sich her (Deceased) Husband Four Acres of Land Butting and Bounding towards the North upon the Land of Henry Francis, towards the East upon the Land of James Rider, towards the West upon the Lands Comp[a] of Francis Wrangham, and towards the South upon their own Forty Acres of Land. ALSO Lease to Two Acres of Land more, butting towards the North-West and South to the said Margaret[s] Marg[ret] Land at the Head of Chapple Vally, and towards the East upon the Lands of Jonathan Beals Sich Orphans, And also Two Acres of Cabbagetree Land more, Butting towards the North upon y[e] towards the South upon the Land of John Robinson, and Charles Steward, and towards y[e] West upon the Land of the said Charles Steward, and John Bagley. All which said Three parcels of Land contains in the whole, Eight Acres, To have and to hold, the said Eight Acres of Land to her the said Margaret Sich, and the Heires of the said John Sich dec[ease]d, their Executors Administrators and Assignes, for the Terme and Time of Twenty one Years, Commencing from the Twenty fifth day of March, One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen. Upon Condition That She the said Margaret Sich, and the Heires of the said John Sich dec[ease]d, her Him her, or any of their Heires Executors and Administrators, Shall always Do and bear true Faith and Allegiance to our Sovereigne Lady Queen Anne, her Heires &amp; Successors and to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a] and their Successors, And shall duly Obey all the Laws and Constitutions of the said Island, And yearly pay at the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, being the 25 day of March, the Annuall Rent and Sum of Four Shillings p[er] Acre besides one Shilling duty being in all Five Shillings p[er] Annu[m] in good and Currant money of the said Island, to the said Hon[ble] Comp[a]. and their Successors. And that she the said Margaret Sich, and the Heires of the said John Sich dec[ease]d, her him their or any of their Heires Executors and Administrators, shall and Do at the Expiration of the said Terme of Twenty one years Leave the Fences about the said Land in as good repair, as they are now, and not to alter the Fences which are the Land marks, and which will Occasion the alteration of the Plott hereunto Annexed, nor dispose of this Lease or Interest in the same without the Consent of the Governour and Council for the time being. In witness whereof the said Hon[ble] United Comp[a]. and Lords Proprietors to these presents have Sett their Common Seale at their Castle in James Valley this Fourth &amp; A. day of August. A. In the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and Thirteen, And she the said Margaret Sich to the other part hath Sett her Hand &amp; Seale. Benj[amin] SichSealed and Delivered In the Presence of: Tho[s] CasonH[?] Francis | Island of St Helena. Company lease to Margaret Sich. The Lords Proprietors of the island, the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, leased to Margaret Sich, widow and freeholder, and to the heirs of her deceased husband John Sich, three parcels of land totalling 8 acres. The first parcel of 4 acres was bounded north by Henry Francis's land, east by James Rider's land, west by Francis Wrangham's lands, and south by her own 40 acres of freehold. The second parcel of 2 acres lay at the head of Chapel Valley. It was bounded north, west and south by Margaret's own land, and east by the lands of Jonathan Beale's orphans. The third parcel of 2 acres of cabbage tree land was bounded north by [...], south by the lands of John Robinson and Charles Steward, and west by the lands of Charles Steward and John Bagley. The term ran for 21 years from 25 March 1713, with Margaret, the heirs of John Sich deceased, their executors, administrators and assigns holding the parcels during that period. The lease bound them to maintain allegiance to Queen Anne and her successors and to the Company, and to obey the laws of the island. Annual rent of 4s 0d per acre plus 1s 0d duty, amounting to 5s 0d per annum in current island money, fell due on 25 March each year. At expiration of the 21 years, they were to leave the fences in the same repair as they then stood. They were not to alter the fences, which served as the landmarks and would also alter the plan annexed to the lease, nor to dispose of the lease or their interest in it without the consent of the governor and council. The Company affixed its common seal at the Castle in James Valley on 4 August 1713. The counterpart was sealed by Benjamin Sich, signing for or on behalf of Margaret Sich. Witnessed by Thomas Cason and H[...]. Francis. Interpretations The lease completed the same-day freehold-plus-lease packaging for Margaret Sich's estate, giving her a combined working holding of 78 acres across the various parcels. The 8 leased acres distributed across three small parcels supplement the 70-acre freehold confirmed in the same-day deed, with each leased parcel tucked into a particular corner of the wider estate. The first leased parcel of 4 acres adjoins the southern boundary of Margaret's 40-acre freehold. The cross-reference between the two instruments shows the leasehold extension directly above the freehold, with Henry Francis to the north, James Rider to the east and Francis Wrangham to the west framing the small parcel within the same family-connected cluster that surrounded the freehold. The second leased parcel of 2 acres at the head of Chapel Valley sits with three of its four sides formed by Margaret's own land, indicating a small enclave fully embedded within her existing holdings. The configuration shows the leased ground as a wedge of Company waste that had been absorbed into the working occupation of the surrounding freehold, with the 1713 lease formally |

